during our national existence should have been effected in great measure by the employment of the most genuine patriotism, while the accomplishment of this revolution appeals to the interest and the understanding of the people were not wanting, they were far less influential than the singing of party songs, or the display of party symbols, which were rather suggestive of a low civilization, than of any political sentiment or line of public policy. It was humiliating and discouraging, that when argument and eloquence fell powerless into insignificance, the clamoring of ballads, not always free from ribaldry and the display of coonskins, cider barrels and log cabins, swayed the minds of people calling themselves intelligent: that the simplicity, not to say the coarseness expressed in these songs, or typified in these emblems of frontier life, was made to appear to be a better qualification for the presidential chair than talents, or if it be called for, the Golden Spoon, which was suggested by the fabled gold spoon of the occupant of the White House. The Whig was not backward in pointing out during its progress the ridiculousness of the campaign, and the danger to the interests of the country of elevating barrenness, mediocrity, and rustic plainness to the dignity of presidential qualifications.

The Whig, as originally published, by Mr. Green, was a small folio sheet of five columns to the page, which were eighteen inches and one-half inch in length, and two inches and quarter inch in width. It was completely printed from bourgeois type, the editorial matter being leaded, upon a coarse, dark paper of good weight. The caption was in small block letters, and without vignette, or motto. Very soon after Mr. Mullikin took charge of the paper it was enlarged by the addition of one column to the page which was lengthened by about one inch and widened to the extent of one column. The paper was printed completely from the same type, except that the editorials were from brevier or nonpareil leaded. The quality of the paper was slightly improved. The caption was changed to small-faced roman letters. In this form, without material change, it continued to be printed until its destruction by fire. Mr. Sherwood when he became editor in 1836 adopted as an epigraph the well known political aphorism: "The price of liberty is perpetual vigilance." When first established the Whig was published upon Tuesdays of each week but after Dec. 4th, 1832, it was issued twice a week, on Tuesdays and Saturdays, during the sessions of Congress, and upon Tuesdays only, during the remainder of the year. During the life of the Republican Star, that paper had been the authorized medium for the publication of the laws of the United States: after its extinction the Whig was adopted as this medium, which it and its successor, the Star, continued to be until the custom of publishing the laws of the Union in the public journals of the rural districts was abolished. The price of the paper was at first, two dollars and a half dollar per annum, but when it began in 1832 to be issued twice a week, its price was first raised to three dollars and subsequently to four dollars. Its terms of advertising were the same as those of the other county papers. Its place of publication was at first, upon Washington street just below the Bank. It was subsequently changed to an office which stood precisely where the Easton Star office now stands, on Federal street, opposite the north end of the Court House. It was in this office which, with its contents, was burned.

Hereafter an account of the Easton Star, which succeeded the Whig, will be given.

COUNTRY COUSINS COME TO TOWN.—A farmer's wagon in which were seated a family of eight, yesterday drove up to a house on Beaubien street, and leaving his team at the curbstone the farmer knocked on the door, drummed on the windows, and seemed determined to get in at every hazard. When all efforts had failed he returned to the wagon, hitched the horses, and the family sat down on the grass to wait. A lad who had watched the performance passed around the corner and suddenly discovered the boy whose parents lived in the house.

"Here, mother, there's a whole family trying to get into your house!" he shouted.

"But they are visitors," continued the other.

"Don't I know all about it?" growled the hiding boy; "didn't mam and I see 'em drive up, and didn't we scoot out of the back door as the feller came through the gate? I'm here and mam's over in that house, and we feel like some one ought to boot dad all over town."

"Why, what did your father do?"

"What did he do? Why, he was out in the country, buying poultry and rags, and he stopped at a farm house, and made 'em believe he was a distant relative and got his dinner for nothing. He came home and told it as a big joke, and grinned around for a week, but now I want to see him when he comes up to dinner and finds them 'relashuns' squatted around the gate! Do they show any signs of leaving?"

"Nary sign," replied the other as he climbed the fence.

"Well let 'em stick. Mam won't come home. I'll be gone, and if this turns out a Black Friday for dad it'll serve him right. Lets go where we can see his knees wobble as he turns the corner and sees his relashuns covering half an acre of ground."

A Certain Cure for Rheumatism.

Dr. Franz Zellar is an enthusiast in the administration of caustic ammonia in rheumatism. For several years he had been a sufferer from severe muscular rheumatism in the right shoulder; he had taken all the anti-rheumatic remedies, with but little alleviation, when he began to reason that in rheumatism, as in gout, there may be a uric acid diathesis, he thought that liquor ammonia, on account of its rapid volatilization, would be the remedy most readily absorbed and the most prompt in action. In almost the same moment in which he took one drop, diluted with water, he felt a complete relief from the pain, which had lasted for ten hours; he was now able to move freely the arm which, an instant before, he could scarcely bear to have touched. The remedy, he claims, has proved a positive cure in all recent cases of muscular rheumatism which have fallen under his observation; he cites numerous cases in which relief, as instantaneous as his own, was experienced. He also observed its effect in several cases of acute articular rheumatism, in two of which six drops sufficed to subdue the pain and swelling within a period of twenty-four hours. In one case of chronic rheumatism of a finger joint, which had lasted for over half a year, the simple administration of the ammonia completely dispelled the inflammation and pain in the joint within two days. He then discusses the the mode of action of his remedy: "If we consider an excessive acidity as the cause of rheumatism, we can scarcely claim, in the cases in which one drop will instantaneously relieve pain in recent rheumatism, that one drop was sufficient to counteract the effect of the excess of uric or, according to Fuller, lactic acid.

Little Things.

Little villages are nearer to being atoms of shattered paradise than anything we know of; and little fortunes bring the most content, and little hopes the least disappointments.

Little words are the sweetest to hear; little charities fly furthest, and stay longest on the wind; little lakes the stillest, little hearts the fullest, and little farms the best tilled.

Little books are the most read, and little songs the most loved. And when nature would make anything especially rare and beautiful, she makes it little; little pearls, little diamonds, little dews.

'Everybody (says a writer,) calls that little that they love best on earth. We once heard a good sort of a man speak of his little wife, and we fancied that she must be a perfect little bijou of a wife. We saw her, and she weighed two hundred and ten pounds; we were surprised. But then it was no joke; the man meant it. He could put his wife in his heart.'

"Old Windications" is what the "Graphic" calls him. There is a great deal of blow about him, that's a fact; and he often disgusts us, too.

The Czar undertook to make the present war a holy one, and it looks as if it was about all he could do to crawl out of the hole he has got in to.

Many men are beginning to think of the time when they will have to resolutely face one of the two alternatives—shovel off the snow or commit suicide.

What is the difference between a poor gun and a borrowed masquerade costume? One is fired and doesn't hit, and the other is hired and doesn't fit.

"Clergymen," remarked an exchange, "like railway trakemen, do a good deal of coupling." Ay, yes; and then the coupled ones do all the switching.

DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

This well known and medicine effects so many WONDERFUL CURES, And restored so many sufferers to health, that it becomes a duty to make its virtues known.

The Standard Remedy

A CASE OF CONSUMPTION.

CHATTERSBURG, N. H., March 20 1861.

Messrs. Wm. W. Fowle & Son: Gentlemen—I feel in duty called upon voluntarily to give my testimony in favor of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I was taken sick last October with what some thought was complicated with a very severe cough, and after having been treated a number of weeks by the best physicians they gave me over as an incurable case of consumption, and for about six weeks my friends expected I might die any day, having entirely despaired of my recovery. At the time I read the advertisements and cure Stories of the Wild Cherry Balsam, and was induced to try it myself. I have taken two bottles, and from the commencement I have made gradual recovering. My cough has now entirely ceased. I attribute the cure to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, as I have taken no other medicine since I commenced taking that. Very respectfully yours, MRS. MILES S. SMITH

Messrs. Fowle & Son: Gentlemen—Mrs. Smith gives us the foregoing certificate of the efficacy of your medicine in her case. She is an acquaintance of mine, and took the Balsam on the strength of my certificate, which she saw in the papers. Her story is literally true. Yours truly, W. H. JONES.

BLEEDING AT THE LUNG.

Pursam, Conn., March 20, 1860.

Gentlemen—I avail myself of the opportunity to say a word in behalf of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, which I have made use of in my family for several years, and always with the most beneficial results. My wife's lung of delicate health has at times been troubled with a hard, dry, hacking cough, whenever taking a little cold, and has employed various specifics without obtaining any relief, until prevailed upon to test the virtues of Wistar's Balsam, the effect of which has been truly astonishing.

More than a year since a young man belonging in this place was taken with bleeding at the lungs, in connection with a most severe cough, and was finally given over to die by our best physicians and it was evident to all that consumption was claiming him as a victim. Learning these facts my wife sent him a bottle of the Balsam, which he took, and in due time, to the great astonishment of his friends, was at his accustomed occupation, snatched, as it were, from the very jaws of death. In many other cases we have admin stered the Balsam to the consumptive, and always with the best of success. These statements are simple facts, which can be vouched for at any time by calling on me at my store. I remain truly yours, JOHN B. DARLING.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

The Chearpest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World!

ASK the recovered dyspeptics, bilious sufferers, victims of fever and ague, the mercurially diseased patient, how they recovered health, cheerful spirits and good appetite; they will tell you, by taking SIMMON'S LIVER REGULATOR.

For DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, Jaundice, Bilious attacks, SICK HEADACHE, Colic, Depression of Spirits, SOUR STOMACH, Heart Burn, &c., &c.

This unrivalled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which an all wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

THE SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately costive and lax; Headache, loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done; Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes; a dry Cough often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue.

I can recommend as an efficacious remedy for disease of the Liver, Heartburn and Dyspepsia, Simmons' Liver Regulator. LEWIS G. WEMMS, 1402 Market Street, ASSISTANT POST MASTER, PHILADELPHIA.

"We have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. We have tried forty other remedies before Simmons' Liver Regulator, but none of them gave us more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved, but cured us."—*Ed. $5,000 Worth of Boots and Shoes thrown on the Easton Market.

The daily increasing demand for a certain quality and style of Boots and Shoes, is an evidence of the popular favor in which our stock is held by the community generally. We keep none but the best make, and sell at the very lowest prices, and we venture to assert that have not their equal in the market. We have just received the largest invoice that we have ever before ordered of those celebrated boots and shoes, being almost an impossibility to keep the demand supplied, and we are offering them still, at the same low price. Persons in want of a good Boot or Shoe, should examine our stock, and they will be sure to purchase, as they commend themselves to purchasers at sight, to say nothing of the wide reputation by the hundreds who have purchased the same make before. In addition to this class, we have the most complete stock of

Ladies and Misses, Boys and Youths Boots and Shoes,

of every quality, style and price, and we defy competition Call early and see for yourselves, as our stock is just opened. Our stock of

is very large and complete, and goods are marked down! down!! down!!! so that all can buy without embarrassment. Our stock of was never larger and more complete than at present, and we are selling them very close, indeed. An examination will be all sufficient to prove what we here assert. We respectfully invite our many friends and customers to call and see us at our old stand on Market Space.
