The Easton Star.

LOCAL RECORD.

Baltimore Markets.

Gold is down to $1.08¾. Balto. & Ohio railroad stock is down to 8⅞. Best Maryland Wheat, $1.34. Western in elevator, $1.28. Southern Corn, 50@52 cents. Oats and Rye dull, and prices unchanged.

—Medical men often puzzle themselves over the large sale that Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup enjoys. Its great popularity is due only to the excellent qualities possessed by this household medicine, 25 cents.

—A lady writes: I think you will be glad to hear that I find Keller's Vegetable Life Drops a valuable remedy. I had a chronic headache, and my life was one of great suffering until I used the Life Drops; and now I do not know what headache is. The least I can do in return is to make the Life Drops known to all sufferers from headache.

—Fair dealing, no two prices at the New York one price cash clothing house.

—Walter H. Haddaway, Esq., of Kansas, will accept our thanks for late Kansas papers.

—The members of Rev. Mr. Tomkinson's church gave him a surprise party on Monday night week.

—The Maryland Steamboat Company have put down the fair again to 50 cents. So we shall have cheap travel again this season.

—We advise our friends, when they visit Baltimore, if in search of good clothing and small prices, call at the New York clothing house, No. 134 W. Baltimore street.

—John H. K. Shannahan has bought out Walker & Duncan's ice business, and has commenced delivering ice to his customers in town. He has now about 1,000 tons on hand.

—J. Frank Turner, Esq., of Easton, has received an invitation to deliver the annual address before The Mount Vernon Literary Society of Washington College, Chestertown, in July next. Mr. Turner has accepted the invitation.

—Mr. Wm. N. Kirby's little son Randolph, four years old, of St. Michaels, was so badly burned on Saturday week that he died the next day. The child's clothes took fire while left alone a few minutes by its mother. It was a most distressing accident.

—Mr. Henry Bolton has started a new temperance paper in Baltimore called The Tidal Wave. It is edited by A. A. Townsend, Esq. Mr. Townsend has had considerable experience in editing newspapers, and will doubtless make the Tidal Wave wave a lively sheet.

—We were not aware till we saw it in the Gazette of Saturday, that tinners put up the framing and sheathing of roofs on houses. The Gazette says Mr. George W. Beck framed and sheathed the roof of Walker's new mill with his soldering iron. We know that Mr. Beck is a first-class workman in tin-work, but until now we did not know that he was an expert in putting up the wood part of a roof.

—A circulating library is being set on foot by our enterprising citizen G. W. Minnick. This library is to be placed on a substantial and permanent basis, and will be furnished with a full and complete stock of the best and most popular literature of the day. Subscription rates are put at the low price of 25 cents a month. All persons wishing to avail themselves of this long felt desideratum are requested to hand in their names to the professor at his store opposite the bank.

—Special attention is directed to Mr. N. C. Rittenhouse's advertisement of the Champion threshing machine, which will be found in today's STAR. If this machine is all the manufacturers claim for it, it is certainly the best thresher ever seen in these parts. Mr. Rittenhouse refers to a number of our best farmers, who have either used it or seen it work. As threshers are costly implements, when our farmers buy, they should get the best; and it is claimed that the Champion is the best thresher ever made.

—Persons who come to town and do not get in to see Jump & Co.'s new spring stock, are like the lady who after returning home said, "Well I wouldn't feel that I had been to Easton if I had not been to see Jump & Co." The immense display of goods shows the spirit that has placed this house in the position it occupies. The quantity of silks, novelties in the ladies' department mourning dress goods, and boys' and men's clothing is just immense. Mr. Dimmock Smith, who now represents this house, has just returned from Annapolis with large orders. Just think of it.

Fine Asparagus.

D. C. Trimble, Esq., will please accept our thanks for a bunch of delicious early asparagus, the finest we have seen this season.

A Card.

I take this method of returning my very sincere thanks to all who turned out on Sunday, or furnished horses, to assist in the capture of Ben Smith.

CALEB GRIFFIN,
Sheriff of Talbot Co.

Sheriff's Office, Easton, April 15th, 1878.

A Big Business.

Mr. Alexander Herron, on the Glebe farm, has four ducks which layed seven eggs one night last week. They were fastened up in a house, and there is no mistake about it. Mr. Herron is anxious to find out whether three ducks layed two eggs each, and the other one, or three ducks layed one egg each, and the other four. The ducks can't explain how it was.

Notary Fees.

The new law passed at this session to aid notaries was as follows:—For every notice mailed or delivered, 5 cents. For presentation and demand, where the money is paid to the notary, $1. In the first case the 5ct fee is charged, and as every note averages about four notices it increases costs about 20 cents, which go to the notary. The other is only legalizing an old-time custom.

Reliable.

It is useless to deny the great curative effects of Simmons' Liver Regulator. Its virtues are attested by thousands who have used the medicine, and it is now largely in demand. It commends itself to the public by its component parts being entirely vegetable, no injurious effects from its use, being pleasant to the taste, and its operation upon the liver being perfect, at the same time so imperceptible that it interferes with neither business nor pleasure.

Town Improvements.

The town commissioners are making a great improvement on Harrison street, north of Railroad Avenue. The sidewalk on the west side has been widened, new gutters laid on both sides, and the sidewalks and street are to be graded, so as to make a handsome street, which will add largely to the value of property in that part of the town. Mr. James M. Tharp is engineering the job. In running the street lines by the old plat, he finds that in building, the street has been much encroached upon on the west side.

Fires.

Aaron Lucas' stable, on the Point road, was destroyed by fire on the night of the 8th inst. His hearse and cart were saved. He was from home with his horse at the time. As the fire originated in the hay loft, it is believed that it was the work of an incendiary.

The dwelling house on Mr. T. N. Chance's place known as the John Wesley Arringdale farm, was destroyed by fire on Sunday week. Mr. Samuel Plummer, his tenant living in the house, lost most of his furniture and about $40 in money.

"The Eldridge Recitals," Etc.

J. Prescott Eldridge, of New York, known as "The American Recitationist," who has during the past ten years or more appeared before hundreds of audiences in the United States, will present his peculiar entertainment known as "The Eldridge Recitals," or "An Evening with the Passions," "Psychological Seance," etc., at the town hall on Tuesday evening, April 23rd. The programme he will offer will embrace dramatic imitations, character representations, classic recitals, etc., together with a portrayal of "The Passions," occupying the first hour of the evening, after which will be presented an hour of mirth, wit and humor, entitled "Psychological Seance," and "The Mozmsoonian Banquet," in which will be introduced a number of original novelties of an intensely humorous nature, thus in an evening's entertainment presenting so varied a programme of amusement as to invite smiles and tears from all, pleasing the most fastidious taste, the cultivated and refined, as well as the untutored mind. From a perusal of the programme designating the various features of the entertainment, as well as from noting the very strong endorsements Mr. Eldridge has received from eminent critics, as well as the press, we are satisfied that the entertainment will prove one of the most interesting and pleasing amusements of the season, and we strongly recommend our readers to not allow it to pass by their attendance. Tickets, 35 cents; reserved seats, 15 cents; commences 7½.

AN EXCITING SUNDAY IN TOWN.

Escape of a Prisoner from Easton Jail—The Sheriff and a Posse of a Hundred Men Hunting him in Holiday's Woods—His Capture—Return of the Army in Triumph.

About six o'clock Sunday morning, Sheriff Griffin's employe Sam Dobson went to the prisoners' quarters in Easton jail, as is the custom every morning, to clean up the rooms and see that the prisoners were all right. Ben Smith, negro, imprisoned for stealing a horse, was chained in the South-west corner of the jail on the second floor. There were seven other negroes in the room. As Dobson went into the room Ben slipped out, ran down stairs, and out of the front door into the street and made tracks, having previously shed his irons.

By the time Ben was out of jail, Dobson discovered his escape, and gave the alarm. In a few minutes Sheriff Griffin and Deputy Sheriff Reddie were dressed, and mounting their horses, gave chase to the prisoner. Ben run out West street, struck across Mr. Elias O. Dawson's meadow lot, and made across the fields for Hammond's park. Sheriff Griffin went down the Bayside road as far as Hollyday's woods, thence through the woods to the Glebe field. Ben seeing the sheriff, run towards the Glebe woods, thence to the Glebe road, evidently intended to strike for the big woods in Goldsborough's Neck.

When the sheriff went down the Bayside road, Deputy Sheriff Reddie and Constable Austin went down the Glebe road, and were on the ground to turn him back when he jumped out of Hammond's park into the Glebe road, near T. T. Martin's field.

Before the sheriff and Reddie left town, they gave the alarm, and left word for everybody to follow. A number saddled their horses and followed, among those were Jesse Shannahan, E. C. Green, and William H. Willson, Jr. Posting his sentinels to look out for Ben, the sheriff returned to town to summon a posse and procure horses. A number of horses in town were sick, and could not be used. About breakfast-time the sheriff and posse returned to Hollyday's woods, and spread out through the woods in search of the absconding prisoner. About 10 o'clock Ben appeared at the Three Sisters, on Bayside road, near the corner of the junction of Thos. R. Hollyday's and Capt. James A. Ridgaway's fields. Here he was seen by Messrs. Hinton and Councell, who made for him with a whoop. He turned back, and again ran through the woods. The chase after him was continued until about 12 o'clock, but the woods was so wet, the pedestrians had to give it up.

At this time the sheriff found it necessary to offer $50 reward for his arrest. By 1 o'clock the woods was full of horsemen, chasing him from post to pillar. Being hard pressed, Ben hid himself in a hollow tree; but hearing some boys coming he left the tree and ran towards the Glebe road again. This was about three o'clock. Thomas Colburn was stationed at the corner of the woods and the Glebe field, and Ben being routed out of some cedars by Mr. Beck, ran out plump where Colburn was standing. He gave the alarm and made chase after the fugitive. Ben then made a double, and ran diagonally through the woods towards Mr. William M. Hollyday's wheat field, followed by Colburn, Beck and Reddie, the last two on horreback. Constable Austin caught sight of him at this time, and following him over the fence, and into the field, and drawing his revolver, told him to halt or he would shoot him. Seeing his danger, and being completely exhausted, Ben then threw up the sponge and surrendered to Austin. The woods was so well picketed it was impossible for him to escape. By the time he surrendered there were more than a hundred looking for him. Austin, Reddie, Beck and Coburn started to town with him, and sent word to the others to follow as the chase was over. Pretty much the whole town turned out to witness his return to jail. There was a perfect jam in the street. Ben looked as drooping as a six weeks old turkey dragging in the rain.

When the sheriff arrived with his army there was a general hurrah. It was truly an exciting day in town. Where all did such good service, it would be out of place to particularize. But we cannot close this account of the affair without complimenting Sheriff Griffin and Deputy Sheriff Reddie on the extraordinary energy they displayed throughout the day. Charles H. Gibson, Esq., States Attorney, also rendered good service. Constable Austin, who wears the honor of taking the brush, worked hard throughout the hunt. Ben is now safely back in his cell, and will not likely escape before he reaches the penitentiary, where he should be locked up until his propensity for stealing is purged out of him.

A BRAVE ADVENTURE OF A LADY.

A Midnight Arrest Pistol in Hand.

On Saturday last Mrs. Dr. L. C. Cox, living at Perry Hall, was in town and bought some medicine, which she stowed away in her carriage. On arriving home she forgot to take the medicine out of her carriage, and thought no more about it until bedtime, when she wanted to use it. She then sent to the carriage-house for the package. The servant returned without the medicine, and reported that the horse and carriage were gone. This was near 11 o'clock at night. It soon transpired that Garrison Hinson, her negro gardener, was also missing. Knowing that a negro festival was going on Saturday night at St. Michaels, Mrs. Cox concluded that Garrison had stolen the horse and carriage and gone to the festival. She at once determined on her plan, and ordered Peter Copper, an old colored man living on her farm, to saddle a couple of horses; one for her and one for himself. The horses being ready, she buckled on her pistols, mounted her steed, and started for St. Michaels. Peter following on his horse. Near Mr. George H. Graham's, between Royal Oak and St. Michaels, she met a horse and carriage containing a man and two women, all colored. Recognizing her carriage, she called to the horse by name to stop, and he instantly halted. The two woman jumped out of the carriage and ran into Mrs. Tenant's woods. The man in the carriage proved to be her missing gardener. She made him get out of the carriage, take the saddle off her horse, put the saddle in the carriage, and get on her horse bareback. She then got into the carriage and drove home, Garrison and Peter following. It was sometime after midnight when she reached home, and had the horses put away. On Sunday Mrs. Cox came to town and had a writ issued for Garrison, charging him with stealing the horse and carriage. In the afternoon of the same day Constable Austin served the writ, brought Garrison to town, and Justice Robinson committed him to jail for a hearing on Monday at 10 o'clock. It is well that the negro surrendered so quietly or Mrs. Cox's pistols might have cut some ugly capers, and then somebody would have had to pay for a negro coffin. It is by no means safe for a darkey to trifle with a lady capable of making such an arrest on the public highway at midnight, pistol in hand. Hereafter it will be safest for negroes not to steal Mrs. Cox's horse and carriage, no matter how many festivals are held at Royal Oak or St. Michaels.

Yesterday, Justice Robinson heard the case, and discharged Garrison, because there appeared to be no law to punish him for the offence, which is but a breach of trust.

Commissions Received.

The commissions for the public officers for Talbot county recently confirmed by the Senate, have been received by the clerk of the circuit court. The law requires the appointees to qualify before the clerk within 30 days from April 30th inst.

Outdoor Candy-Making.

Mr. J. Weede, from Wilmington, has been astonishing our natives for several days past, by manufacturing and selling candy in the public street; and he makes delicious candy and no mistake. He melts from 6 to 10 pounds of sugar at a time, works it into candy, and then cuts into five-cent slips, and sells it to the boys and girls, and "children of a larger growth," just as fast as he can take in the dimes and half dimes. He says he is a candy-maker by trade, that he is out of work and must turn a penny somehow to support himself and family. Until he commenced operations here, very few of our people knew how candy was made.

Sundry creditors' bills were passed and the court adjourned.

An Old Landmark Gone.

The town commissioners have cut down the big sycamore tree, which stood at the N. W. corner of Railroad avenue and Harrison street. It stood immediately on the sidewalk, and in the way of the contemplated improvements of the north of Harrison street. Not less than fifty people were present at the fall of the magnificent old tree, which has doubtless stood as long as Easton has been an incorporated town. The old landmark went down with many regrets. Mr. A. E. Pritchett has moved his office off the sidewalk, so as the widening of the street may progress. The widening of the sidewalk at that point will be a great improvement of the neighborhood.

The board met on Tuesday, April 9th, present Messrs. William Willis, Charles M. Jump and Joseph Horney. W. H. D. Harper, clerk.

Two abortive attempts have recently been made by burglars, to rob the store of John R. Phillips, of Cambridge. The last time, Mr. Phillips arrived at the scene of operations and gave the thieves two pistol shots, but neither hit the mark, but made the rascals scamper over the bridge.

Mr. T. S. Hodson, collector of customs at Crisfield, is chuckling over the miscarriage of the attempt to put him out and put William T. Lawson in the custom house. Hodson is the big dog in the Eastern Shore Republican ring, but we don't know whether he fights with Mr. Hayes or the Republican party, on the "Southern policy."

On Thursday week a tramp called upon Mrs. George McCaulley near Wilmington and informed her that her husband had sent him to her to give him his breakfast. Mrs. McCaulley at once set for him a bounteous table. While eating he complained grievously of the hard times. She then told him she would give him work sodding their yard. He, in reply stated that he had no wheelbarrow. She then told him that she had a wheelbarrow, and would lend it to him. He took the wheelbarrow and went away. Neither he nor the wheelbarrow has ever been heard of since.

The Salisbury Advertiser says three people lately arrived at Berlin, Md., who registered at the hotel spectively as Frank Rivers, Alexander Rivers, and Emma Rivers. They were spiritualists, and went to Berlin to dig in the Methodist parsonage lot for a chest of gold, which a spirit informed them was buried there. They obtained permission and dug with pick and spade, but found nothing. The Advertiser says they were from Easton. It is mistaken. No such people live here, nor have we any spirits, or spiritualists, in Easton, that we are aware of, since local option has been in force.
