THE EASTON STAR

EASTON, MD.

TUESDAY, JULY 27, 1880,

T. K. ROBSON, Editor.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GEN. WINFIELD SCOTT HANCOCK

of Pennsylvania.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

HON. WILLIAM H. ENGLISH, of Indiana.

—:o:—

FOR ELECTORS,

At Large—I. NEVITT STEELE,
" J. T. C. HOPKINS.
1st Dist.—LEVIN L. WATERS.
2nd Dist.—PATRICK WALKER.
3rd Dist.—JOHN R. McNULTY.
4th Dist.—WILLIAM H. WELSH.
5th Dist.—RICHARD W. W. BOWIE.
6th Dist.—WILLIAM M. PRICE.

ROBERTS' POULTRY POWDERS are guaranteed to cure Poultry of all diseases, if given before the fowls refuse to eat. Sure cure for Cholera. We have tried it, and advise all to use it.

GEN'L GONZALLES has been elected President of Mexico, to succeed President Diaz.

JAY GOULD, the great Republican Wall street railroad chief, says James A. Garfield will be defeated.

THE two wings of the Democratic party of Philadelphia have united for a harmonious and vigorous campaign.

A GERMAN Hancock association in New York already numbers 8,000, at least 1,000 of whom have heretofore been Republicans.

THE celebrated Neal Dow, of Maine, has been nominated as the candidate of the Temperance party for President of the United States.

HON. WILLIAM G. BROWN, and Judge Robert S. Brown, both leading Republicans of West Virginia, have come out strongly for Hancock and English.

THE Democrats and Democratic readjusters of Virginia are compromising, so as to have but one electoral ticket, and thus make the State doubly certain for Hancock and English.

"I do not know any really good man who has done and assisted in doing so many bad things in politics as General Garfield."
—Judge J. S. Black's letter to the Phila. Times.

THE Republican party knows very well it is in a large minority in the country, yet it has 100,000 office holders under it. It has levied a tax of an average of $20 each, on these office-holders, which will give it a campaign fund of $2,000,000. But two millions of dollars will not bribe enough people to elect the bribe taken, James A. Garfield, president. Five millions, nor ten millions, would not do it. They may throw this big pile of money away on worthless camp-followers, but they cannot reverse the decree of the people that has gone forth, declaring General Winfield Scott Hancock the next President of the United States.

THE Centreville Record, a stickler for county rotation in congressional nominations, without regard to availability, gives away the claim set up by Queen Anne's for the nomination this year, in the following sentence. It says: "the claims of Queen Anne's were fully recognized in the nomination of Hon. R. B. Carmichael in 1872, who declined it." The claim of Queen Anne's having been met and satisfied in 1872, if the county claim, and not the most available man is to control this year, the nomination must go to Caroline, as it has not had a nomination for forty years. This is as true as Gospel; but if the most available candidate is to be nominated, without respect to locality or county claim, then there can be no doubt that the honors will be carried off at Salisby Mr. Gibson, who is a great favorite with the party throughout the district, and the gentleman best calculated to push through Congress the important local matters in which the district is so vitally interested. As it is impossible for all the candidates spoken of to be nominated, and only one can be chosen, we repeat what we said last week, and express the hope that all the others may wave their respective claims, and that the convention will nominate Mr. Gibson by acclamation. With Hancock and Gibson inscribed on its banner, the Democratic party of the district will roll up such a majority as shall wind up the Republican party here forever.

A FEW days ago some Republicans from Baltimore visited this Shore to organize branches of the Army of the Republic, this is, Republican campaign clubs. This shows that the Republicans are at work in Maryland, and intend to carry the State, if they can. Democrats should meet them at the doorsill, and not allow them to make the fight at the hearth stone. Democratic clubs should be organized all over the State, and care should be taken to prevent Democrats from joining Republican organizations. Democrats, who were soldiers during the late civil war, have in their candidate for President, as gallant a soldier as fought on either side; and to manifest their love of the soldier, or to demonstrate their patriotism, there is no necessity for their joining the Army or the Republic, or any other but the democratic army. They can show their love of the Union, and their regard for civil liberty and constitutional principles, much better by keeping in the Democratic camp and voting for General Hancock; and Republicans, white or colored, may also do their country a service and show their patriotism by voting for Hancock. We have no use on the Eastern Shore for the itinerant politician, whose business it is to wander about and organize branches of the Army of the Republic, with the view of parading the bloody shirt in our midst. We people of the Eastern Shore are at peace with one another, and we want to see peace in the country, and we denounce all those who would sow the seed of discord among us, or sow them in the nation. Let the people of all parties, colors and conditions rally to the standard of that gallant soldier and honest statesman, Winfield S. Hancock, and all strife and corruption in the country will be submerged, and a reign of peace and good will will be inaugurated, that will assure to the whole land a measure of prosperity possessed by no other country on the earth.

THE NEWS.

Greece has decided to mobilize her army.

The Egyptian Obelisk has safely arrived at New York.

The Democrats of Missouri have nominated Hon. Thomas T. Crittendon for Governor.

The Democrats of Ohio have nominated their State ticket, with Judge William Long at the head of it, for Secretary of State.

Ex-Minister Washburne sailed on Saturday for Europe. He will do nothing to help Garfield carry Illinois.

The Greenbackers of San Francisco have nominated W. A. Home for Congress in the Third district, and J. D. Godfrey in the Fourth district.

Gen'l J. B. Weaver, the Greenback candidate for President is stumping the State of Alabama.

There was a cave in of the Hudson river tunnel, at Jersey City, early Wednesday morning, which buried in mud and drowned about 20 workmen. It was a most horrible disaster.

Hon. A. P. Gorman and family have gone North for health and recreation.

The President has appointed Gen'l Henry S. Huidecoper, the Germantown manufacturer, postmaster of Philadelphia, and he has accepted.

The largest and most enthusiastic Democratic convention ever held in Vermont, assembled last Thursday at Burlington, and nominated Edward J. Phelps for Governor. The Democrats have determined not to let Vermont go for Garfield by default. Hancock's nomination has created the greatest enthusiasm in the party throughout the State.

An Ex-Confederate's Tribute to General Hancock.

A PLEASING INCIDENT.

Among the speakets at the Hancock ratification meeting at Warrenton, Va., was Gen. Wm. H. Payne, a leading lawyer of that town and a brigadier-general in Gen. Fitz Lee's Confederate cavalry division. In a synopsis of Gen. Payne's speech the Warrenton Index says:

"Gen'l Payne related an incident, personal to himself, which illustrated how entirely Gen. Hancock sought to end the war and soften its hardships to its victims. He described the scene when his house in Warrenton was surrounded at dead of night after Lincoln's assassination, in violation of the terms of capitulation at Appomattox, and how he was dragged to Fairfax Court House, though but recently badly wounded, and locked up in jail with Federal deserters. All the property he then had in the world, consisting of horses and equipments, were taken from him and his aid, and from thence he was hurried to Washington city, where with four companions, he was hounded through the streets by an infuriated mob who supposed the prisoner had some connection with the assassination. From Washington he was transferred, in May, to Johnson's Island and supplied with the unpleasant information that he would be held for amnesty. Whilst there every effort was made for his release by interesting some one of influence in his behalf. Gen. Grant was addressed by General Lee; Henry Winter Davis was approached through a relative of his wife; and appeals were made Secretary Stanton and others in authority. But no one could be induced to concern himself in the matter. At length Gen. Payne addressed a letter to Gen. Hancock. The reply was an instant order for his release on the parole granted the Confederate army; and, better still, an order for the restoration of all property taken from him. On his return home, in June, he found awaiting his call his own as well as his aid's horses and all their equipments, except a sword especially valued for the inscription upon it. That sword was appropriated by an officer sitting upon the trial of Mrs. Surratt and was being worn by him. In a short time that, too, was returned to him, and will be handed down to his children's children. The audience could well understand that in the generosity, the justice, and the soldier-like conduct of Gen. Hancock, in this comparatively trifling matter the speaker recognized a noble and magnanimous spirit and why he should have had a weakness for Gen. Hancock ever since its occurrence. He regarded the incident as typical of the man—the next President of the United States."

The Credit Mobilier.

There are a good many people who constantly read about the Credit Mobilier swindle, who really do not know what it is. The following from the New York Sun is so plain, that none can fail to understand it:

WHAT WAS THE CREDIT MOBILIER?

Several correspondents, among them an esteemed clergyman in a neighboring town of New Jersey, have requested us to answer this question. They understand, we suppose, the relations of Mr. Garfield to the Credit Mobilier; the broad relations of the Credit Mobilier to Congress and to the people are less clear to their minds.

A few Years ago the United States endowed magnificently with its lands and bonds, and many valuable privileges, a company organized to build the Union Pacific Railway. When certain shrewd managers of this concern came to count up the cost of the work and to cast up the assets to be applied to it, they found an enormous balance on the right side of the book. In order to absorb this balance and transfer it to their own pockets, they immediately proceeded to form an inside Ring to build the road. They bought an old Pennsylvania charter called Credit Mobilier, which was admirably adapted for the swindle in view, and under that charter name began the execution of one of the most remarkable and successful frauds in history.

As officers of the Union Pacific, the members of the Credit Mobilier contracted with themselves for the construction of the line, and fixed their own figures for the work. They thus stripped the Union Pacific of everything of value belonging to it, and set it over to the Credit Mobilier. With one hand they robbed the treasury of the railway company, and with the other they stuffed the plunder into the treasury of the construction Ring, whence it was distributed to the individual conspirators in the form of dividends of cash, bonds, and stocks.

But the United States, in slight return for its unexampled bounty, had taken a first mortgage on the property. This was inconvenient to the Ring. Having absorbed everything else, they now desired to put a first mortgage on the road, and take the bonds of that also. But that could be done only by gitting rid of the first mortgage of the United States; that, again, could be effected only by act of Congress. To simple-minded and honest men this would seem like a very difficult thing to accomplish; to them it appeared easy enough. They set apart a certain amount of the enormously valuable stock of the Credit Mobilier—stock which represented both the plunder of the past and the plunder of the future—and gave it to Oakes Ames, who agreed to "place it where it would do the most good." He was a member of Congress, and was, not unjustly, supposed to know exactly how to employ it in order to corrupt the sources of legislation. With this corruption fund he bought the Vice-President, several Senators, and the Chairmen of the leading committees of the House. Then, by the votes and influence of these men the desired legislation was had, and a new field of pillage was laid open to the Ring, in which the Government and the stockholders of the Union Pacific were equal sufferers.

It was not possible that a series of transactions were so collossal and so infamous could be concealed forever. There came a day when The Sun spread this iniquity before its readers in almost every detail. It was the most shocking revelation of official venality and corruption ever made in the whole coure of our history. Investigation followed, and the guilt of the accused members was clearly ascertained. With a few exceptions, they added the crime of perjury in their testimony before the committee to the crime of bribery.

Among others, James A. Garfield was bribed, aware that he had not been bribed; was convicted of bribery and perjury by the testimony of Ames and by documentary evidence of conclusive character; and the committee composed of members of his own party, reported him as a bribe taker and a perjurer.

ROBERTS' HORSE POWDERS were formerly used amongst the runners and other valuable horses, but now since the Price has been reduced to 25 Cents per Package, all can afford to use them.

General Sherman's declaration that he has "no recollection of ever hearing anything from General Hancock about taking orders from Mr. Tilden" knocks the wind out of many able-bodied editorials. The report was, it will be remembered, that in response to an inquiry from General Sherman, during the electoral troubles of 1877, General Hancock wrote to be forwarded that, believing Mr. Tilden elected, he should look to him for orders if Congress declared him the President of the United States. Asked if this report were true General Hancock simply referred his interrogators to General Sherman, who, he said, was at liberty to print every letter that had ever passed between them. The whole thing was a mare's nest. It makes no difference whether General Hancock wrote such a letter or not, provided his superior officer asked his intentions; but the presumed state of facts has been the text of many columns of denunciation of Hancock as a traitor, and it is perhaps well that Sherman has spoken. Next!—Phila. Times.

Death of a Centennarian.

Mr. Edward Hamilton, the oldest citizen of Harford county, died last Friday at the residence of his nephew, James K. Hamilton, near Failston. He was born March 4, 1776, and was consequently in the 105th year of his age. Mr. Hamilton's birthplace was Ireland, but he has resided in this country for a period longer than an ordinary life-time. For many years he kept a store on the corner of Baltimore and High streets, Baltimore. He and his sister, Mrs. Mary Hamill, purchased nearly all the land around and on which Fallston now stands. Mrs. Hamill died upwards of a year ago, at the advanced age of 102 years. Mr. Hamilton's wife, Jane, was a year or two his senior. She also died three years ago, having reached the ripe old age of 103 years. At the age of 16 Mr. Hamilton became a member of the Presbyterian church, but for the last forty years of his life he was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Gen. Grant's Future.

A Galena (Ill.) dispatch says: "It is authoritatively stated here that Gen. Grant will return to Galena before the 1st of August, settle up his affairs and go to New York, where a position is open for his acceptance. The General has been tendered the presidency of the American branch of the De Lesseps's Canal Company at a salary of $25,000 a year. This he has refused on the grounds that the enterprise would not prove a financial success during the lives of those now interested in the scheme, and he could not lend his name to an undertaking in which his friends were likely to embark and receive no returns from if they do not entirely lose their investment."

It is sad but true that many children have filled untimely graves, by the neglect of their mothers to have SINES' SYRUP OF TAR, HOARHOUND and WILD CHERRY on hand. Every thoughtful mother has a bottle this season of the year for immediate use.
