IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness It Would Bring to Westminster Homes

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Backache pains often come from weak kidneys.

'Twould save much needless woe.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Read what a Westminster citizen says:

Mrs. Oliver Myers, 42 Bond street, says: "I had a bad case of kidney trouble and my back bothered me. It seemed as though I were being cut across the small of my back with a knife. My feet were swollen and my eyes became affected. My kidneys acted too often. Another of the family recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box. I had immediate relief after using one box of Doan's and I kept on taking them until I was entirely cured of the trouble. I owe a great deal to Doan's."

Mrs. Myers gave the above statement October 10, 1916 and on December 11, 1920, she added: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills made for me has been a lasting one. I have had no return of the kidney trouble and will always recommend Doan's."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Myers had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

LOCAL MASONS WILL WITNESS BIG EVENT

Biggest and most impressive of all ceremonies in the history of Freemasonry in the United States will be the laying of the cornerstone of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial at Alexandria, Va., on Nov. 1, 1923. This occasion undoubtedly will witness the gathering in Washington, D. C., which is just across the Potomac river from Alexandria, of the largest number of Masons ever attending any function. A number of Masons from this city and immediate community will attend the ceremonies. There are now 3,000,000 members of the Craft in the United States, with more than 17,000 Blue Lodges scattered from coast to coast. Each of the lodges will have at least one representative at the gathering, and the total attendance is expected to go into hundreds of thousands.

The national capital and its vicinity, already world famous for the imposing beauty of their edifices, will have in the George Washington Masonic National Memorial a structure more majestic than any heretofore erected at the seat of the federal government. The site selected for this memorial, the grandest ever erected in honor of any man, could not be improved upon. It is on Shooters Hill, on the old King's Highway and on the commanding Arlington Ridge, from which a view may be had of the city of Washington and of all the places most frequented by the first president, whose residence was at Mount Vernon, only a few miles distant. The structure itself will be of noble proportions and of wonderful architectural beauty, surrounded by a park of 32 acres, which will give the edifice a proper setting for all time to come.

The memorial will be of enduring granite and when completed will cost $4,000,000. Its dimensions over all will be 230 feet in depth by 160 feet in width, exclusive of steps, terraces and approaches. Its height to the summit of the observation tower will be 200 feet. The architecture is to be classic, its form inspired by the great towers built in the days of Greece and Rome to mark the entrances to harbors and from whose summits permanent burning flares could be seen for miles at sea, a guide for mariners.

The Memorial Hall in this grand structure will take the form of an atrium, 70 by 100 feet, in which it is proposed to set a statue of Washington. This great hall will have a height of 64 feet, rising to a clerestory above the surrounding portion of the building. It will be flanked by Ionic columns 40 feet high and surrounded by a number of rooms devoted to Masonic interests. The entrance to the edifice will be expressed in a six-columned portico of pure Doric design. Above the Memorial hall, and forming the second story, will be a museum to house the many priceless relics of the first president now in possession of Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 22, of which Washington was the first Worshipful Master. Above the museum will be a third level, and topping the whole will be a covered observation platform, all three levels screened by stately colonades.

The architects of this memorial are Helme & Corbett of New York, and S. Eugene Osgood of Grand Rapids, Mich., is the consulting architect. The landscape architects are Olmstead Bros., of Brookline, Mass. The memorial had its inception at a meeting of leading Masons in the lodge of George Washington at Alexandria on February 22, 1910. From humble beginnings the present extensive plans have developed, which probably will require a decade for completion. The George Washington Masonic National Memorial will be the center and rallying point for Masons of the United States and of the world for many years to come. The excavations already have been completed and a portion of the foundations laid.

THE QUEST OF A GOOD TIME

Life was not meant to be altogether serious. The people whose minds through all their waking hours are concentrated on their work and the effort to make money, become hard and self centered.

The other extreme is equally dangerous. The main purpose of a lot of people is simply to have what they call "a good time." During their hours of labor they are constantly looking at the clock. If it is only 3:30 when they hope it is four o'clock, they sigh and turn wearily to their task again.

The thoughts and conversation of such folks are largely on their amusements. The show they attended the previous night, the dance they plan for the coming evening, are the subjects of animated thought, while their fingers and brains mechanically go through the tasks by which they are said to "earn" a living.

Manifestly such folks are tolerated by employers only because for the time being more interested helpers can not be found. But such people have no future unless they wake up.

Such persons are a dead weight upon the community. You can rarely interest them in any form of public work. Nothing seems interesting to them except the things that quiet their unrest. But by and by they have tired of all the standard pleasures, and many resort to vices to whet their flagging interest.

What can be done to arouse these pleasure loving people? Well, the schools, the women's clubs, the lecture courses, the newspapers, etc., are doing their best to wake them up. Every time you induce them to read a good book, to attend an informing lecture, to discuss a political campaign, something has been done to give them a new contact with the real world of thought, and draw their minds away from their self absorbed lives.

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

By the Rev. Charles E. Schaeffer, D. D.

October 28th.—How Can We Answer Those Who Say That Prohibition Cannot Prohibit? Hab. 2: 1-14.

The most popular subject for discussion today is the question, Does Prohibition prohibit? For three years the Volstead Act has been in force and apparently sufficient time has elapsed to enable us to pass judgment upon the merits of the law. There are two opposing camps with reference to this question. There are those who maintain that the Volstead Act is a dismal failure and that the law can never be enforced. They insist that it is an infringement upon personal liberty to be prescribing for people what they dare eat and drink. There are strong efforts made to discredit the law in the eyes of the public. Probably the Prohibition Law is being violated more than any other law in the land. There is a great deal of bootlegging, of smuggling in of intoxicating liquors from other countries. There is also the home-brewing of spiritous liquors. Then again many people have never taken the Prohibition Law seriously; many treat it as a joke. In clubs men discuss where the best liquor can be bought; theatres poke fun at it, and a large number of good people are secretly on the side of the "wets." All these arguments and many more are being used in an effort to overthrow the Eighteenth Amendment.

There is, however, another element in our country who are able to marshall the most convincing evidence of the fact that Prohibition does prohibit. Perhaps the best answer that can be given to the question whether Prohibition can prohibit is that it does prohibit. Thousands of saloons have been closed, breweries have been shut down. The owning of intoxicating liquors is negligible to that in pre-Prohibition times. The fact that there are violations of the law is no valid argument against the law itself. Scarcely any law is obeyed in toto. Take any of the Commandments as given in Exodus, chapter 20. Every one of the ten Commandments is violated, yet no one would say that they ought to be abolished, and that they cannot be made effective for good.

Let us also remember that we have had only three years of Prohibition and that there have been, if geologists reckon correctly, thirty thousand years of society when practically no restrictions had been placed upon opportunity for drunkenness. A thing that was ingrained so thoroughly into human society cannot be eradicated in a day or even a few years. It may take a generation or a few generations, but it will come. A recent writer in "Collier's," who signs himself "Jack O'Donnell," made a tour throughout the country and his observations are that "the Eighteenth Amendment is an accepted fact almost everywhere west of the Alleghany Mountains. Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee and other States are dry and there is a growing respect for the Volstead Act. None of these States is bone-dry as yet, but they are on the way." And he continues that "there is an abundance of evidence that a great dry wave is rolling eastward, slowly but surely grinding down opposition to Prohibition." Classing himself with the "wets," he allows, "Some day we 'wets' are going to awaken to find that an overwhelming majority of the people of the United States are wearying of bootlegging and dry law violation. Some day, and that day is not far distant, these people are going to rid the country of the bootlegger and rum-runner just as the Vigilantes of the 50's rid California mining-camps of undesirable gamblers, gunmen and prostitutes."

The September issue of "The Annals" of the American Academy of Political and Social Science is devoted entirely to the consideration of Prohibition and its enforcement. The subject is treated from every conceivable angle by experts on the subject. So overwhelmingly strong is the testimony in favor of Prohibition and the effectiveness of the Volstead Act that no reasonable man can any longer question the desirability of the enforcement of the Amendment to the Constitution. Surveys in a number of States have been made, revealing wonderful changes for good along economic, criminal and physical lines. In fourteen large American cities, including New York and Chicago, the deaths from alcoholism in 1916 were 1,799; in 1920 only 276. In Boston, in 1917, there were 72,897 arrests for drunkenness; in 1921, 30,987. In the State institutions of New Jersey there was a decrease of 58.4% in the number of insane people in the three years since Prohibition, as compared with three years before. At the same time figures of 1922, compared with 1917, show that New Jersey had 30 more State banks and 41,000 more depositors in saving banks. In 1922 the resources in the banks, trust companies, building and loan associations were $1,359,000,000, while in 1917 they were only $705,725,000—a gain of 92%. Some folks said that Prohibition would disturb the business of the country but it certainly does not appear as if this had been the case in New Jersey. It has been remarked that the only lines of business that have been unfavorably affected by Prohibition are the undertakers, the grave-diggers and the monument makers. Prohibition will undoubtedly figure as a factor in the coming Presidential election. Theoretically, the laboring man, is against Prohibition, but no other class has been more benefited by it than the laboring man.

In 1922 Dr. Charles W. Eliot wrote: "Evidence has accumulated on every hand that Prohibition has promoted public health, public happiness and industrial efficiency. This evidence comes from manufacturers, physicians, nurses of all sorts, school, factory, hospital and district, and from social workers of many races and religions laboring daily in a great variety of fields. This testimony undoubtedly demonstrates beyond a doubt that Prohibition is sapping the terrible forces of disease, poverty, crime and vice. These results are obtained in spite of imperfect enforcement in some communities of the Eighteenth Amendment."

What is needed is an awakened Christian conscience. The Church of Christ must speak out boldly and clearly on this issue, and the Christian people, the members of our Churches, by word and deed, in private and in public, must seek to uphold the law. The officials in high standing, judges and officers, must see to it that the law is enforced and that justice is done quickly to those who are violating the same. Politics and money have been figuring too largely in this whole business, and when these two combine we have a hard and a long fight. The only adequate solution is the arousing of the conscience of the people. So long as people will buy, somebody will sell. When once we make the buying of liquor like the receiving of stolen goods, a punishable crime, we shall observe that Prohibition will actually prohibit.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 28.

SOME MISSIONARY TEACHINGS OF THE PROPHETS

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 60:1-3; Jonah 4:10-11; Micah 4:1-3; Zeph. 3:9.
GOLDEN TEXT—"The Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising."—Isa. 60:3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of Jonah.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Love for All Nations.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Prophets as Missionaries.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Missionary Message of the Prophets.

Perhaps the best way to teach this lesson will be to note the message of the individual prophets.

I. The Message of Isaiah (Isa. 60:1-3).

1. Its Central Fact (v. 1). Israel's light, her Redeemer, has come. The primary meaning of this is not the incarnation of the Redeemer, but His manifestation in glory and power as He comes back to this earth to reign as Israel's King. This glorious fact is presented under the figure of a bright sunrising. It will be a glorious morning without clouds dawning upon a dark world.

2. The Ringing Summons (v. 1). Messiah himself calls Israel to arouse herself from her long sleep of indifference and shine forth in the glory of her glorious king.

3. The Darkened Earth (v. 2). In spite of all the progress of the arts and sciences spiritual darkness—blindness touching spiritual things—has settled down upon the earth. It will be peculiarly gross in the last days. It can only be dispelled by the glorious appearing of the Lord.

4. The Blessed Result (v. 3). The Gentile nation shall come into the light, being attracted to Zion by the appearing of the Lord. In the midst of such darkness the sudden appearing of the light shall attract the nations and draw them to Jerusalem.

II. The Message of Jonah (Jonah 4:10, 11).

Jonah was commanded by the Lord to go to the wicked city Nineveh and proclaim its destruction in forty days. He started in the opposite direction in order to escape this unpleasant task. A storm came up and the superstitious sailors threw him overboard. He was swallowed by a great fish and after three days and nights was cast upon the shore. Having learned the needed lesson he went to Nineveh and preached with such earnestness that the whole city repented. The mercy shown by the Lord in sparing this wicked city so angered Jonah that he went out of the city and improvised a shelter where he could see whether God would really destroy Nineveh. To protect the prophet, God made a gourd to quickly spring up and throw a shade over him. When the gourd died and left Jonah exposed to the burning sun he prayed for death. The particular message of Jonah is that God is great in mercy to all the nations when they penitently turn unto Him from their sins.

III. The Message of Micah (Micah 4: 1-3).

In this message the prophet portrays the blessings of the Messiah's kingdom in the last days. Three things are predicted:

1. The Supremacy of His Kingdom (v. 1). It shall be exalted above all the kingdoms of the earth. Its glory shall attract the people from afar.

2. The Extent of It (v. 2). Many nations shall come with the urgent request that others accompany them. The kingdom of Messiah shall be universal, it shall extend from sea to sea and from the river to the ends of the earth.

3. It Shall Bring Peace (v. 3). Enmity will then be taken from men's hearts and they will love each other. When their hearts are changed they will no longer wage war against each other, they will even destroy their implements of warfare. War will continue till men's hearts are regenerated. The way to get wars to cease is to get men to love Jesus Christ.

IV. The Message of Zephaniah (Zeph. 3:9).

Zephaniah declares that following the judgment upon the nations God will turn the people from their impure speech so that they may call upon Him. He declares that God's will is that all nations turn from their filthy conversation and call upon Him. He desires that all nations should come unto Him.
