FROCKS IN THE NEW MODE FOR SUMMER AFTERNOONS

TWO frocks with unusual decorative features present themselves here for the benefit of forehanded women who get their summer dresses made before the time for outdooring arrives. There is no good reason why they should not be ready to enjoy a grateful leisure when the good old summer time really lures them to spend their waking hours out of doors, and "the world belongs to the energetic." All the new fabrics are in the shops and the styles are established.

One may copy one or both of the gowns for afternoon wear pictured here, with the assurance that they are not only correct, but distinguished style. At the left, a one-piece dress with round neck and split sleeves, depends upon its unique decoration for its distinctive character. It is a braid embroidery in small, horizontal panels that look like hieroglyphics, placed at intervals, two at the front and two at each side of the dress. A narrow girdle of the crepe is tied at each side in bows with ends.

A slip-over dress at the right opens to the bust line and fastens with buttons. It has a short yoke, a band collar and an upstanding, plaited frill of lace about the neck. The flaring sleeves are finished with the plaited lace also and there is a narrow belt across the sides and back. The odd trimming is an applique of velvet disks, each one edged with a narrow silk braid. They are in a darker shade than the dress. The combination of cocoa or biscuit-colored crepe with warm brown velvet is very handsome, or of midnight blue with light blue, or white with black applique. But or white with black applique.

Conference of Savings Leaders at Washington; Sale of Treasury Savings Certificates to Go On

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Special.)—That the sale of Treasury Savings Certificates has become a permanent part of the financing program of the United States government was divulged at a meeting just held in Washington, which was attended by the Savings Directors from the 12 Federal Reserve Districts of the United States, when plans were made for continuing the sale of these securities for years to come.

Lew Wallace, Jr., National Director of Savings, urged the district directors to go back home and exert every influence and effort to increase the sale of Government Savings Securities in order to minimize the loss from worthless investments. Mr. Wallace told the directors that there were many "land pirates" these days—"the pirates of finance." He declared that there were thousands of smooth-talking stock salesmen—full of glib promises—who are hard after the savings of the people in exchange for their get-rich-quick investments. "Go back home and tell your people to beware of the wild-cat stock salesman. He is more dangerous than the old-time pirate of the high seas ever thought of being."

The government is particularly desirous of helping the people of this country to spend wisely, save systematically, and invest safely. In order that an avenue for safe investment may be opened up, particularly for small investors—to whom safety is the first consideration, Treasury Savings Certificates are offered, yielding about 4 per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually, and maturing five years from date of issue, or which may be redeemed at option prior to that date at values increasing every month. These certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $100 and $1,000, and may be purchased at a discount price of $20.50, $82 and $820, respectively. They will not fluctuate in market value, they are always worth more than they cost, they are easily convertible into cash, and they are absolutely safe. These securities can be purchased through your local postmaster or from the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

BOY SCOUT ROUNDUP RESULT

For about three months past, the Boy Scouts of America in every part of the country have been engaged in what is known as the Anniversary Roundup. The main purpose was to make this program of scouting, which stands for character building and citizenship training, available to more boys in the country. In fact, a definite increase of twenty-five per cent net gain was aimed at, which would bring the membership of scouts up to the half million mark, exclusive of the 128,000 men who are giving service to this cause.

Although the main impetus of this drive was supposed to take place during February 8 to 15, the Thirteenth Anniversary Week of Scouting, and possibly the termination of the specified period then, the following information is forthcoming from the National Council office of the Boy Scouts of America.

The report to the National Executive board of the chief scout executive states:

"The Roundup has proven to be the most progressive and stimulating thing yet undertaken by the Boy Scouts of America. It has placed the scout movement before the general public perhaps more effectively than at any other one period in the history of the movement. It has caused all of our membership to think more definitely of the necessity of reaching more boys. As far as results are concerned, at this time it is impossible to say definitely what the net results are. As to how many troops and how many local councils have actually earned the award of the president's streamer for going "over the top" with a 25 per cent increase is not yet known. From all sources there is evidence of a keen desire in securing the full net increase set up as the original objective, namely 100,000 more boys. Although not more than 30,000 to 50,000 of this net increase has actually been reported to the national office so far, it is known, from reports that have come in and from personal conferences in the field from one end of the country to the other, that this represents but a portion of the net increase, which will eventually be reported to the national office."

Therefore, the executive board unanimously adopted the recommendation that the time of the Roundup be extended until the full 100,000 net increase has been secured, with the understanding that the president's streamers are to be awarded to all councils which have already qualified, and as soon as they qualify, until a period when records show 100,000 net increase.

It is believed that this plan will serve to meet the equitable claims of many localities, where because of sickness and other difficulties not unreasonable in depending so largely upon volunteer leadership, registrations could not be completed by February 15; and make possible a very wholesale result for all concerned, and at the same time in no way detract from the prestige and honor of those who have actually earned the right of award with the time originally specified.

It is "over the top" that the scouts are going without a doubt!

BOY SCOUT SAVES COMPANION

On a recent rowing trip Scout Lewis Wood of East St. Louis, Ill., and a companion had gone about fifty yards from shore to a point of land that was not covered with water, and believing it was an island, had gotten out of the boat to talk to some fishermen. Wood's companion was standing at the edge of the water when the bank suddenly gave way, throwing him into water beyond his depth. He grabbed a piece of driftwood but it was not large enough to support him. The current was strong at this point and carried him 50 feet or more from the shore. When Scout Wood saw his companion go down he plunged into the water and swam to him. The drowning boy had gone down the second time when the scout reached him. After a hard struggle in the water Wood managed to secure a grip around his companion's neck and swam to shore with him. There Wood applied the Schaefer method of resuscitation to the boy who was unconscious, and within about fifteen minutes had his companion able to stand. The National Court of Honor has issued a letter of commendation to Scout Wood in recognition of his valor and skill.

BOY SCOUTS AID CITY

With the preparedness that has gained for them the nation's confidence, boy scouts have again rendered significant aid in time of disaster. In the recent $12,000,000 fire that swept the business section of Astoria, Ore., and left 2,500 people homeless, every active troop of boy scouts and every scout who has been a member of the organization since 1916, were on duty throughout the night and assisted in guard, errand and messenger service.

GOMPERS vs. CONSTITUTION

Mr. Gompers attacks the decision of the Supreme Court declaring the minimum wage law for women in the District of Columbia unconstitutional, saying that it violates certain principles contained in the Clayton anti-trust act. His argument is merely an interesting contribution to his pet theory that Congress should be allowed to over-ride decisions of the Supreme Court. Of course the principles in the Clayton act have nothing to do with the case. Congress alone cannot amend the Constitution, and did not attempt to when the Clayton act was passed. If the minimum wage law is unconstitutional now it was unconstitutional before the passage of that act. The Supreme Court cannot "violate" any law when it declares a piece of legislation unconstitutional, Mr. Gompers to the contrary notwithstanding. In such decisions the court is guided solely by the language of the Constitution itself.

Conversationally inclined people might well be reminded that the middle of a street in these automobile times, is not the most desirable place in which to hold a social reception.
