Agricultural.

Eggs: Price and Production.

As eggs are now retailing in this market at from 20c to 30c per dozen, either on account of scarcity or speculation, any instructions that will insure an increased production should be welcome. A correspondent of the Agriculturist says:

"If we would have eggs in winter, animal food for laying hens is a matter of prime importance. A variety of grains, with green food, in the shape of cabbages or roots, will, if the other conditions are favorable, give some eggs. But a regular and large number of eggs can only be had with constant supplies of animal food. One reason why eggs are so abundant in the early spring and summer is the full supply of insect food that fowls in the open air and grass, get after long abstinence in their winter quarters. It is a somewhat difficult matter for the average farmer to supply animal food to his fowls, especially if he lives remote from the shore. The wastes of the table, scraps of meat and skimmed milk too often go the pigs, the dog, and the cats. A cheap source of supply of animal food is butcher's scraps. These can generally be had in the nearest market town or village that supplies a butcher, at about a cent a pound. They generally come in solid cakes from 20 to 50 pounds in weight. As the farm wagon often comes home empty it will cost nothing for freight to get one of these cakes to place in the hen house where the fowls can peck it and help themselves. The same thing is sometimes ground and sold at high prices as a special food. But there is no advantage in this. Fowls have gizzards that do their own grinding more perfectly than the best mill. A dead animal is frequently drawn off to the woods and buried or left for the dogs. The hens, if it is put within reach, will bury it more effectually and pay handsomely for the job. If the bones are gathered up after the hens have polished them, and crushed with a stone hammer pretty fine, another valuable ration will be added to the stock of poultry food, and offer something to make egg shells of. The wastes of the slaughter-house, the heads of beeves and calves, are a coveted feast for the hens."

The consumption of eggs in this country is estimated at one thousand million annually so there is room for exertion in poultry rearing.

Uses for Salt.

A writer in the Rural New Yorker says that the salt question is always on the carpet, and while it is very certain that salt is not a manure it is equally certain that its application is a decided benefit. The retardation and often complete ruin of crops by insect depredation is well known, but it is not at all appreciated to its full extent. Salt can act in but three ways beneficially. It attracts moisture, and hence is useful in dry seasons; it drives away insects, and therefore is use ful in all seasons; and when thoroughly dissolved by heavy rains, it acts by assisting inert or insoluble material to become fit for plant food.

The first mode is a slight gaining, enough though to pay for the salt; the second is very valuable, paying for the salt and trouble of application from ten to one hundred times over, according to the prevalence and destructiveness of the insects; the third mode is of but little value because insolubles are generally proof against its feeble action. If we sum up the gain from the three modes of action, we perceive such a very decided gain that one fair trial is sufficient to convince the most skeptical. The only danger is in excess, but as five bushels per acre will do no harm, the danger is not likely ever to be alarming, as few farmers can afford to waste salt anywhere.

Ohio's Most Profitable Crop.

Of all the staple crops of the Ohio Valley for 1880 none have given so great a profit as white Burley tobacco. It stands in the lead of all farm crops. It is in greater demand than any other, and commands from $8 to $12 for common, $17 to $20 for fine and $20 to $22 per 100 for extra crops. Planters get from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds per acre, and some have made over $200 per acre clear of cost of labor and marketing. Of course the lands which grow the finest Burley crops are somewhat limited, but tests made last year show that the area suited to its growth is much more extended than has been heretofore believed. The seed of this variety is selling by the hundreds of pounds, and a large crop of it will be planted all through the tobacco-growing district. What effect the prospective large crop will have upon values is a matter of conjecture, but dealers think it will command over $12 for good crops, no matter how much is raised. The white Burley tobacco is used by manufacturers of both fine cut and plug. Good, rich red crops bring the highest prices.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Grape Culture in China.

One of its correspondents in China writes to the N. Y. Observer from Chefoo, under date of Dec. 8, 1880:

"In some parts of North China grapes are extensively cultivated, and of good quality. The Chinese enrich the soil with bean cake—i.e., the refuse of beans after the oil is expressed. The vines are generally planted near a stream or well and the ground kept moist by irrigation. Some varieties are left to hang until after the leaves fall from frost, being protected from flies and wasps by being inclosed in gauze bags. They are then gathered and deposited in earthen jars with the top covered to as to exclude the outside air. In this way the fruit is kept sound and fresh until late in the winter."

Reducing Bones to Manure.

A correspondent of the Massachusetts Ploughman says that for several years he has packed bones in green horse manure, making the heap with a layer of manure at the bottom and putting the bones and manure in layers of about three inches in thickness. He wets the layers as the heap is made. A few weeks' time is all that is needed to reduce quite large and solid beef bones to a condition in which they can be broken to a coarse powder, by the cork, when the heap is overhauled. Any tough pieces are put in another heap. He has rotted in this way over a ton of bones at one time in less than two cords of horse manure. The top of the heap is to be covered with some earth or muck to absorb the gases.

Gleanings.

Soils are improved by mixing. The physical properties of the soil have an important influence upon its average fertility. The admixture of pure sand with clay soil produces an alteration which is often beneficial, and which is almost wholly physical. The sand opens the pores of the clay and makes it more permeable to the air.

A grape-grower in Manalapan, Monmouth county, N. J., gathered last season from one acre and one-sixteenth of land, 18,556 pounds of grapes. One ton was used in making wine, and the remainder of the crop was sold in the New ark and New York market at an average of 2½ cents per pound.

Beekeepers must see to it that the entrances to the hives do not become closed up with dead bees or ice. Use a piece of wire about ten inches long, with a short hook bent at one end, and once every week or ten days remove the entrance blocks and clean out all the dead bees. Bees require very little air during cold weather, but during a warm spell, should the bees find themselves closed in the hives, they would soon become excited and smother themselves to death.

At the Maryland Academy of Sciences Dr. Theobald showed a species of a beetle which was observed by him to move a tray. He gave the following figures: Weight of beetle, 2 grains; weight moved, 5½ ounces—2,560 grains, or 1,280 times the weight of the beetle. A man weighing 150 pounds, endowed with strength in the proportion of this insect, should therefore be able to move 198,000 pounds, or nearly 100 tons!

To fatten fowls quickly, give plenty of milk, in any state, from fresh to thick. Feed in connection with a grain diet, for one counteracts any possible deleterious influence of the other. If kept in a darkened place and fed unsparingly on milk, with grain fed in the proper proportions, you will soon have something very choice to set upon your table. When milk is fed, no water is required for fattening fowls.

The eggs of the tent caterpillar, on the small branches of apple trees, are now more easily found and destroyed than at any other season.

Taxpayers Read Carefully.

The attention of all taxpayers who have not paid their taxes for 1880 is directed to

Article XI, Section 42,

of the Revised Code of the public General Laws of the State of Maryland, wherein it is provided that "Every tax collector shall pay over the taxes within six months from the time he gets the books, and any tax collector who fails to do so shall be liable to prosecution and punishment."

The collector received the books for 1880 August 2, 1880. The six months will then expire February 2, 1881, and if the collector has not then closed his accounts he will be liable to the penalties prescribed in the law referred to.

The collector must carry out the law.

To no individual in Talbot county can an extension of one day be granted, further than the law gives.

G. E. HADDAWAY, dec2,80 LGC Collector.

EARS FOR THE MILLION!

Foo Choo's Balsam of Shark's Oil

Positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness Known.

This Oil is extracted from a peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as Carcharodon Rondeletii. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous and I may so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire empire. Its use became so universal that for over 200 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1 per bottle.

Only Imported by HAVLOCK & CO.,
SOLE AGENTS FOR AMERICA, 1 Dey St., New York.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and personal observation.

Among the many readers of the Review in one land and another of the country, it is probable that numbers are afflicted with deafness, and to such it may be said: "Write at once to Havlock & Co., 1 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1, and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—Editor of New York Mercantile Review, Sept. 25, 1880.

The Taxes for 1880.

TAX-PAYERS are notified that the tax accounts for 1880 will be ready on Tuesday, August 17th

and on and after that date the collector will be prepared to receive the taxes, and will allow the following discounts on both state and county taxes, WHEN PAID IN CASH.

On August Payments.....5 per cent
On September Payments.....4 "
On October Payments.....3 "

Special Notice.

The attention of tax-payers is especially called to the provision of the new Code of Public General Laws, which says, emphatically, that the collector shall collect and pay over the taxes within six months after receiving the books, and in the event of his failure to do so, he shall be liable to prosecution and severe punishment.

This means that the collector, having received the tax books on the 3d of August, 1880, is obliged by law, by his oath of office and by the bond he has given for the faithful performance of his duty according to law, "to collect and pay over the taxes within six months," that is by the third day of February, 1881.

The collector has no discretion in the matter. Having accepted the office, he is bound to execute its duties in accordance with law, and he will therefore be obliged to collect by the summary process of distress or execution of all taxes that are unpaid on the third day of February, 1881, and notice is hereby given that all tax bills for 1880 in arrears on the third day of February, 1881, will be collected at once by legal process.

Tax-payers should therefore make provision to comply with the requirements of law so as to pay their taxes for 1880 before February 3d, 1881, and thereby save costs, trouble, and much unpleasantness. GEO. E. HADDAWAY, aug17tf Collector.

He is manufacturing and repairing Carts, Wagons, Wheels, Agricultural Implements, Cradles, Ox Yokes, and other work in his line, at prices which cannot fail to give satisfaction. All his work is done in the strongest manner, and warranted to give satisfaction. He respect, fully invites farmers and others to give him a call, examine his work, and compare prices and quality with the work of other wheelwrights. He returns thanks for past favors and solicits a continuance of the public patronage. jun5-yr done in the best manner promptly to order. 1,000 samples wall, ceiling and bordering paper kept on hand, from which to make selections. Orders received by mail promptly attended to.

I have been using John Lucas & Co.'s Celebrated Enameled Ready-Mixed Paint, very extensively for the last two years and have tested it very thoroughly, and after using from eight hundred to one thousand gallons in 1879 alone, I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the best paint in the market. The following qualities make it superior to any I have ever used:

1st. It has no water in it, and can therefore be used in the coldest as well as the warmest weather.

2d. Two coats of this paint will give as much satisfaction as most other paints with three coats.

3d. One of its most desirable qualities is its uniform thickness; it is not so thin in warm weather as to be fit only for priming, nor so thick in cold weather as to not spread easily and evenly.

I have the exclusive sale of it in this county.

I have obtained the signatures of the following persons upon whose houses I have used this paint during the years 1877-78-79, (all of these houses were new and most of them finished with only two coats) and they recommend it as entirely satisfactory in solidity, brightness and durability.
