She wore her brother's winter cap,
Her father's ulster coat;
She had her uncle's necktie on,
And met a billy goat.

No sooner had she winked at him,—
'Twas quicker done than said—
He lifted her about ten feet
And stood her on her head.
The goat walked off as if to say,
"I guess that young man's dead."

—Royal Hand-Bell Ringers, Friday, 30th.

—Don't forget the poor in your holiday festivities.

—Repairs furnished for any stove manufactured by Nichols & Bro.

—THE STAR was printed on Saturday evening, in order to give our hands an opportunity to enjoy Christmas.

—A certain clerk was heard to say, "Thank fortune! the boss has stopped advertising and now we will have some rest."

—Of far greater value than houses and lands is health; therefore preserve it against the effects of Coughs and Colds by promptly using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. All druggists sell it for 25 cents.

—The rain storm cleared off Friday night, followed by a clear, bracing Christmas eve, so that none could complain of a bad day for their shopping. The clerk of the weather was very considerate.

—"Cigar smoke puffed in a man's face by another man is assault and battery," says a New York judge. If that is the case, cigarette smoke puffed anywhere in one's neighborhood should be considered murder in the first degree.

—Now is the time to take Laroque's Anti-Bilious Bitters for chills and fevers, headache, dyspepsia, costiveness, &c.; its effects upon the system is truly wonderful. 25 cents a paper; $1 a bottle. Sold by druggists. W. E. Thornton, proprietor, Baltimore, Md.

—All the Christmas goods were not sold last week. Our dealers in fancy goods, toys, books, &c., have "a few more left of the same sort," which they will now sell at a bargain. All who have'nt done so, will please call at the captain's office and supply themselves.

—The Prospectus of the Atlantic Monthly for 1882 will be found in the STAR this morning. The Atlantic continues to be the leading periodical of New England, and the most popular medium through which the best thinkers of the North communicate with the public. Those who want a first class periodical for 1882 should subscribe for the Atlantic Monthly.

—State's Attorney J. W. Bryant, of Caroline, had a second jury of inquest and a post mortem examination of the body of John A. Blanch, to ascertain whether he was killed by a blow received in his fight with James L. Payne, or. died of heart disease, as was believed by some, he being subject to that disease. The investigation resulted in proving that he died of heart disease, brought on by passion while engaged in the fight.

—The City and State, published by George E. Chapman and edited by Howard S. Hodson, Esq., 126 West Baltimore street, Baltimore, at $1.50 per annum, is an ably edited and well conducted weekly paper, and those who may subscribe to it will find it excellent reading. Mr. Hodson, the editor, is a talented young lawyer, and a native of Dorchester county. He has been connected with the press in one way or another for several years, but he was never more at home than in the editorial chair. We wish his paper success.

—On Thursday week a colored man in Miles Rivers Neck caught at the head of Miles Rive a leather carp, weighing 2 pounds and 6½ ounces. It is probably one that escaped from Col. Thomas Hughlett's pond at "Pleasant Valley," about a year ago, and was at that time not more than four inches long. Mr. Fayette Gibson bought the carp of the darkey, and says it was of most delicious flavor. It seems that this carp has done first-rate in the open waters, and the fact would tend to disprove the theory that carp will not flourish in our rivers. We should like to see a thousand of them put out at the head waters of Miles river and have the matter tested on a large scale.

The Century Magazine for January.

The third number of the new series of Scribner presents, as a frontispiece, a tint-printed engraving by Cole of Bonnat's portrait of Thiers, accompanying a paper of personal recollections of the first President of the French Republic, by E. B. Washburne, late U. S. Minister at Paris. It is a popular record of stirring events in the establishment and life of the Republic, and acquires especial value from the intimate acquaintance existing between the writer and his subject. Mas. Mary Hallock Foote's second paper on Mexico deals with "A Provincial Capital," viz., Morelia, and particularly with the home life of the place. The materials for this article and its illustrations were prepared by Mrs. Foote during her recent trip to Mexico. "The Caverns of Luray," by Ernest Ingersoll, is the first fully illustrated magazine paper that has appeared on the subterranean wonders of the newly discovered rival to Mammoth Cave. "The Revival of Burano Lace" is the subject of record by Catharine Cornaro, with drawings made for this paper by the Misses Montalba and the Princess Louise of England, and an engraving by Closson of a portrait of the beautiful Queen of Italy, patroness of the Burano Lace-school. Specimens of lace work are also given for comparison. "Who were the Chartists?" by W. J. Linton (who was himself a Chartist), is a vigorous account and vindication of the workingmen's agitation in England in 1848, with portraits engraved by Mr. Linton of six of the most prominent of the leaders of the movement. Colonel Rockwell's paper of reminiscences of Garfield, which it was not possible to prepare, as designed, for the December number, appears in the present issue under the caption "From Mentor to Elberon." Colonel Rockwell writes in the spirit of warm personal friendship, and deals with General Garfield's attitude toward the presidential nomination, both before and after it came to him; the canvass and his part in it; the home life at Mentor during that summer; his foreboding after the election; the preparation of the inaugural; the harassing crowd of office-seekers; the fortitude of the illness, etc. With this paper is given an engraving by Kruell of the Bierstadt arotype portrait, which is thought to supplement the Sarony picture engraved by Cole in the December number. The most elaborately illustrated paper of the number is Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell's account of "Oriental and Early Greek Sculpture"—the first of several on Ancient Sculpture. The notable engravings which accompany this paper augur well for the papers to come, which will deal with the richer period of the Phidian age, etc. The Assyrian pieces, such as the "Lion from the Gate of Nimroud" and "The Wounded Lioness," are particularly fine.

The unillustrated material is not less in topic. Mrs. Burnett's "Through One Administration," besides broadening the plot, gives a glimpse of the evils of the spoils system from behind the scenes. Mr. Howell's "Modern Instance" is, for him, unusually full of action, and shows a wide range of variety in the characters, which will be further enlarged in the January part. "The Increase of Disease" is the subject of an essay by Washington Gladden, which makes exhibit of some startling figures, and will be read with close attention. "The Legal Aspects of the Mormon Problem" are clearly set forth by Arthur G. Sedgwick, who finds no defect in the law as it now exists, and thinks that the decline of Mormonism will result from disintergration rather than from the passage of additional laws that cannot be enforced.

Death of John M. Satterfield.

A dispatch was received here from Baltimore Saturday morning, announcing the death of Mr John M. Satterfield. He was a son of Mr. John Satterfield of this place, and book keeper for Matthews & Kirkland, south Charles street. He was a widower, and leaves a daughter and many friends who will lament his death.

Restored to a Decline.

NORTH GREECE, N. Y., April 25, 1880.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I feel it my duty to write and thank you for what your "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription" have done for my daughter It is now five weeks since she began their use. She is more fleshy, has more color in her face, no headache, and is in other ways greatly improved. Yours truly,

MRS. MARCELLA MYERS.

The Market.

Christmas turkeys were lively in market on Saturday at 10 cents per pound, for live, and 15 cents per pound for dressed. Geese were 10 cents per pound, and sweet potatoes 30 cents per peck. Apples are bringing 50 cts. per peck. Butter is 35 cents per pound. Dressed chickens bring 12½ cents per pound. There is no cabbage in market, and very few turnips Celery is abundant at 25 cents a bunch, of about four stalks to a bunch. Irish potatoes are 30 cents per peck. Beef is selling at from 15 to 21 cents per pound, according to quality of steaks or roasts.

—Royal Hand-Bell Ringers, Friday, 30th.

Trying to Steal a Cow.

A negro with a foot about 12 inches long, tried to steal a cow from Mrs. Mary Dawson, near Royal Oak, last Thursday night during the rain storm. The thief stole Mrs. Dawson's carriage reins and traces, to use as ropes to drive the cow off the premises; but the cow did not approve of the proceeding, tumbled the thief down in the road, got away from him and run home. He then abandoned the attempt to secure his Christmas cow, and left the reins and traces in the road. That neighborhood has been famous in times past for its poultry thieves, but this is the first time a cow thief has turned up there. Mr. Pratt, the constable, should look out for the gentleman. He is wanted at the new jail.

Sale of Real Estate.

Tilghman & Clark, real estate agents, have sold the following farms: Henry E. Baker's farm of 220 acres to Wm. H. Councell, Esq., for $6,500 cash 140 acres "Clay's Hope" Wm. T. King's farm to Mrs. Sue M. Scott, of Atchinson, Kansas, for $6,000 cash. Stephen V. Leonard's farm, "Orem Delight" 180 acres to Arthur K. Easter, Esq., of Baltimore county, for $6,250 cash.

Through the agency of C. E. Shannahan the following sales have recently been made: The farm of 120 acres, near Cordova station, belonging to Flavious J. Cornell, to James L. Hand, of Ohio, for $6,500. Also, the farm of 191 acres, on both sides of the D. and C. railroad, about a mile south of Cordova station, Charles Kielholtz, to Wm. E. Harden, for $2,650 cash.

Wm. Halstean, real estate agent, has sold the following property; Phœbe Jane White's farm, on Railroad avenue, 7½ acres, to William Laing, formerly of Canada, for $700. Also, Clement Anderson's farm, near Lewistown, 134 acres, to Riley E. Farnsworth, of Bavava, New York, for $4,000.

For THE STAR.

TO THE TOWN COMMISSIONERS:

Gentlemen—The Legislature will soon be in session again, and you will doubtless ask for legislation, to enable you to dispose of the town debt. Two years ago, the proposition was to issue six per cent bonds running ten years, for $10,000, and to provide for their payment by gradual taxation. This is the means of payment heretofore most talked of. But would it not be better to levy a special tax of 37½ cents on the $100 for two years, and pay off the debt without issuing the bonds? I am told that on our present basis of assessment, a tax of 37½ cents on the $100 will yield $2,500 in one year, or $9,000 in two years, and no doubt the commissioners could manage to pay off the remaining $1,000 in the third year, after they are relieved of providing for the interest of the debt. This is the shortest and easiest way out of the business, and the people do not care how soon the town is free from debt, so that needed improvements may be made with the revenue that is now used to pay the interest on the debt. I make these suggestions in order that the matter may be discussed, knowing that you will do what is best for the interests of all concerned.

TAX PAYER.

The Atlantic Monthly

for January gives excellent promise for the coming year. It opens with an essay by Mr. Howells, entitled "Police Report," describing, in Mr. Howells's most engaging style, incidents and reflections of two visits to a police court. The humane and sympathetic tone of the essay is no less noteworthy than its literary charm. Mr. Bishop's serial story is postponed to the February number, but Mr. Lathrop begins a story which will run through three or four numbers, "An Echo of Passion," the first installment of which is remarkably good, and indicates that it is to be one of the best stories that the Atlantic has ever had. A very striking article is one by Rev. E. E. Hale, entitled "John Baptist at the Jordon." It is the first paper of a series on events in the life of Christ, and is intended to reproduce as faithfully and as graphically as may be the political, religious, and social conditions of the people of Palestine at the time of Christ's coming. Mr. Hale has admirable skill in apprehending and presenting the historical aspects of any event or time, and the series promises to be one of quite remarkable interest and value. "Studies in the South" is the title of another thoroughly interesting article, which describes from close and accurate information the condition of affairs at the South; this paper, which is the first of a series, being given largely to what are known as the "moonshiners." It is written by the author of "Certain Dangerous Tendencies," and he aims to report with perfect fidelity the situation and sentiments of the South as he saw them. A striking short story is "And Joe," by S. A. L. E. M. Elizabeth Robbins contributes a very interesting article on "Hindu Humor." Mr. A. Granville Bradley, son of the new Dean of Westminster, writes on the "Prominence of Athleticism in England.—H. H. describes in her own charming way "A Midsummer Fete in the Pueblo of San Juan." The poetry of the number is by J. J. Piatt, J. T. Trowbridge, and Edith M. Thomas. There are reviews of several important new books, and an interesting Contributors' Club. The magazine opens the new year with fine promise, and when we remember that there are to be serial stories by Thomas Hardy and Elizabeth Stewart Phelps in the course of the year, we need add nothing to enlist the interest of our readers.

A life-size portrait of Ralph Waldo Emerson has been prepared specially for Atlantic subscribers, who secure it by paying one dollar. HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co., Boston.

Public Business.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

The county commissioners were in session on Tuesday. John W. Fooks, supervisor was ordered to repair a piece of public road in Miles River Neck, on the west side of the bridge over Leed's creek. Mr. Tarbutton was requested to have a piece of road and bridge repaired, on the Easton and Centreville road, near Skipton. Application was made by the commissioners of Easton for an appropriation towards shelling the public streets of the town used by country people in hauling their produce to market. As the town has to pay its proportion of the tax to keep up the public roads in the country, it is thought nothing but right the county should contribute something to keep these streets in repair, so indispensable in hauling grain and other produce to Easton Point. A number of applications were received for supervisorships and placed on file. Amount of bills audited and paid $2,036.60.

ORPHANS' COURT.

In the Orphans' Court on Tuesday the administrators of David Kerr, Jr., was directed to give notice to creditors to file their claims. F. A. Benson, ad'm of William H. Morling, returned a list of sales. Sam'l S. Yeo, ad'm of Wm. H. Duncan, deceased, presented his first account of administration.

A SOLILOQUY.

To buy or not to buy, that's the question:
Whether 'tis more economical to buy my new suit now,
Or put it off, and suffer all the ills and shakes of winter,
Or to purchase, and thus put an end to a thousand and one heartaches.
To freeze and shake, aye, there's the rub,
For in those heartless blasts of old Boreas,
Such biting air will come as will freeze the marrow in my bones;
And thus the native hue of resolution grows bright within me,
And I'll go direct to Thompson & Kersey's Clothing Emporium
And buy my new suit and overcoat for Christmas,
And thus put an end to the doubts that harass me.
