Twelfth Ballot.

L. N. FOX, Editor.

L. N. FOX & CO., Newspaper Advertising Agents, 10 West Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., are authorized to contract for advertisements at their lowest rates.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal remarks: "The friends of Mr. Conkling still continue their attacks on the memory of Mr. Garfield. Mr. Conkling, having been forced into perpetual retirement, proposes to drive the Republican party in after him."

HON. HENRY D. FARNANDIS has declined to accept the presidency of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal on account of ill health. By the way there is another break in the canal, caused by the big rain on the 4th. It is being repaired as rapidly as possible.

THE Blood at times becomes loaded with impurities and moves sluggishly in the veins. This condition of the vital fluid cannot last long without serious results. An alterative is needed to purify the blood and impart energy to the system and there is none better than Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

THE Board of Public Works met as announced, at Annapolis on Wednesday.—The Board was full, but the election of Insurance Commissioner and Tax Commissioner, which was the purpose of the meeting, was deferred until Tuesday the 18th inst., when the Stockholders of the C. & O. Canal will meet to elect a President of that company, Mr. Farnandis having officially declined.

JUDGE JEREMIAH S. BLACK says Gen. Hancock will be the Democratic candidate for President in 1884, and James G. Blaine will be the Republican candidate. There is no doubt that Maryland will go for Blaine's nomination. By ignoring the Baltimore American and its following in this State, the Arthur administration is undoubtly running with the minority of its party here.

THE Stalwarts or Cameron wing of the Republican party in Pennsylvania are talking of withdrawing Beaver and the balance of their ticket, provided they can induce the Independents to withdraw their ticket. The move is made with a view of making a ticket that all of the party can support; but the trouble is that neither wing can trust the other. The fight must go on, which makes the State certain for the Democrats in November, as we long time afterwards.

Flattering Frauds

are acknowledgements of the great worth and superior merit of the genuine medicine; but they are very dangerous and unpeatable to the consumer and demoralizing to the dealer. When anything else is recommended as the same, or just as good, remember it is to make you pay full price for a worthless article, that cost the dealer one-quarter the price of J. H. Zeilin & Co.'s scientifically and carefully prepared Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine for the liver generally conceded to have no equal.

WHITTHORNE of Tennessee and Robeson of New Jersey had a bitter personal debate in the House on Thursday, on the naval appropriation bill. Robeson had charge of the bill and consequently the last speech. Supposing Mr. Whitthorn could make no answer to what he might say of him, he made a most bitter and slanderous attack on that gentleman. Mr. Whitthorne at once sprang to his feet and went right in front of Robeson and denounced him as a liar and slanderer. After Mr. Robeson finished, Mr. Whitthorne rose to a personal explanation and was permitted to reply. He laid the lash on so heavy that Robeson subsided and did not dare to reply. The bill was then passed in the House.

War in Egypt.

From the warlike news in yesterdays papers, we suppose by this time the English and Egyptians have commenced hostilities. Admiral Seymour demanded the surrender of the forts at Alexandria on Sunday, declaring he would bombard them if they were not surrendered in twelve hours. Arabi Pasha was caught violating his agreement with the English.

Scalping Republicans.

The Arthur administration people have been scalping the old line Republicans in the Baltimore Custom House. The Talbot boys, James Valliant and John B. McNeal, have been scalped, and Melville Sherwood, Chas. R. Mullikin, white, and J. E. G. Webb, colored, have been appointed. Capt. Mullikin got John B. McNeal's scalp, and Wm. T. Valliant, of Baltimore, got his relative, James Valliant. We understand that since he lost his scalp, Mr. James Valliant has come out as a Civil Service Reformer.—Gen. Peter Nigley, the assistant measurer, in Baltimore, has been turned out, and Mr. Darby, of Frederick county, appointed in his place. We are sorry the General has lost his place, as he is a very clever gentleman.

The Prairie Monster.

Short of the frightful storms which are said to sweep over the sun itself, there does not seem to be any other force in nature quite equal in energy and terror to the tornado that occasionally swoop down upon the prairies of Kansas, Missouri and Iowa. These whirlwinds, now deemed almost wholly electrical perhaps because electricity is the prevailing fashion in dynamics just now have qualities and traits of the elephant's trunk. They can overthrow a house or pick up a six-pence; tear a full grown and massive tree up by the roots, or strip the bark from the smallest twig, and without injuring the wood as clean as the boy peels a willow rod. Up into the funnel formed by the tremendous pressure and whirl of the air currents, buildings, locomotives, cattle, and children are drawn as readily and readily as gravitation pulls them into an opening in the earth. Residences and b[illegible] large structures and small, are seized and ground into indistinguishable dust, while fragile glass-ware and tender infants have been borne aloft and set down upon the ground again without the slightest harm.

"The last and most destructive tornado in Iowa" says the Detroit Free press, "which last week nearly wiped out the enterprising Town of Grinnell, containing 1,100 inhabitants, differed little, except in the amount of its destruction, from its many predecessors and contemporaries. A roar, a flash of fire balls, a crash, a rush and the [illegible] monster had passed on. In less time than it takes to tell of it, the ruin is wrought. For a few hundred feet in width, expanding some three to a quarter of a mile, and over a mile and for a [illegible] wherever there are houses and people, rather than forests, [illegible] remains. Occasionally, however, it seems to have touched the earth and bounded up again, leaving extensive tracts of land untouched.

"The work of this demon in Iowa was peculiar in its horrible mutilation of the bodies of its victims. A fierce battle with cannonading and shells could not have inflicted such wounds or [illegible] the human anatomy is so singularly [illegible] fashion. In some cases the clothing was torn off and the shreds left clinging to the body had to be cut away [illegible] Dirt, sand, plaster and cinders were ground into the flesh, and could not be washed or scraped away, as if the body had been mashed and rolled about under tremendous pressures in sand and ashes. The bodies were beaten into shapeless masses; spines were driven into skulls and through the top of the head; backs broke short; eyes torn out of their sockets and left hanging down the cheeks; the entrails and organs of the body were scooped out of the body's cavities, and limbs pulled asunder. The head of one beautiful girl was so crushed down into her body, that it had to be cut out. Even hens and prairie chickens were plucked as clean of their feathers, as if they had been ready for market. Mud, dirt, and gravel were not simply splashed on to the sides of buildings, but driven into the fibre, as is discharged from a cannon. In one case a stable was lifted, carried over the tops of the tallest trees and deposited on a hill six or seven hundred feet away, the three horses in it being unharmed. Indeed, the catalogue of ruin wrought by the tornado, and the miraculous escapes from its violence, fatigue credulity and defy the imagination. Almost without an exception, however, those who were warned by the ominous rush and crash of the storm, long enough to run to the cellars, escape death, and with few exceptions all injuries also."

SINKING OF THE SCIOTO.

AN EXCURSION STEAMER ON THE OHIO.

Details of the Terrible Catastrophe—the Water Black with Struggling Human Beings—50 Lives Lost.

MINGO JUNCTION, O., July 4.—The steamer Scioto, with about five hundred passengers on board, collided with the steamer John Lomas in the middle of the river to-night. The Scioto sank in fifteen feet of water. Only the pilot house is visible. The excursionist are arriving here, but are so excited that no definite information as to the number of the lost can be obtained.

One of the survivors says the Scioto was coming up the river under a full head of steam; when about a half a mile from Mingo Junction the John Lomas was signal-coming down. The pilot of the Scioto whistled for the channel, but owing to a misunderstanding both boats took the same side, the Lomas striking the Scito and sinking her in fifteen feet of water in three minutes from the time of collision. The scenes on the Scioto were heartrending, and the struggles for life were frightful to behold.

The Lomas was only slightly disabled, and went to work at once to save those on the unfortunate Scioto. This task was rendered easier by the moonlight, and no doubt many lives were saved from this cause. It is now believed that the first reports were exaggerated, and that the loss of life will not exceed twenty persons.

WHEELING, W. VA., July 5—3 A. M.—It is impossible to ascertain at this hour the number of persons drowned by the sinking of the excursion steamer Scioto after the latter had been in collision with the steamer John Lomas near Mingo Junction, Ohio, last night. Capt. Thomas' son Ed. is missing and a deck hand, name unknown, was drowned from the Scioto. The rest of the crew are safe, the first man taken out of the water being Chas. McCoy, watchman.

The Lomas struck the Scioto on the port side, fifteen feet from the bow, and made a large hole, through which the hull filled rapidly, and sank at once. The boat is now lying on the bottom of the river.—The water is two feet deep in her cabin. Charle Page, of Marietta, Ohio, the stoker or assistant engineer of the Scioto, said that they had started from East Liverpool at 3:30 o'clock in the morning with a large excursion party, who were off for a Fourth of July frolic, and that they went as far down the river as Moundsville, arriving there about 1.30 in the afternoon. After lying there about two hours we started for home, stopping at Wheeling and Martin's Ferry. The people hailed us all along the river, but the captain said we had enough on board, and he refused to take any more, except at Steubenville, where several came on board. When we collided with the Lomas, as near as I can judge from what I heard people saying, we had on board 400 persons at least, or possibly 500. I was on watch at the time of the accident, and when the boats whistled for passing I noticed there was something wrong, but thought nothing of it, and stepped out on the deck for a second, when I saw the Lomas right upon us. I rushed back to my engine and obeyed the bell to go back, which was immediately followed by a bell to stop; and then seeing that the boat was fast sinking the engineer and I threw a skiff into the river, and then I ran after my coat. When I got back the skiff was so full of fear-stricken people that I knew it would sink, so I jumped in the river and struck out for the West Virginia shore. In looking around me as I swam I saw the water was black with struggling human beings, the expression of their faces were frightful beyond description. Men, women and children were crying piteously for help, some of the screams so unnerved me that I could scarcely swim. The current was strong and I struck out with all my might and soon got out of sight of the crowd in the water, there being but two boys near me, who managed to reach the shore in safety with a little help from me. We swam about a mile altogether, and when we reached the shore it was almost impossible for any of us to stand up. As to how many that were lost I can form no idea, nor do I know who caused the accident or who is to blame.

STEUBENVILLE, June 5.—Hundreds of people are attracted to the scene of the wrecked Scioto, some in search of missing loved ones and others from curiosity. One dead body has been recovered on the Ohio side of the river. Two bodies of boys are reported near Wellsburg. Two boys were picked up on the Virginia side after they had swum a mile and a half below the place of accident. They say about fifty persons were on the lower deck with them when the boat sank, and many of these probably drowned.

Capt. Thomas of the Scioto, is nearly crazed with grief. He was greatly benumbed by cold from his fruitless search in the watery cabin for his son's body, and which has been found at Brilliant station. It is thought the death roll may exceed 50. There are more than this number missing.

SEARCHING FOR THE DEAD—THE NUMBER OF VICTIMS.

MINGO JUNCTION, O., July 6.—Boats and grapping tools, diving bells, &c., are on the way from Pittsburg. When the wreck is raised, it is expected that from 30 to 50 bodies will be found. The missing are accumulating, and with what has been found, the dead will number 65 or 75. The dead so far have been recognized and moved to their late homes.

THE DEATH-ROLL GROWING.

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 6.—Up to eleven o'clock twenty bodies have been recovered and those still missing run the death roll up to seventy-four.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS INSTITUTED.

WHEELING, July 6.—A libel was filed in the United States District Court here to-day by W. Q. Heane to compel the owners of the steamer Scioto to forfeit $3,150 for carrying a greater number of passengers than authorized by her papers. The United States statues provides that a steamer carrying a number of passengers in excess of that allowed by the inspector shall forfeit the passage money and ten dollars for each passenger in excess, half of which forfeit goes to the informant.

Corn in Georgia.

The Savannah News cheerfully writes that the corn crop of Georgia this year is unprecedented in the history of that State, the crops planted having been very large and the yield extraordinary, averaging twenty, thirty, forty bushels to the acre. This not only insures the farmers of that State against the want they experienced last year, but it [illegible] materially [illegible] the speculator.

Germantown, Md.

BALTIMORE, July 5th, 1882.

Editor Star—Dear Sir: It was my pleasure to visit Oxford on the 4th, the place of general resort for "Eastern Shoremen" from time immemorial on this, the "natal day."

I had not visited Oxford on the 4th for several years, and was not a little surprised to cosmopolitan in the character of its visitors. I had been there but a few minutes before I had grasped the hands of Philadelphians, Baltimoreans, Wilmingtonians, and New Yorkers, while Eastonians and Cambridgeites and people from other towns and rural districts could be seen anywhere within the corporation limits of the town.

Among the Eastonians I met was Prof. A. Chaplain, Secretary and Treasury of the School Board. This gentleman has the reputation of being one of the hardest workers (engaged in public education,) in the State.

In driving through Talbot last Spring I could not but admire and wonder of the transformation which has taken place in the last ten years in the character of the public school buildings.

These buildings have an air of prosperity without and comfort within, which at once attest the energy and intelligence of the school authorities in Talbot county.

I met while crossing the bay some time since a prominent State official who introduced me to a gentleman—an examiner of Public Schools in one of the western counties of the State. They were discussing ventilations of buildings and I was pleased to learn from them that they believed the ventilation of school buildings had been very "ingeniously solved" by the examiner of my native county, Talbot.

One of these gentlemen informed me that Prof. Newel had said there was no man engaged in the school work in the State so methodical and pains-taking as Prof. Chaplain.—The people of Talbot should see that such a man is well paid and not overworked—for they will have need of his service to carry on and perfect the work he has so successfully initiated.

Would it not be a graceful thing for your most excellent school Board—one of whom is a physician of experience and skill, and knows when a man needs recreation—to send Prof. Chaplain to the sea side or mountains for at least two months.

Did I not feel an interest in whatever concerns Talbot I should not have taken the liberty to make such a suggestion; but my only apology shall be it is pro bono publico.

The STAR arrives every week, its local columns loaded with just such news county and peninsula, as every Eastern Shoremen devours with vividity. Wishing your paper continued prosperity. I am very truly,

A SUBSCRIBER.

A Horrible Hanging.

COL. BRIDGES OF KENTUCKY, ACCOMPANIES GUITEAU OUT OF THE WORLD.

LOUISVILLE, July 1.—A special dispatch from Cadiz, Trigg county, says that Col. John Bridges was hung there yesterday in the presence of the largest crowd that ever assembled in that county.

At the foot of the gallows the doomed man exhibited considerable nervousness, but met the ordeal bravely. Bridges took his stand on the trap, the black cap was drawn over his face and the noose adjusted. Sheriff Boyd quickly sprung the trap, and with a dull, heavy thud the body fell. At the instant of the fall the noose slipped and the poor wretch struggled terribly, and succeeded in freeing his hands and feet from the cords with which they had been pinioned. He made a desperate struggle to get upon the gallows again, but was pushed back and suffered a horrible death by strangulation.

The drop fell at exactly at 2:20, and in 30 minutes he was pronounced dead. The body was cut down and forwarded to his mother for burial.

Malaria, Chills and Fever, and Bilious attacks positively cured with Emory's Standard Cure Pills—an infallible remedy: never fail to cure the most obstinate, long standing cases where Quinine and all other remedies had failed. They are prepared expressly for malarious sections, in double boxes, two kinds of Pills, containing a strong cathartic and a chill breaker, sugar-coated; contain no Quinine or Mercury, causing no griping or purging; they are mild and efficient, certain in their action and harmless in all cases; they effectually cleanse the system, and give new life and tone to the body. As a household remedy they are unequaled. For Liver Complaints their equal is not known; one box will have a wonderful effect on the worst case. They are used and prescribed by Physicians, and sold by Druggists everywhere, or sent by mail, 25 and 50 cent boxes. Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, best ever made, only 15 Cents. Stock Breeding in the South.

A few years ago such a thing as thoroughbred cattle in the cotton States was almost unheard of. Recently, however, there has been a decided change in that direction, inspired by individual enterprise as well as the establishment of State agricultural colleges, where stock breeding is very properly receiving considerable attention. A case in point is the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Mississippi, of Starkville, where 3,000 persons assembled a few days ago to witness the sale of thoroughbred and graded cattle. Over one hundred head were disposed of at prices ranging from $50 up to $250, and there was bidders from almost every county in the State, including Gov. Lowry and ex-Gov. Stone. Cattle raising in Mississippi has received a great impetus, and promises ere long to share the honors with King Cotton.

The Dangers of the Stock Market.

A man may be incredulous enough to risk his money in the fickle mysteries of a mercurial stock market but when he gets the Itching Piles, he goes straight for Dr. Swayne's Ointment. Unlike the Bulls and Bears of the Stock Exchange, who clean you out of hard earned cash, it returns your money with interest, in the way of allaying the intense itching and insuring sweet repose.

The Longest Fence in the World.

The longest line of fence in the world will be the wire fence extending from the Indian Territory west across the Texas Panhandle, and thirty-five miles into New Mexico. We are informed that eighty-five miles of this fence is already under contract. Its course will be in the line of the Canandian River, and its purpose is to stop the drift of the Northern cattle. It is a bold and splendid enterprise, and will pay a large percentage on the investment. The fence will be over 200 miles long.—Clarendon News.

Shipments of Peninsula Peaches to the North.

WILMINGTON, DEL., July 7.—The first consignment of peaches from points on the peninsula to northern cities was made over the Eastern Shore and Delaware Railroads to-day. Two crates were shipped to Boston from Laurel, and the other shipments were made to Jersey City—one crate from Delaware, two from Eden and seven from Newton.

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner. Don't forget this.

WHEN BABIES ARE FRETFUL they disturb everybody, and mothers should know how soothing Parker's Ginger Tonic is. It takes away half their anxiety, stops babies' pains and is always safe and pleasant to use.—Home Journal.
