stuff leaves in de hole much as he please, but jes as one end is stopped up, de tuther end is bustin' open again. Now, bredren, dis white brudder is a touch-an-'go fetchit gun. I'se been a crackin' at you all de week wid my poor single-shooter, and aint killed a sinner yet. You stops up de wound wid sin. But ever dis brudder gets a crack at you, taint no use to lay down and try to stop de holeup wid pleasure and sin. You might jes as well give up sinner for he's got de true gospel gun.

Now, come back to de text: 'Come buy o' me gold tried in de fire.' Bredren I was a thinkin' dis evenin' 'bout de devil and how easy he gits people. You know dere's a little animal dey call a spider, but I call him a fisherman, 'cause he knows he sets his net jes like we does. He stretches it cross de corner o' de wall, and hides himself in a hole wid his eye fixed. You think he's done gone to sleep, but I tell you dere aint no sleep in his eye. Bimeby 'long comes a fly, and sees de net spread. You know dat little poemtry 'bout 'Walk into my parlor, said de spider to de fly, 'tis de prettiest parlor you ever see, sir.' 'This is a pretty thing shor.' And by de time he done sat his foot on de net, up comes de fisherman, and takes a half-hitch round his neck. Den de fly kicks and buzzes. You hear him: 'Buz-z-z-z-z-z.' But taint no use. De spider's got him, and bimeby you come along and find dere nothin' but jes a little wid tuppenny bit on it. Why, he tuppenny bit. Jes so de devil do de sinner. He spreads his gaudy net. Dis wide wor' all aroun', and de sinner say, 'Dis am a fine thing, sho as you born.' An' he gwine take a walk over dis wor' jes to have one fine time.' But, ah! bredren! while he's a steppin' off proud, thinkin' 'bout bisness and de pleasures o' sin, his thing he know, sho' de devil's got a half-hitch round his neck! Ah! taint no use for to kick dep. De more he kick de devil wrap, and bimeby you don't see no man: taint nothin' but a bundle o' sin. All de man is buried under de wicked mass!

Now, come back again to de text: 'Come buy o' me gold tried in de fire' salve for you eyes an' a robe o' wrcedledness.'

Bredern, I was a readin' dis evenin' in de fourteenth verse o' Luke, an' I must tell you 'bout it. You know there was a little man named Zach—Zach—Zachariah, dat's it. Well, one day dis little man was a hoein' corn, and 'twas a awful hot day. De sun was jes a pourin' down, and Zachariah had lef' his straw hat home. Now, you know mos' all o' dem ole bible men raised corn. Dere was Abraham and Joseph and Paro, an'—an'—an' a whole heap uv 'em. 'Twas a fine corn country, dat. Well, Zachariah war a hoen corn, an' when it got so hot he says, jes like some sinners now: 'I'se gwine to take a nap under de sycamore tree I ain't gwine to kill myself in dis sun.' Plenty o' niggers, stead o' standin' de heat an' givin' de boss good time, goes to sleep on de hoe-handle! Ah, bredren, you call dat figion, to steal time from de boss! What's de night time for? Well, Zachariah, he went and sot down under de sycamore tree, and jesus he war a fallin' off to sleep he hears a great shoutin' an' a doin' up de road. Now, Zachariah was a little man, so he jes mounted de fence, but twant no use, he couldn't see nothin' dere. 'Never mind,' he says, 'I'll get up in de sycamore tree.' So up he clum, and sot straddle of a limb. Bimeby, he hearn a shout agin, an' down de road was comin' a great, big crowd o' folks, singin' and shoutin' glory hallelujah! When dey pass by de tree, a man in de crowd look up and see Zachariah, and he say: 'What you doin' up dere, sah? What is de reason you ain't in de cornfield hoein' you corn? Come down out o' dat tree, Zachariah!' Den Zachariah, he came down, and fell down at Jesus' feet, and Jesus said, 'Go you way Zachariah; hoe you corn in peace. You faith is made you whole.'

"Now, sinner, what's I been tellin' you dis for? Jes for a story? No, sah, you'se a Zachariah o' sin; you'se been hoein' all you life in a cornfield o' wickedness; now youse tired and de wrath of de Lord is a hangin' hot over you head. Dey told you Jesus was passin' by, and den you sits up in de sycamore tree o' pentance waitin' for Him to call you down. Pray on mourner! Shout sister! Call him down, brudder! Yes! De Master am a comin' dis way tonight, and He will call you if you wait, poor sinner. You will hear Him say: 'Come down, sinna; go you way in peace; go hoe corn in my vineyard; go dig in de field o' righteousness. Yes, my brudder, dis a-way de Lord am comin' now!

"Now, come back to de text: 'Come buy o' me gold tried in de fire.'

Lucy Jane, what is you doin' playin' wid Mary Ann Peterson's ribbon? What sort o' way is dat to carry on in church? I'se shamed o' you, sho' nuff. You leave dat sorv-o' dom for de white folks? Dats de way I see 'em do. Ober yonder in Dr. Lee's church, while de preacher is a prayin', you see dis' lookin' at de feathers and de fixin's through a spy-glass. Taint no way to do, an' I dont want no sich doin's in my church.

Now, bredren, I must tell you my dream I had las' night, and den I mus' let our good brudder ——— have de pulpit. You see, I was tired and give out las' night, so I jes went right off to sleep a settin in my chair. Well, settin dere an sleepin, I thought I was Jacob. My head was on a rock, and I was a lookin up to de heaven. All at once I fait somebody tech me on de arm, and wakin up and lookin bout sich a sight as I did see! Dere was de angels singin an a shoutin all around, and dere was de ladder o' gold, all shinin an slippery like, a stretchin up to heaven, and de angel dat touched me pinted to de ladder, an said: 'Climb Jacob.' Up I went, an got bout half way up, but the ladder was so slippery and so high, I got frait. So I stop an looked down; Lordy, bredren, I never see sich a sight; de worl was no bigger than a hen egg, an I thought sposen I was to fall?" But de angel say: 'Climb Jacob,' and de hoss cry: 'Climb Jacob,' and I clum. Well, I got to de top at las and den de end stopped, an dere was about ten feet between me an heaven! De ladder was too short. I looked down an, my bredren, de worl was clean out o' sight. Sposen I was to fall now! But what could I do? I looked up, an see de pearly gates open wide, waitin for me to go in; I see de streets o' gold, and de mansion o' glory and de tree o' life, and de river o' clear water, an all de angels, and de robe, and de crowns and all de glory o' de heathenly city. Almos' to heaven! I never could get so high agin ef I was to go back dis time. But what mus I do? Ten feet be tween me an glory an no ladder dere! I was wonderin what to do, bredren, when de angel say: 'Jump, Jacob,' an all de host shouted from de walls, 'Jump, Jacob,' an I heard a noise like de noise o' many waters saying: 'Jump, Jacob,' and I thought: 'Mus I jump sho nough.' I looked down de ladder, and dere wan't no ladder dere. I was standin on one end and tother end was gone. I looked in at de gate and de angel kept a shoutin: 'Jump, Jacob,' and bredren, I jes gathered myself together, and, holding my breath, I gave an awful jump, and I fell clean off de chair, woke smack up, an no Heaven at las. Oh! sinnah, youse a dreamin bout Heaven. Dere aint no ladder dat reaches clean to de top. You has fly on de wings o' faith. Hy, now, sinnah, you cant git dere widout de wings o de sperret. But now I must introduce our good brudder."

APPLETON'S
American Cyclopædia.

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely Rewritten by the Ablest Writers on Every Subject.

Printed from New Type, and Illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of the New American Cyclopædia was completed in 1863, since which time the whole circulation which it has attained in parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature, and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and issue a new edition entitled

The American Cyclopædia.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occured, involving national ones of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volumes of the old work appeared has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced. Large accessions to our have been made to the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, who have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their places in Permanent and Authentic History.

In preparing the present edition for the press it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoverier in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of Political and Historical Events.

The work was begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been

Printed on New Type, forming in fact, a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge

The Illustrations, which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science, and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of the scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufacturers. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their Artistic Excellence.

The cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

The American Cyclopædia is Now Complete, in sixteen large octavo volumes, each volume containing over 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and numerous Colored Lithographic Maps, the whole costing the publisher a sum exceeding

Five Hundred Thousand Dollars, exclusive of paper, printing, and binding.

Prices and Style of Binding.

In extra Cloth, per vol.,	5 00
In Library Leather, per vol.,	6 00
In Half Turkey Morocco, per vol	7 00

The Best Cyclopædia ever Published, one that will supersede all others, is now offered to the public at a very moderate price less than one cent a page!

Just think!

A Saving of Ten Cents per Day,

the price of a cigar, or many other expenditures for luxuries or frivolities of a like amount, would pay for a complete set of the Cyclopædia by a bi-monthly subscription. Thus there will be something substantial saved, and a storehouse of knowledge, indeed

A Universal Library in Itself.

Secured, with but little effort or sacrifice.

☞ Specimen pages of The American Cyclopædia, showing type, illustrations, etc., will be sent gratis on application.

Persons wishing to subscribe, can receive the whole set at one time, or one or more volumes at any time, the delivery suiting their convenience, without any cost of carriage, by forwarding their address to
