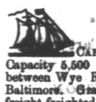
Skipton Packet Line.



ELIZA ANN,

CAPT. JOHN A. CATRUP, Master, Capacity 5,500 bushels, makes regular trips between Wye River and its tributaries and Baltimore. Grain and all other kinds of freight freighted on moderate terms. Ample store room for grain at Skipton Landing. Orders left with George E. Bowdoin & Co., Bowley's Wharf; Keeley & Tilghman, Bowley's Wharf, and Emory & Neavitt, 88 South street, Baltimore, promptly attended to. The patronage of the public solicited. All orders for goods must be accompanied with the CASH. Orders received at Skipton by the Captain or J. A. F. Neal.

N. B.—The Granary at Skipton landing has been raised two feet above tide, thoroughly repaired and strengthened, and made perfectly secure for the storage of grain. Having leased the granary for a number of years, and embarked permanently in the boating business, I am now prepared to offer shipping facilities, accommodating the business of the neighborhood, and respectfully solicit the public patronage. JOHN A. CATRUP.

To Farmers.

The attention of farmers is called to the

BICKFORD & HUFFMAN DRILL.

I have sold between one and two hundred of these celebrated drills in the last two years, with not a single complaint. They are admitted to be the best in the market. Last year I could not supply the demand for them, because most farmers were late giving their orders. All who want them this season will find it to their interest to make their orders early, so that there may be no disappointment.

The attention of farmers is also called to the superior

Oliver Chilled Plow.

I have sold over five hundred of these plows within the two years they have been introduced. They are ahead of all others. As I have made arrangements to supply them hereafter at a

Sarsaparilla.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Eruptions, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Ringworm, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Dyspepsia, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Exhaustion, and General Debility.

By its healthy and cleansing qualities it expels the foul corruption which contaminates the blood and causes derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap strength, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Substitute For Beef.

Beef has gone up in price until it begins to approach the European price, and the belief is that it has gone up to stay. The chief cause is the enormous exportations of beef and mutton to Europe. Our surplus that used to stay hear and keep down prices, and thus put meat within the reach of the poorest, now goes abroad. Ships especially fitted for the transportation of the living animals go to England loaded down with herds, and other ships go fitted up like refrigerators and carry over the meat all ready for the table. The drought of last year was hard on the cattle. Thus prices have gone up, and threaten to stay up. Now in Europe some very sturdy healthy peasantry live without any merit at all. In some parts the poorer classes do not taste meat once a month, even in their soup. In Bohemia the poor live almost exclusively on cabbage; in Scotland on oats and rye; in Ireland on potatoes, and yet fine specimens of athletic manhood are found in each place. It will be several generations, perhaps centuries, before meat becomes so costly in America that the laboring classes cannot have it. But there are several lessons of economy that must soon be learned. One is to use less meat, and the other is to be less wasteful with it, and a third is to make nutritious and palatable dish out of what are called the inferior cuts. The choice parts of the beef will become more and more costly in all probability. But a great many that are now wasted will become available, and will be made to yield up their nutritious qualities. In France a very little piece of meat will flavor a good deal of soup, the richness coming rather from the vegetable than from meat. Vegetable soup without meat may be very enjoyable. American cooking is very wasteful. It is said that a French family could live in comfort on what an American kitchen throws away and the dishes would be more appetizing. We must learn to cook vegetables, in a more varied and attractive style, and rely less upon meat. We have in this country a wealth of substantial vegetables that could enable us almost to dispense with meat in the summer. Tomatoes, corn, limabeans, snap beans, peas, potatoes with these properly cooked, and good bread there is no need of meat. In midsummer most people are healthier with no meat at all. These should be in the summer the substitute for beef, and this and this would save the beef for the winter, and make it cheaper. The way to make beef cheap is to learn to get along with out it. We msght as well look this in the face, for the cheapness of ocean transportation will soon almost equalize prices on both sides of the water.—Every Saturday.

How to Exterminate Ants.

The time of small red ants has arrived to the housekeeper's great annoyance and often dismay, as she suddenly finds her meat-plate, sugar-box, and sometimes even her milk pans and cream jar, filled with these noxious little pests. Scarcely anything which is greasy or sweet escapes them, and nothing can be covered sufficiently close to keep them out as they make their way through the smallest apertures. Among the various remedies recommended we find only two specifics, chalk and water. Make large rings of chalk, broad and thick, wherever you set the meat-dishes, bowls of meat-fat, pie, cake, or whatever will attract them. Chalk a round land jars, sugar boxes, jars of preserves and the like; using the chalk abundantly in every place and around everything which they attack, and their invasions will be pretty sure to cease.

If you have a table in your pantry, or if you have no cupboard which you can make use of in this way, have one constructed for the purpose, then place the legs of the table in basins or cups, and keep the cups filled with water. If you have a safe, you can set the legs of this in water instead of using the table. If the ants trouble you in your cellar, have a table or safe, or a shelf with legs, and treat in the same manner. This is little trouble after your tables are once arranged, and the remedy, so long as the cups are kept filled with water, never fails.

When to Cut Brush.

The latter part of August is the time for cutting willows, alders, and all kinds of bushes, with the hope that one cutting will be the only surgical operation they will require. An old physician, and at the same time a large and observing farmer, said to us long years ago as he saw us cutting hard hacks in June: "My boy, if you wish to exterminate your bushes cut them in the old of the moon in August." We thought at the time that the idea was an old man's whim, as we were not so lunatic as to believe that the moon had much influence on vegetation, nor do we believe it now; still, we had too much respect for our old friend not try his suggestion, and after cutting bushes for many years in the latter part of August we are satisfied that it is a good time to attend this job. The philosophy of it destroying the bushes lies not in the moon, but probably in the fact that at this time of the year the vitality of the bushes is mostly in the trunks and branches, and if these are cut off before they have vitalized the roots by the return of the true sap, they generally, not always, succumb. In any event bushes on a farm are as bad as weeds, and should be exterminated. If cutting will not do it, then they should be grubbed out at the roots.—Alexander Hyde.

Rotation of Crops.

In rotating vegetables the land should not be used for crops having a similarity to those preceding them. Cabbages, for instance, should follow peas, and celery follow cabbages.

Red raspberries should be set two feet apart in rows, and when kept well worked the first year they will fill up and form a continuous hedge of plants good for ten years or more.

Cabbages respond quickly to frequent hoeing. It is one of the crops upon which too much labor cannot be bestowed. They should be cultivated often, even when there are no weeds among them.

To prevent sows from crushing their young, nail a board about one foot wide to the side of the pen. The board is to be put on a line shelf, so that the little pigs can run under it to get out of the way.

Shipments of beef and cattle are now few at New York and Baltimore, while Boston continues to export a fair amount of both dressed beef and cattle. And this is done in the face of a constant increase at the West, the Chicago market having shown an advance of 75 cents per 100 lbs. for a month.

Some Texas wool was not long since sold in Boston for 35 cents, and the Advertiser of that city, "is said to be remembered that that was an extraordinary price for an extraordinary lot of wool—the finest ever, according to some judges, ever received here."
