MELROSE

Although there was a heavy fall of snow on Friday, the sale of H. C. Shaffer, was well attended on Saturday afternoon, good prices prevailing.

There are community prayer-meetings at different homes on Wednesday evenings in this neighborhood, at which time the Sunday school lesson is explained for the following Sunday by the minister present, prayers are offered, and an opportunity is given to hear personal experiences from anyone present. The singing is interesting and helpful.

During a recent storm the hen house of Mr. Emanuel Sellers in town was partly unroofed.

March seemed to bring general cold and snowy weather to the whole eastern part of the United States, even extending to Florida. In a letter from Alabama, we select the following: "We have had much cold weather during February and March. It required much more fuel than other winters. Almost everything that can freeze was nipped during the last cold spell. I fear that oranges and grape-fruit were injured."

Those who were privileged to be present as a part of the audience in the Immanuel Lutheran Church on Sunday morning were favored with a good sermon by Rev. Rehmeyer on the first part of the Apostle's Creed, and the Men's Bible Class was treated to a wonderful explanation of the Sunday school lesson, "Jesus as a Missionary" and an explanation of that wonderful disease, "Leprosy."

PLEASANT GROVE AND REESE

This will be the last Sunday before conference and there will be regular preaching in the morning. The pastor will preach at 10:30 and Sunday school will be at 9:30. All come to both services.

Last Sunday was missionary anniversary and even though the wind blew a gale a large number braved the wind and came out. A program consisting of songs, recitations and readings was well rendered and the pastor gave a finely illustrated talk on the subject of missions. A good collection brought up the regular amount of the year's assessment for Sunday school.

Movings are in order now and each day the loads pass each way, up and down. Mr. Clayton Green and family moved from Mr. Howard Taylor's house to Mr. Guy Myers' house, near Patapsco.

Mrs. A. H. Gehman and daughter spent the week-end in Baltimore with friends.

Mrs. Sarah Robinson, of Liberty street, is visiting her son, Mr. Herbert Myerly.
