A number of our citizens have recently installed electric lights in their homes, thereby reducing the number of gas customers. Eventually, the maintenance of the gas plant will not be profitable to the town: either that, or too expensive for the few users. The town is large enough for both lights, especially as acteylene gas is not suitable for heat.

GERMAN WATCHES SELLING IN UNITED STATES MARKET FOR $1.33.

Time pieces made in Germany are being distributed among members of Congress as an argument for American valuation plan in connection with the pending tariff bill. Mrs. Harding has also been the recipient of one of the watches. The watch given Mrs. Harding, apparently a very valuable one, cost $1.33 after all duty had been paid. This was because of the fact that it was manufactured by labor paid in cheap German money and was imported into this country and valued on the basis of depreciated German currency. The German mark under normal conditions, as in pre-war days, was worth 24 cents. Today it is worth between one-third and one-half of a cent; and it is upon the basis of such depreciated currency that German imports are valued.

AS FORTY TO ONE

In an address to a trade association at Birmingham a little while ago one Peter O. Knight of Tampa, Fla., in a review of national tendencies past and present laid down the proposition that these United States of America are "the most governed and the worst governed" of all the countries of the world. As proof of the first part of his statement he pointed out that we have now 700,000 Federal officeholders. Added to that the city officeholders, the county officeholders, the township and the State officeholders, and we now have one official to every 40 people in the United States.

A vast army of "tax-eaters" if the Floridan's figures are right! A horde as great as the armies that contended on the Western front. Year by year an easy-going, sentimental people is led to establish another Federal bureau of some kind to make places for more clerks, more stenographers, more chief clerks, more third assistant sub deputy acting bureau chiefs.

The States have the habit also, and the counties. The cities are old offenders. The payroll of any modern big city looks like the muster roll of an army corps.

Yet there be folk who are not pessimist, who cannot see that the nation is any better governed today than it was before the rank growth of bureaus, divisions, departments and sections. There is neither delusion nor illusion, however, about government costing more.

"The most governed and the worst governed." There is something to think over in what the man from Tampa had to say at Birmingham.

When a boy begins to think more of the fashion plate than of the dinner plate, it is a sign he is falling in love.

There is a general demand for world harmony, but up to date the powers have all been trying to sing solos at the same time.

If a congressman makes speeches, he is accused of playing politics and if he doesn't make any, they say he is doing nothing.

Not merely will women sit in most legislative bodies from now on, but they are likely to sit on them if they don't show more sense.

It is denied that American girls are not serious minded, as they are devoting very earnest attention to improving their good looks.

Claimed that the forces of law and order have got the crooks on the run, but that may be merely because the crooks have just held up somebody and are making their getaway.

Baseball is being straightened out by Judge Landis, and Will Hays is attending to the movies but so far no one has attempted to regulate the flappers.

The socially inclined telephone subscribers of Westminster should permit the other parties on their line to use the same at least a few minutes every day.

NEW STUNNING SPORT MODEL

This winsome new sport model is made more attractive by the addition of linen collars and cuffs edged with black taffeta. The costume is in brown eponge. The cape falls in points on either side and ties are fringed, as is the bottom of the skirt.

ORNAMENTS FOR THE GOWNS

Original Trimmings Featured by Majority of the French Dressmakers; Many Beads Used.

The matter of trimmings, even in a trimmingless season, is something that concerns the Parisian dressmakers most sincerely. For, whatever they are or wherever they are placed, they must be perfectly done. And it is these touches which ravish us as we see them appearing on the new French frocks. They are so very original and so inspiring to the creation of dress in this country, no matter what may be said to the contrary.

There are loads of steel beads—nail heads they are called. There are little rows of corrugated trimmings—that is, ribbons and narrow pieces of silk either to match the dress in color or to contrast with it in some way.

Egyptian bandings in the way of girdles or belts are made up from the handsomest of beadings and embroideries. On a blue serge dress there is a stunning girdle of Egyptian red.

There are many fringes seen upon the more dressy gowns, and any amount of crystal beads have been imposed upon the surfaces of the more formal wearing apparel. In fact, each designer is trying, it seems, as far as possible to make use of the gown's own material in the making of trimmings, and when that contingency fails they resort to some spangled or some embroidered ornament to make the gown more notable.

DRESSES FOR THE KIDDIES

Dotted Swiss and Pongee Are Among the Favorite Materials for the Little Folks.

For very little folk, ranging from two to six-year sizes, dotted swiss and pongee are two well-liked fabrics.

Dotted swiss, either in white with pastel colored dots or darker shades, like red or brown, speckled in white, appears with marked frequency. In the lighter colored numbers a popular mode of embellishment is the smocking in colored mercerized threads matching the color of the dots, forming yokes. One dress noted in brown, dotted in white, was trimmed with rows of insertion and edging of filet lace, insuring the laundering possibilities of the frock.

Striped handkerchief linen or dimity, in rather broad and bold stripings, also appear in the group for small people. When these stripes are selected for the fabric, the choice is invariably for tucked devices.

In the pongees, worsted embroideries are the favorite usage, forming yokes and accenting pocket contrivances.

FLOWER APPLIQUES FOR TRIM

Dainty, Old-Fashioned Bouquet, With Lace Paper Edges, Now Adorns the Blouse.

The dainty, old-fashioned bouquet with its lace paper edges that experienced such a revival in the trimming of handmade handkerchiefs now comes to adorn the blouse. Sometimes the flowers are of wool and sometimes in fabric or a cluster of both with the lace paper imitated by a frill of three-fourths-inch valenciennes. Here the corsage is, of course, much larger and is properly posed at the waistline of the blouse.

In other flower trims on blouses, all sorts of fabrics and manipulations are used, from twists of self-material on crepe de chine, made into bunchy flower motifs, to flat overlapping layers of picot-edged organdie, which is often used on silk blouses.

Colors in Millinery.

Millinery colors stress bright red, American Beauty and almond green. Tangarine, sage and periwinkle are also popular.
