– Philip Phillips at Music Hall to-night.

—Bishop Lay will visit Grace chapel, Oxford, next Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

—Godey's Lady's Book for March, a superb number, has already been received.

—A large lot of hosiery, gloves and trimmings on the 10 cent counter at S F Tower's.

—For North Carolina heart and sap shingles go to E. E. Jackson & Co., 18 West Falls Avenue, Baltimore. tf

—Call and see those one cent edges and ruffings; also a great variety of Hamburgs very cheap at S F Tower's.

—Last week the weather was warm and rainy. The heavy showers settled the roads and improved the travelling.

—Don't fail to hear Philip Phillips this evening at the Hall. You may never have another opportunity to hear him.

—Shingles, laths, pickets, fencing, etc., for sale at lowest cash prices by E. E. Jackson & Co., 18 West Falls Avenue, Baltimore. tf —Give it to the children. Physicians prescribe it. Thousands use it. Sold by druggists. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents.

—Mr. Venner's prediction about a big snow storm here yesterday, did not come true. It was one of the mildest and brightest of days.

—Never let a cold run. Take it in time. All that is necessary is to procure a bottle a "Sellers' Cough Syrup," and be cured.

—For fifty years Sellers Liver Pills have brought health and happiness to thousands of homes. Ask your druggist for them.

—For seasoned flooring, weather-boarding, and all kinds of building lumber, go to E. E. Jackson & Co., 18 West Falls Avenue, Baltimore. tf

—$50,000 to loan on first mortgages. Wanted and for sale—horses, cows, mules, and farming implements. Anything a farmer wants.
dec 16tf HIMROD.

—We would call particular attention to D. H Patty & Co's advertisement for men to sell nursery stock. To men out of employment this is a rare opening. nov 18 3m

—A new and valuable oyster bar or bed has been found in the middle of Chesapeake bay, between Kedge's Straits and Long Island, on the Eastern Shore, and Smith's Point and Point Lookout on the Western Shore, and a hundred or two pungies are dredging on it for oysters.

—The new telephone line, between the offices of R. B. Dixon and W. W. Tunis & Bro., six miles long, referred to last week in the STAR, is completed and working all "O. K." It will be found indispensable to their business after being used a while.

—Moody, Sankey, and PHILLIPS are the three Evangelists who have done so much good in the world by their sweet voices. Mr Phillips has traversed the globe, and his charming voice and evangelical songs are almost as familiar in Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia as they are in America. Go to the Hall to-night and hear him sing.

—Governor Hamilton sent in to the legislature on Wednesday, another special message, in which he presents his views at length on what should be done in the way of reform. He is for sweeping away pretty much all the offices in the state, and for withholding many hitherto important appropriations. We have not the space to print the document.

—There is being built in Winchester, Kent Island, probably the largest canoe in the State.—When finished the measurement will be 46 feet on the deck from stem to stern, and eleven and a half to twelve feet across the widest part of the deck. When completed, she will no doubt be one of the finest boats of the kind in Peninsular waters.

—Charles H. Gibson, Esq., late State's Attorney for Talbot county, will assist Mr. Bryant State's Attorney for Caroline county, in the prosecution of J. L. Woodcock, who is to be tried at the April term of Court at Denton, on the charge of setting fire to his store in Easton. Messrs. J. W. Cristield, Oswald Tilghman and Major W. E. Stewart will defend him.

—The very warm weather we have had thus far this winter has been injurious to business, preventing the sale of heavy winter goods of all kinds. In a few weeks from now, the spring trade will begin to open, and all of that class of goods the merchants may have on hand must go over until next winter. Now is a good time to buy winter goods cheap.

—The Farmer's Review, a weekly agricultural paper, published by the Farmer's Review Company, Chicago, Illinois, at $1.00 a year, a few numbers of which have drifted into the STAR office, is one of the brightest, livellest and most sensible papers we have met with in a long time. We recommend it to any one who wants a first rate and cheap agricultural newspaper.

—It is currently reported on the street, that petitions are in circulation, seeking signatures praying the legislature to repeal the local option law of Talbot county. These reports have caused counter petitions to be gotten up, protesting against the repeal of the law. It is not likely that the legislature would repeal a law made by a vote of the people, without some public demonstration of the people demanding its repeal.

—Some ten days ago; the steamer Louise, Capt Walker, from North Carolina, delivered at Easton Point for Mr R B Dixon 300,000 cypress shingles, and she returned yesterday with 125,000 more, which gives Mr Dixon the most complete assortment of best North Carolina standard brands of shingles that he has ever had at his extensive lumber yards. He requests us to say, they are offered at the very lowest net cash figures.

—W. P. Blades, formerly of St. Michaels, but now an oyster dealer in Baltimore, was arrested on Friday week, and held in $1,000 bail, on the charge of passing a forged check for $200. It purported to have been signed by J J Underhill & Co, for whom Blades was formerly book keeper. Mr Blades says he received the check from an oyster boat captain named Anderson, of Crisfield, and is confident of vindicating himself from any criminality in the transaction.

—Mr. Wooters has obtained leave to introduce in the House, a bill authorizing the commissioners of Easton to issue bonds to pay the debt of the town, contracted in rebuilding the market house, purchasing fire apparatus, and sinking wells for the fire department. There has been also sent to the legislature petitions largely signed, praying the passage of a law extending the corporation limits of Easton, and to authorize the county commissioners to build a new jail in Easton.

—We understand the railroad bridge over Tripp's creek is completed, and that the repairs of the road between Tripp's creek and Oxford are rapidly progressing. In a month the road will be finished to Oxford. The Chesapeake and Delaware Railway Company have bought 40 acres of land of Dr. Chamberlaine, being that part of Bonfield lying next to the river, embracing all the water front from the depot to Mrs Emerson's gate. When the oyster business is put fully into operation at Oxford, with plenty of capital to back it, this water front will be very valuable for wharves and building lots.

—The late lamented Gen'l John Bell Hood was a native of Kentucky. He identified himself before the war with Texas, by reason of his many valiant deeds as an Indian fighter, and he was severely wounded in a hand to hand engagement. At the outbreak of the late war he went into the Confederate States Army as a leader of the celebrated Texas Brigade, and died as a business man in New Orleans. His book just published, called "Advance and Retreat, Personal Experiences in the United States and Confederate States Armies," has about it the brilliancy of a romance, while every line bears the impress of truthful history. The accounts of the inner life of the Confederacy towards its dissolution are very readable. The advertisement is in another column.

—Mr. E. L. Zimmers, wheelwright, Harrison street, near Dover, is building a six wheel timber wagon, 80 feet long, for Mr. Worden, to take to North Carolina, to haul logs 120 feet long. The tread of the wheels is 8 inches wide, and the iron axles weigh 350 pounds each. They came in two parts, and had to be welded together. Mr John Baker, the blacksmith who welded them together last week, pronounces it the heaviest job of welding he has ever seen done in this county.

—The La Trappe Sociable, at Trappe, held a ball on the evening of Thursday, the 5th inst. There were about 100 ladies and gentlemen present. Draper's band, of Baltimore, furnished the music. The ball was in all respects a delightful affair, and lasted until 4 o'clock Friday morning. The ladies of the sociable furnished the collation, which was very elegant, embracing chicken and turkey salad, hot coffee, tea, chocolate, oysters, bread, butter, cake, etc., etc.

The following appointments of Notary Public Coroners, and Justices of the Peace for Talbot county have been made by Governor Hamilton and confirmed by the Senate: Notary Public; John Satterfield. Coroners: Robt G Kinnamon, Wm H Bostic. Justices of the Peace: First district, A W P Robinson, Nehemiah E Nichols, Wm T Wrightson and Jesse H T Hubbard; second district, Oliver P Sparks, J Addison Robinson, Edward Willey and Wm C Neavitt; third district, Edward S Harrison, Robert R Butler and Montgomery Lloyd; fourth district, James M Arringdale, Alga Smith and John Reese; fifth district, Alexander H Seth, Isaac B Gibson and Jeremiah Marsnall.

—The St Michaels Comet proposes that the Bay side road leading into Easton shall be abandoned, and a new road built, running from the "Three Sisters," near Mr Thos R Holliday's gate, through the lands of Messrs Thos R and Wm M Holliday, to the New Bridge road, thence to Easton, with a bridge across the head of the Tred Havan Creek. This would be rather an expensive improvement, and when made, the new road would not be as good as the old one. The present Bayside road from the Miles River junction to Easton, is bad, simply because it is not well drained. No road can be good in wet winter weather if the water is allowed to stand on it, or in the ditches along its sides, and percolate under the road bed. It is bound to cut and become impassable under such circumstances. If the Bayside road was only properly drained, it would be as good as any piece of clay road in Talbot county. If the county commissioners would engage Mr J B Bennett, or any other competent man, to put this piece of road in order, giving him authority to ditch, tile, bridge, and drain it, to cut ditches leading to the meadow; and to employ an engineer to get the proper levels, in order to make a good job of it; it can be made a thoroughly good road for less than what it would cost to build a bridge over Tred Haven creek, on the proposed new road.

The Smith Concert.

The Mrs. H. M. Smith concert, under the management of Mr. L. Dodson, Jr., took place last Tuesday evening. It was in all respects a most delightful entertainment. The large hall was well filled, and all seemed highly pleased. Mrs Smith has a very fine voice and trills beautifully. Miss Clark has a highly cultivated and sweet voice, though not very strong. Mr. Tower's tenor was much admired, and it is conceded that Mr. Babcock has the finest bass voice that has ever been heard in Easton. Mr. Lefebre's saxophone was something new, that elicited frequent encores. Mr. Dodson certainly deserves credit for securing such an excellent company for the entertainment of our citizens.

—Philip Phillips at Music Hall to-night.

Special Announcement—Change of Date.

The Pinkney Literary Society, owing to unforeseen circumstances, is compelled to change the date of the proposed entertainment for the benefit of the Irish Relief Fund, from Friday, the 20th inst., to the following Tuesday, the 24th inst—to-day week. Let there be a full house on that occasion, so that the receipts may be large. Many who are unable to place their names on subscription papers for large amounts, can contribute their mites through the Pinkneys, and thus assist in the great work of feeding a starving people. Should it be that circumstances would prevent some from attending the entertainment, let them purchase tickets, thus increasing the general receipts, and give them to some friend or needy person in the community, thereby being instrumental in the performance of a double charity. The Pinkney's popular and established prices will be charged, viz: 25 cents general admission; 35 cents, reserved chair.

Lent Regulations for the Diocese of Wilmington.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Becker of the Diocese of Wilmington has issued the regulations for the Lenten Season, which began on Wednesday, the 11th as follows:

1 All the faithful who have completed their twenty-first year are, unless lawfully dispensed, bound to observe the fast of Lent.

2 They are to make only one meal a day, excepting Sundays.

3 The meal allowed on fast days is not to be taken until about noon.

4 At that meal, if on any day permission should be granted for eating flesh, both flesh and fish are not to be used at the same time, even by way of season. This includes Sundays.

5 A small refreshment, commonly called collation, is allowed in the evening; no general rule as to the quantity of the food permitted at this is or can be made. But the practice of the most regular Christians is never to let it exceed the fourth part of an ordinary meal.

6 The quality of the food allowed at collation is, in this Diocese, bread, butter, cheese, all kinds of fruits, salads, vegetables, fish, eggs, and milk.

7 General usage has made it lawful to drink in the morning some warm liquid, as tea, coffee, or thin chocolate made with water.

8 Necessity and custom have authorized the use of lard instead of butler, in preparing fish, vegetables, etc.

9 The following persons are exempted from the obligations of fasting: Young persons under twenty-one years of age, the sick, pregnant and nursing women, those who are obliged to do hard labor, all who through weakness cannot fast without great prejudice to their health.

10 By dispensation, the use of flesh meat is allowed at any meal on Sundays, and once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with the exception of Holy Thursday, and the second and last Saturdays of Lent.

11 Persons dispensed from the obligations of fasting on account of tender or advanced age, sickness, or hard labor, are not bound by the restriction of using meat at only one meal on days on which its use is granted by dispensation. It will be noticed that milk and eggs are allowed at collation.

—Philip Phillips at Music Hall to-night.

—Messrs Thompson & Kersey, of Easton, are the largest advertisers on this Shore. They avail themselves of the advertising columns of the leading newspapers of all the adjoining counties, which bring them customers, not only at home, but from abroad. By their pluck, energy and vim, they have not only benefitted themselves, but they have aided largely in advancing the interests of others. They have also given new life and impetus to the business of Easton and aided largely to its general prosperity. A few live men, in the great hive of life are worth to any town, a thousand drones or a million croaking loafers—American Union.

Irish Relief Meeting.

In response to a public call for a meeting to raise funds to aid the relief of the starving Irish people, quite a respectable meeting of our citizens assembled in the Town Hall on Friday evening. Owing to the inclement weather the meeting was not as large as was expected.

On motion of Mr Walter H Thompson, the Rt Rev Henry C Lay, Bishop of Easton, was called to the chair, and Mr Martin M Higgins appointed Secretary.

On taking the chair Bishop Lay made a brief address, saying the present was an occasion where all of the community could meet together on a common platform and express their sympathy for a suffering cammunity. He said the news from Ireland is well calculated to arouse the sympathies of the American people. In comparison to the over crowded population in that country, our lines are cast in pleasant places. Travel where you may in Ireland, you would find men able to work, who could get no work. so dense is the population and heavy the taxation. In this land there is bread enough and to spare. In his visit to Europe last year, he had seen some of the effects of the bad weather. It was rain nearly all the time, and really distressing. He referred to the failure of the crops in Ireland, and the famine stricken Irish, and impressed upon the audience the duty of giving unto thy neighbor of the bread at thy hand.

After concluding his address, the President declared the meeting ready for business.

On motion of Mr W H Thompson, a committee of three was appointed by the chair to prepare business for the meeting. The committee consisted of Walter H Thompson, M B Nichols and Rev T L Tomkinson. The committee retired for consultation. While the committee was out, J F Bateman was called upon by the chairman to address the meeting.

Mr Bateman responded briefly, expressing his regret that so few of our citizens were present. He spoke of the value of laboring people in developing national wealth, and particularly of what the Irish working men had done in this country, in building our canals and railroads and other public improvements. He adverted to the present distress in Ireland, reading telegrams and extracts from the newspapers, showing that the condition of affairs in Ireland to-day is represented as almost as distressing as it was in 1846 and 1847, when famine swept off a large number of the population. Of the cause of the present distress, bad land laws, high rents, non-resident landlordism, bad weather, failure of crops, disease among the stock, etc, it was not necessary to speak; it was sufficient to know that the distress exists to arouse our sympathies. He said there was not a family in town as poor as nine-tenths of the Irish peasantry, potatoes being now almost their only food; and these in some cases they have to dole out only one a day to each member of the family. Even their seed potatoes they are compelled to consume. They are in need not only of food but of clothing, and blankets to keep them from perishing. Seven hundred and fifty families are represented as starving in Galway alone. The price of wages is but a shilling a day, and no employment for able bodied men. Landlords are afraid to go out of their houses and witness the distress. It is represented that not less than 300,000 people are now suffering starvation. He could not say whether the landlords or tenants were most to blame, but the Irish are now the poorest people in the world, their miserable mud huts affording them scant shelter from the severe winter weather. The people are undergoing slow torture. The head of the family feels that he must not only perish himself, but all those he loves most must perish with him. He said it was the duty of the rest of the world to relieve this distress. We cannot see for ourselves, but we know their condition, and it is our duty to aid in relieving them; the duty was more pressing on us because we are prosperous. Our full granaries point to us the path of duty He hoped our people would show their sympathies by liberally contributing to their relief.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bateman's address, the committee on business reported the following resolutions, which were read by the secretary:

In view of the unparalelled suffering of the people of Ireland, and of the great demand which this condition of things makes upon us; therefore,

Resolved, 1st, That we, the representatives of the various churches of the town of Easton and vicinity, appeal to the christian liberality of the public to aid in the relief of this suffering people.

2nd, That as a christian people we cannot resist an appeal that comes to us with the declaration that multitudes are dying of starvation, while our land is teeming with plenty.

3rd, That a subscription be opened at this meeting and that a committee be appointed to further aid in the soliciting of contributions to this cause.

W H THOMPSON
M B NICHOLS
T L TOMKINSON.

After the resolutions were read, the Chair said the meeting would like to hear from Mr Gibson.

Charles H. Gibson, Esq., then made a brief address, expressing his regret that his professional engagements would not permit of his making special preparation for the occasion. But he was here to express his sympathies for Old Ireland. The Irish had been no drones in the hive, in producing that prosperity which blesses our land. If there is one who can rejoice with those that rejoice, and weep with those who weep, it is the Irishman. He said, we have heard the sad news that comes across the ocean. Magnify it all you can, yes, tenfold, yet the half will not be told. Famine stalks like a giant spectre throughout Ireland. Men, brave men are dying, women are wasting away, and children dying at their mother's breast. They are giving up the scant remnant of what remains in their impoverished households, to save them from starvation. He alluded complimentary to Bishop Lay's coming to preside over the meeting, and asked shall Easton withhold her tribute? The call for relief is no empty sound. From Maine to Texas it shall be, my countrymen, hear Erin go bragh!

Rev. Dr. R. Wilson, Rev. T. L. Tomkinson, Rev. Father Brady, Rev. Mr. Zimmerman each made brief addresses. J. F. Turner being called for, made an extended address in support of the resolutions, arguing that it was the duty of the English Government to provide for the relief of the Irish, and concluded by reciting the following extract from an address delivered by George D. Prentice in 1846, respecting the former great famine in Ireland:

"There lies upon the other side of the wide Atlantic a beautiful island, famous in story and song. It has been prolific in statesmen, warriors and poets. It has given to the world more than its share of genius and of greatness. Its brave and generous sons have fought successfully in all battles but its own. In wit and humor it has no equal; while its harp, like its history, moves to tears by its sweet but melancholy pathos. In this fair region God has seen fit to send the most terrible of all those fearful ministers who fulfill all His incrutable decrees. The earth has failed to give her increase; the common mother has forgotten her offspring, and her breast no longer affords them their accustomed nourishment. Famine, gaunt and ghastly famine, has seized a nation with its strangling grasp, and unhappy Ireland, in the sad woes of the present, forgets, for a moment, the gloomy history of the past.

In battle, in the fullness of his pride and strength, little recks the soldier whether the hissing bullet sings his sudden requiem or the cords of life are severed by the sharp steel. But he who dies of hunger wrestles alone, day after day, with his grim and unrelenting enemy. He has no friends to cheer him in the terrible conflict; for if he had friends, how could he die of hunger? He has not the hot blood of the soldier to maintain him; for his foe, vampire like, has exhausted his veins. Who will hesitate to give his mite to avert such awful results? Give, then, generously and freely. Recollect, that in so doing, you are exercising one of the most God-like qualities of your nature and, at the same time, enjoying one of the greatest luxuries of life. We ought to thank our Maker that he has permitted us to exercise equally with Himself that noblest of even the divine attributes, benevolence.

Go home and look at your families, smiling in rosy health, and then think of the pale famine pinched cheeks of the poor children of Ireland, and you will give according to your store, even as a bountiful Providence has given to you—not grudgingly, but with an open hand; for the quality of benevolence, like that of mercy,

Is not strained;
It droppeth, like the gentle rain from heaven,
Upon the place beneath. It is twice bless'd,
It blesses him that gives and him that takes.

The chair then put the resolutions to vote, and they were adopted by acclamation.

The President of the meeting then appointed the following committee under the third resolution:

Committee: J F Turner, R H T Councell, Matthew Hale, M M Higgins, Charles H Gibson, Robert F Walker, Patrick Ryan.

The following resolution was then proposed and adopted.

Resolved, That Mr. Joseph Graham, teller of the Easton Bank, be requested to act as Treasurer to the Committee, and that the funds collected be transmitted by the committee in their discretion.

The meeting then adjourned.

(Mr. Hale informed us that in consequence of absence from the county for the next two weeks, he will be unable to give his attention to the duties of the committee, and desires us to request the chairman of the meeting to name some other gentleman to act on the committee in his stead.)

We understand that the chair has appointed Mr M B Nichols to serve on the committee in the place of Mr. Hale.

During the meeting an announcement was read by the chair to the effect that an entertainment would be given by the Pinkney Literary Society in Music Hall on Friday evening, the 20th inst.,—proceeds to go to the Irish Relief Fund. The announcement was received with applause. We have since learned that owing to unavoidable circumstances the entertainment has been postponed until Tuesday evening next, the 24th inst.
