THE EASTON STAR

TUESDAY, JULY 4, 1882.

EDWARD LEAKIN, Editor.

L. DAUGHERTY & CO., Newspaper Advertising Agents, 139 West Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., are authorized to contract for advertisements for THE STAR, at our lowest rates.

WALTER and James Malley and Blanche Douglass have all been acquitted of the murder of Jennie Grange, at New Haven, Conn. The trial ended with the acquittal on Friday last.

CHAUNCEY F. BLACK, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor in Pennsylvania, is a son of the brilliant writer and able jurist, Judge Jeremiah S. Black, and is said to be a chip of the old block—as sharp as lightning.

It is pretty soon to be decided whether John Bull is a bigger bear than Arabi Pasha. Arabi addressed the Egptain army last Thursday, and said he was not afraid of England. Now, it will be interesting to know if England is afraid of Arabi.

No hair preparation in the world has attained such a world-wide reputation as Ayer's Hair Vigor. This is due to its healthy action on the hair and scalp, and its remarkable power of restoring gray hair to its original color and imparting a gloss and freshness which makes it so desirable to all classes and conditions of people.

THE Europeans and other foreigners have nearly all been driven out of Egypt, the government of the country is in possession of Arabi Pasha, the tool of the rabble, business is worse than stagnant, and 30,000 native Egyptians are reported as starving. The condition of Egypt is most deplorable. Arabi ought to be squelched, and that in a hurry. The Kedive amounts to nothing.

ENGLAND is making heavy preparations for war with Egypt. John Bull has made up his mind to protect the Suez canal and maintain his influence in the East, and if he has to fight, intends to be ready. He should make short work of Arabi Pasha, the author of all the trouble in Egypt.—The taking possession of Egypt by England would be the best thing for that unfortunate country that could happen

GOLDEN DAYS,

The Assassin Hung.

Guiteau, the murderer of President Garfield, was hung at Washington last Friday. The execution took place in the jail yard, and was private. His body was delivered to one Dr. Hicks to whom Guiteau left by will the copyright of his literary works. His will forbids the use of his body for speculative purposes.

Guiteau Plunged into Eternity.

The drop fell with Guiteau dangling feet downwards at the end of the rope, precisely at 12.30 on Friday. His neck was not broken; he was only strangled to death. His body was immediately given to the doctors and an autopsy held, to determine whether the wretch was sane or insane. The crowd outside the prison during the execution was immense.

Another Railroad Accident.

There was a dreadful railroad accident between Long Branch and New York,—New Jersey on Thursday. Several were killed outright, a number mortal wounded, and some eight persons were slightly wounded. Gen. Grant was on the train, and was slightly injured. The train busted up a bridge, while going at high speed, and the cars were precipitated into the river.

Protection from Malaria.

The preventive is the far-famed Southern remedy, Simmons Liver Regulator, a purely vegatable tonic, cathartic alterative. It acts more promptly in curing all forms of malarial diseases than calomel or quinine, witout any of the injurious consequences which follow their use. Take the Regulator and it will keep your liver, bowls and kidneys in perfect order, and you will never have an experimental knowledge of the meaning of the word malaria.

The Officeholders Play While the Laborers Work.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Congress passes over with neglect the discontent of labor, but it takes good care of the officeholders. They are regarded as a preferred class, and they receive the first care of the Republican majorities. Nearly fifteen hundred of them have been added to the long roll of loyal sinecures, and from present signs the salaries for the civil list of 1882-83 will reach almost three millions more than those for the current fiscal year. A thoughtful

THE Democrats of Pennsylvania have nominated Mr. Robert E. Pattison, of Philadelphia for Governor. He was nominated by the State Convention, which met at Harrisburg on Wednesday. On the six ballot, the name of Mr. E. B. Cox, of Luzerne, was withdrawn, and the final ballot was for Robert E. Pattison, 126½; for James H. Hopkins, of Alleghany 119½.

ROBERT EMORY PATTISON, the nominee for Governor, is a son of the late Rev. Robert H. Pattison, and was born near Snow Hill, Somerset county, Md., Dec. 8, 1850. He studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1872. In September, 1877, he was nominated by the democrats for city solicitor of Philadelphia, and was elected by a plurality of 2,011. His efficient administration of the office rendered him so popular that he was re-elected in 1880 by a majority of 13,593 over the republican candidate.

THE blasphemous scenes under the garb of religion attending the Guiteau execution, satisfied us that all executions should be at midnight, and strictly private—the clergy and reporters as well as others than the officials should be excluded without an exception. It is high time to stop the sanctifying of crime at the gallows. A midnight private execution would be a much greater terror to the commission of murder than those we have been having in this country, where the assassin is made the hero of an hour, and then packed off straight to glory, inviting others to follow his example, and seek salvation by the same infamous means. It is to be hoped that Congress will pass a law regulating executions in this respect in the District of Columbia. The States would doubtless follow, by enacting similar regulations, as soon as the good effects of the law were apparent. Nothing could be worse than the present disgusting exhibitions, which are shocking to the sensibilities of all decent people.

Dangers of the Stock Market.

[illegible] enough to the [illegible] mysteries of a [illegible] when he sets the [illegible] straight for Dr. Swayne's Ointment. Unlike the bulls and bears of the stock Exchange, it never puts you out of humor with itself, but returns you a smiling countenance in the way of allaying the intense itching and insuring sweet repose.

The Great Republican Sham.

The most audacious sham yet prepared in Congress is the bill which keeps the House on Tuesday pretending to reduce the internal revenue taxation.

The Republicans pledged themselves to a large reduction of taxes when the present House of Representatives was elected. Mr. Kelly, Chairman of the Ways and Means, volunteered the most profuse promises to this effect. These professions were made to be broken.

The Treasury estimates the surplus for the coming year at one hundred and thirty-seven millions of dollars. With this enormous capital lying unproductive, the Republican majorities in Congress insist that taxation shall go on as it has done for a half a generation, on a war basis, and that in this day of trial the working-man shall have no relief.

The issue is joined, and the record is made up. The two parties will go to the people on the votes given upon this sham.—N. Y. Sun.

THE Day disclaims responsibility for its onslaught on Judge Stump; it was only the work of one of its wicked reporters. We advise it to restrain its reporters, and not permit them through its columns hereafter to disseminate the defamation of the character of honorable judges, which is circulating in the rural barrooms to prejudice their re-election. The Day says it is not against the re-election of Judge Stump; and yet we ventures to assert that outside of this judicial circuit, where the people know better, there is not a reader of the Day, who has perused the article we criticised last week—and the Day has a large circulation and they have doubtless been extensively read—who does not now take it for granted on the authority of that paper, that Judge Stump is an ignorant sot, unworthy a seat on the bench; and that the fuss in Cecil county is because of his fellow Democrats there being anxious to drive him from the bench on account of his dissipation;—when the fact is, there is no truth in the story, and the contest in Cecil is a scramble for the United States Senatorship, with Mr. Cruikshank as the cat's paw to drag the chestnuts out of the fire, because Judge Stump refused to be a party to a bargain to advance the candidacy of Mr. Constable for Senator. Had Judge Stump accepted Mr. Constable's terms and promised support of him for Senator, and thus secured his support in the judicial contest, Mr. Cruikshank would never been heard of as a candidate for judge, and Judge Stump would have been declared by the same people who are now traducing him, as unexceptionably sober and pious, and the equal in point of qualification to any judge on the Eastern Shore.

The Day misstates the facts when it charges the STAR with covertly threatening the loss of the judicial circuit and the congressional district if Mr. Cruikshank is nominated. The STAR threaten nothing of the kind, but simply intimated what might be the result of the Day's work, if it succeeded in defeating Judge Stump by disseminating slanders against his private character, to cover up the animus of a campaign having its foundation in a bargain and sale respecting the Senatorship.

Our apprehensions respecting the matter may not be well founded, but it may be wise for the Day, if it desires the success of the Democratic party, to act on our suggestion, and not force the issue by keeping its staff out of the contest, as it is difficult for even the most temperate reporters to dine or wine with politicians and then to write them up or down without bias. If a prurient appetite for scandal forces city newspapers to deal in that delectable article, there certainly ought to be enough of it in the air these times to slake the thirst of their readers, without party organs sending special reporters to the country towns, to gather up the local gossip, for the purpose of publishing it and scandalizing honored and honorable members of their own party without the purpose to do them damage! We are a little old fogyish, and may be at fault in our ideas in this respect, because we may not be up with the times and the city proprieties, still we have our own notions, and, like the Day, there is no uncertain sound in the expression of our views.

The Fourth.

This is the one hundred and sixth anniversary of Independence Day—the day on which was written and proclaimed the Declaration of American Independence—the Fourth of July—the Glorious Fourth—the day that every American rooster is at liberty to crow—ever American eagle to flap his wings and scream—the day that marks the separation of these United States from the British Empire—that gave birth to the most powerful nation now on the face of the earth. The Fourth of July is a historical day—one that thrills the heart of every freemen on the face of the globe. The Fourth of July 1776 marks an era in the political systems of nations—and era in the history of humanity and civilization. It was the dawn of written constitutions, the assertion of individual manhood and taxation only by representation and consent. The thirteen American Colonies that proclaimed the Declaration of Independence had altogether only a little over 2,000,000 of population; now the 38 States that comprise the Union have over 50,000,000 and are abreast of the old nations of Europe in wealth and resources.

These States and Territories now stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans, from the St. Lawrence and the Lakes to the Rio Grande; and the ports of the Pacific states and the ports of the Atlatic states, are bound together by roads of steel, while the telegraph communicates intelligence from the centre to the circumference, from city to city, from town to town, in the twinkling of an eye, throughout the Republic. No people on earth exceed the Americans in courage, in energy, in enterprise, and no other people to-day are amassing wealth so rapidly; no other nation is increasing in population so rapidly, and no other will be near so powerful at the beginning of the next century, when the population of the United States will be nearly 100,000,000.—The Western States are now the granaries of the world, the Southern states raise the cotton to run the looms of the world, our vast prairies raise the pork and cattle to feed the world, and the Pacific states and territories mine the gold and silver to buy what we need of foreign nations. Immigrants are flocking to our shores by the million, in search of work, and homes, and cheap land and personal and political liberty, and religious toleration, and free school, all of which are guaranteed to them under the principles contained in our Declaration of Independence, the charter of our national life and liberties.

We have had in the last hundred years fifteen party contests, culminating in civil war, but fortunately the cause of strife is removed, and now the Union marches on harmoniously to power and greatness, to glorify every recurring Fourth of July, the wisdom, the statesmanship, the heroism and the national courage of the fathers of the Republic, who dared to brave the British lions in defence of American rights. If the wisdom of an act is to be determined by the results, then has subsequent events and results triumphantly vindicate the wisdom of the policy that gave to mankind our immortal Declaration of Independence, and all lovers of freedom throughout the coming ages must ever cherish the memory of Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, John Hancock, Charles Carroll of Carrollton, and their compeers, who signed the bond and pledged their lives, their fortune, and their sacred honor to maintain to its ultimate triumph the sacred cause they had united to defend.

IT is proposed to raise to the incidents of the revolution among patriotic americans to drink in a little of the spirit of 76; and let our thoughts dwell upon the great work accomplished by our revolutionary fathers for their descendents and those who might come to our shores to enjoy with us this great heritage, the price of their wisdom and their blood. The glorious Fourth should be held in perpetual memory and reverence, and no party in this country should be permitted to trample upon or cause the country to stray away from the sacred principles of Thomas Jefferson as embodied and preserved in the Declaration of Independence.

Guiteau's Dying Prayer.

The following is the blasphemous prayer uttered by the assassin Guiteau a few minutes before the drop fell:

THE DYING PRAYER.

"Father, now I go to Thee and the Saviour. I have finished the work Thou gavest me to do, and I am only too happy to go to Thee. The world does not yet appreciate my mission, but Thou knowest it. Thou knowest Thou didst inspire Garfield's removal, and only good has come from it. This is the best evidence that the inspiration came from Thee, and I have set it forth in my book that all men may read and know that Thou, Father, didst inspire the act for which I am now murdered. This government and nation by this act I know will incur Thy eternal enimity, as did the Jews by killing Thy man my Saviour. The retribution in that case came quick and sharp, and I know Thy divine law of retribution will strike this nation and my murderers in the same way. The diabolical spirit of this nation, its government and its newspapers towards me will justify Thee in cursing them, and I know that Thy Divine law of retribution is inexorable. I therefore predict that this nation will go down in blood, and that my murderers, from the Executive to the hangman, will go to hell. The laws are inexorable, oh, Thou Supreme Judge! Woe unto the men that violate Thy law. Only weeping and gnashing of teeth awaits them. The American press has a large bill to settle with the mightiest Father for their vindictiveness in this matter. Nothing but blood will satisfy them, and now my blood be on them and this nation and its officials. Arthur, the President, is a coward and an ingrate. His ingratitude to the man that made and saved his party and land from overthrow has no parallel in history; but Thou, righteous Father, will judge him. Father, Thou knowest me, but the world hath not known me, and now I go to Thee and the Saviour without the slightest ill-will toward a human being. Farewell, ye men of earth."

After finishing his prayer he said: "I have no enmity. To show how I feel I will read a poem which I made about 10 o'clock this morning. He then chanted the following:

"I am going to the Lordy;
I am so glad.
I am going to the Lordy;
I am so glad.
I am going to the Lordy.
Glory hallelujah, glory hallelujah,
I am going to the Lordy.

"I love the Lordy with all my soul,
Glory hallelujah.
And that is the reason
I am going to the Lord.
Glory hallelujah, glory hallelujah,
I am going to the Lord.

Here Guiteau's voice failed and he bowed his head and broke into sobs. But he rallied a little and went on with his chant:

I saved my party and my land,
Glory hallelujah:
But they have murdered me for it,
And that is the reason I am going to the Lordy.

"Glory hallelujah, glory hallelujah,
I am going to the Lordy."
"I wonder what I will do
When I get to the Lordy.
I guess that I will weep no more
When I get to the Lordy—
Glory hallelujah!

"I wonder what I will see
When I get to the Lordy;
I expect to see most splendid things,
Beyond all earthly conception,
When I am with the Lordy.
Glory hallelujah!
Glory hallelujah,
I am with the Lord."

During the first stage his voice kept an even flow. In the second a tremor was manifest, and before he closed his voice faltered and sank into a quavering, childish cry, dwelling on glory. Dr. Hicks then gave the benediction, "God be with thee and give thee peace forevermore." Then farewells were exchanged. Robert Strong came from behind Guiteau, drawing the black cap from his pocket as he did so, and passed it over Guiteau's face. Just then Guiteau cried "Glory! Glory!"

THE END.

Dr. Hicks took up the word, not without emotion, and cried "Glory!" Guiteau had expected a long prayer, just as the word "glory" dropped a third time from his lips the drop fell. The tightened rope made a sharp report, as if a dozen whips had cracked in unison. Beneath the scaffold hung a swinging mass. There was some contraction of the hands and a shudder, and the inanimate mass hung a dead weight at the end of the gallows rope. In a short time the body was lowered and examined by the physicians, who pronounced that Guiteau, in accordance with the sentence of the law, had been hanged by the neck until he was dead.

Politics in Petersburg—The Democrats Capture the City Government.

PETERSBURG, Va. June 28.—The meeting of the common council this evening was marked by a tactical display both shrewd and venturesome. The present council is democratic, but the term of office of several members expires on the 30th instant, and their places will be filled by regularly elected readjusters, leaving a majority of readjusters in the council. At the last municipal election all of the readjuster candidates on the general ticket were elected, and the city government, but for the action of the council this evening would have been readjuster after June 30. At the meeting of the council today the rules were suspended and the ordinances of the city were so amended as to vest the election of the city officers not in the coming council, but in the present democratic council. Six of the city ordinances were changed. A number of officers elective by the council were elected, and a president was elected for the ensuing council, which is readjuster by two majority, and intensely averse to the legislation of the democratic controlled legislature.

The readjusters pronounce the proceedings unconstitutional, illegal and revolutionary, and threaten to refuse to allow the president elected by the council this evening to take his seat on July 1.

Among the officers elected by the council are the following: Hugh R. Smith president of the council; S. A. Plummer, city auditor; Dr. J. W. Bryant, president of the board of health; R. B. Davis, city attorney. These officers were elected for a term of two years. The present council will hold another meeting to-morrow afternoon.

Malaria, Chills and Fever, and Bilious attacks positively cured with Emory's Star dard Cure Pills—an infallible remedy: never fail to cure the most obstinate, long standing cases where Quinine and all other remedies have failed. Guiteau's Will.

Guiteau's will, by which he disposed of his body, is in the form of a letter, and is as follow:—

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29, 1882.

To the Rev. William W. Hicks:

I, Charles Guiteau, of the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, now under sentence of death, which is to be carried into effect between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock on the 30th day of June, A. D. 1882, in the United States jail in said District, do hereby give and grant to you my body after such execution; provided, however, it should not be used for any mercenary purposes. And I hereby, for good and sufficient considerations, give, deliver, and transfer to said Hicks my book entitled "The Truth and Removal" and the copyright thereof, to be used by him in writing a truthful history of my life and execution. And I direct that such history be entitled "The Life and Work of Charles Guiteau;" and I hereby solemnly proclaim and announce to all the world that no person or persons shall ever in any manner use my body for any mercenary purpose whatsoever. And if at any time hereafter any person or persons shall desire to honor my remains, they can do it by erecting a monument, where shall be inscribed these words:—"Here lies the body of Charles Guiteau, patriot and Christian. His soul is in glory." CHARLES GUITEAU.
