this bill, as above disposed of, Mr. Crisfield's amendment with the striking out, and the bill as thus amended, ought to be adopted for asking better evidence of the responsibility for their failure to obtain compensation for their claims than the "history" furnished by the correspondent of the Maryland Republican.

Truly yours,
J. MCSHERRY.

One of the World's Wonders.

The great four-fold water fall, the Fall of Garoppa, on the west of India, near Honore, little known as it is, is one of the wonders of the world. A writer says of it: Difficult it is to compare in worth any picture of the stupendous scene. There is the river, some three hundred yards in width, flowing through soft woodland, its waters split into many glassy currents, yielding mossy cones in eddies and islets, which, inscribed and marks are gone, and in a moment, as if by magic, terrific walls of granite rock, plunging to depths even dare not look into, down which the shuddering waters fall at four points, nearly equidistant on the irregular curve of the rim of the abyss.

From the top of the precipice to the dark pools at its feet is an accurately measured distance of sixty hundred and thirty feet, and down this profound descent flow the four columns, each spread in its own peculiar manner, among the cavities, projections and crevices of the rock, in the form of a Palm, with a touch of the river runs over a projecting ledge, and nowhere touching the abyss with which hollows in, descends in a shower of unbroken column, gratuitously while the rest plunge sheer into a black, unfathomable pool, and thundered and worry feet below. The precipice turns backward, curling in an irregular way, on whose further side the fall, named the Rocket, shoots slanting down a third of the height into a rocky basin that shoulders out, sending it forth as a broad massive cataract, plunging five hundred feet into the same pool opposite its kingly neighbor.

Leaving the bay next on the general plane of the precipice comes the Rocket fall, running impetuously over the brim and down the face of the stupendous wall, to which it only just clings with a road band of glistening foam-white water, speeding in quick dashes, successantly darting out masses of water, rockets and vaporous arrows, with which all the volume seems alive, and pouring clear at last a dense shining curtain into its own pool. Last and loviest, La Dame Blanche glides down the grim colossal rampart in lapse after lapse of delicate lace-like veils, now blowing out in bright, misty spray, and again quickly gathering up the white folds, and so stealing downward with a whispering murmur, till gently sinking in a sparkling shower into a pool whose ink-black surface is hardly ruffled. The exact depth scientifically measured is eight hundred and thirty feet.

"LUCK."

Some people are fond of denying that there is any such thing "luck," but, be that as it may, there certainly are persons to whom what seem like fortuitous good fortune comes. Colonel Green Wilkinson have a seat in Parliament, in London, to an old gentleman, who left him $40,000 a year.

A young Bostonian crossed to England three or four years ago, and got into conversation with an elderly gentleman, who observed that he found that they had the same name. It turned out that they were second cousins. The elder had gone to California, in his early days, made a vast fortune and entirely lost sight of his relatives. That chance meeting gave the young Bostonian a fortune of between two and three million.

Two ladies had a box at the opera, in London. An old man opposite bored them dreadfully by perpetually "forgetting" them. The scene came to an end, and they thought no more about him. One day, a year afterward, a solicitor called on one of the ladies, Lady Frances Bruce, and told her that an old gentleman, Mr. Wood, had left her property worth several thousand a year. "Never heard of the man," she said. "Must be a mistake." "Very extraordinary," replied the solicitor. Suddenly a happy thought struck him. "He lies in his coffin, in St. James street close by, at Hantig's the great undertaker; will you come with me and see him?"

She went. It was the old forgetter. And it is said that he left it to her under a mistake, after all, having intended to leave it to her friend, whom—and not Lady Frances—he admired. Lady Frances was misinformed as to the names of the two ladies.

And to give one more—a quite recent instance. A young New Yorker went to San Francisco to seek the fortune so many had failed to find. He got a poor clerkship and had to be thankful for that. One evening, at a place of entertainment, he watched a game of cards, saw that an elderly Englishman was being cheated, exposed the fraud, and had a tussle with the cheat. The Englishman has presented him with twenty thousand dollars to start him in business, and there is every prospect of more to come.

Moths in Carpets.

Experienced housekeepers say that if moths have not secured a permanent lodgment in a house, it is quite safe to leave carpets on the floors, for two and even three years without lifting. But, unless sure that the house is perfectly free from moths, the only safe way is to take up the carpets once or twice a year.

The carpet-moth makes his favorite home about the bindings and corners of the carpet. If this is an ingrain or threeply fabric, successful war may be waged on him by wringing a cloth out of hot water, laying it over the bindings and edges, and ironing with as hot an iron as can be used without scorching. This will destroy both the moths and their eggs, and after a few such visitations they disappear.

But the steaming and ironing process is not effectual with Wiltons, Brussels or any heavy carpetings. The moths burrow thoroughly underneath them, and ironing injures the pile of the velvet. Still, it is best to draw the tacks occasionally, and lay the edge of the carpet over, one side only, or a part of it side at a time, and steam and iron it on the wrong side. Then, besides this the floor should be wiped as far under as the arm will reach, with a cloth wrung out of a strong and hot Cayenne tea, and before resalting the edges of the carpet should be wiped with it, rubbing them hard. It is said that if salt is sprinkled on the floor while it is damp, moths will not go near that spot again. Some good housekeepers sprinkle salt all around the sides and corners of the room before nailing down a carpet, and also in the fold that is turned for nailing.

How to Do It.

An indolent gentleman had a freehold estate producing about five hundred a year. Becoming involved in debt he sold half the estate and let the remainder to an industrious farmer for twenty years.—About the end of the term the farmer called to pay his rent, and asked the owner whether he would sell his farm.

"Will you buy it?" asked the owner, surprised.

"Yes, if we can agree about the price."

"That is exceedingly strange," observed the gentleman, "pray tell me how it happens that while I could not live upon twice as much land for which I paid no rent, you are regularly paying me two hundred a year for your farm and are able in a few years to purchase it?"

"The reason is plain," was the reply; you sat still and said 'go.' I got up and said 'come.' You lay in bed and enjoyed your estate; I rose in the morning and minded my business.

Mr. Moody told his Springfield audience the other night that he can tell on looking over a congregation the believers by the expression of their faces. Then he told them a story. Among a poor woman, who, hearing a ran, thought it was the landlord come to demand the rent. She refused to answer, and thus turned away a friend who wished to give her money. The audience laughed at this, but Moody stopped them abruptly by crying: "You laugh at that woman, but it was you, yourself, sinner."

☞ A minister was once engaged to preach to his Sunday school, but after the little people were all placed before him in order, he told them that some of them might be weary and want to go out before he had finished, and so he would rather have those who fancied they would like to go, to do so now, and then no one would be disturbed. For a moment all sat still; then one little fellow took his hat and went down the aisle; another and another followed, until not a child was left.

☞ There was frost for every month of the year 1816, and it was known as "the year without a summer." The New England farmer called it "eighteen hundred and starve to death."

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

BAD BREATH!
Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, Complexion and General Health.

PILES!
How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands, SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR, is no drastic violent purge, but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!
SHOULD not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat of sleep and no health can be expected while a sedentary habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!
This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache. For the relief of which, TAKE SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR.

ANOTHER NEW ENTERPRISE
EXCHANGE Ever The
J. J. JUMP
APPLETON'S
American Cyclopædia.
JUST PUBLISHED.
Entirely Rewritten by the Ablest Writers on Every Subject.
Printed from New Type, and illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of the New American Cyclopædia was completed in 1863, since which time the whole circulation which it has attained in press of the United States, and the signal development which have taken place in every branch of science, literature, and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to a complete and thorough revision, and issue a new edition entitled

The American Cyclopædia.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which began at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced. Large accessions to our have been made to the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, who have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are only preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which must now take their place in Permanent and Authentic History.

In preparing the present edition for the press it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of Political and Historical Events.

The work was begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been

Printed on New Type, forming in fact, a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The Illustrations, which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added not for the sake of ornament, but to give additional value to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science, and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of the scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than entertainment, no pains have been spared to insure their Artistic Excellence.

The cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

The American Cyclopædia is Now Complete, in sixteen large octavo volumes, each volume containing over 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous Colored Lithographic Maps, the whole costing the publisher a sum exceeding exclusive of paper, printing, and binding.

Five Hundred Thousand Dollars,

Prices and Style of Binding.

The Best Cyclopædia ever Published, one that will supersede all others, is now offered to the public at a very moderate price less than one cent a page!

Just think!

A Saying of Ten Cents per Day,

the price of a cigar, or many other expenditures for luxuries or frivolities of a like amount, would pay for a complete set of the Cyclopædia by a bi-monthly subscription. Thus there will be something laboriously saved, and a storehouse of knowledge, indeed

A Universal Library in Itself.

Sec. 2, will be full store or sacrifice.

☞ Specimen pages of the American Cyclopædia, showing type, illustrations, etc., will be sent gratis on application.

Persons wishing to subscribe, can receive the whole series, and time for payment provided at any time, the delivery and big their convenience, without any cost of carriage, by forwarding their subscriptions to Nu Quinine!

Dr. Berg's German Ague Pills!

Are strictly vegetable, containing no Quinine, Mercury and all other deleterious substances. They have been tested for years in private practice, and have never been known to fail to cure Fever and Ague in its worst stages. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Headache, Foul Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Neuralgia, Costiveness, Piles, Fever, Debility and all diseases arising from a disordered liver, malaria, impure blood, greatly benefitted by their use. All I ask is a trial of these valuable Pills, and they will convince all who do so of their merits. Ask your Druggist for them and if he has them not, inclose 50 cents by mail to us, and they will be sent free of charge, by the next mail, with full directions for use.
