TO FARMERS.

I have for sale a new variety of wheat which has been grown in the counties of Queen Anne's and Talbot for the past six years. The yield has never been less than 18 bushels for one seeding and has been as high as 44 for one. The grain in appearances like "Fultz." The great virtue of this wheat lies in the strength of the straw, and the size of the head which is heavily bearded; some of the heads in my field this year contained as many as 85 grains. I have a limited quantity which I desire to sell for seed, and shall be glad to give further particulars to any desiring to try what I consider an unusally productive wheat. Price at my barn $3 00 per bushel. Samples may be seen at Dawson & Bros., and the office of this paper.

Feeding Poultry; Raising Chickens.

One of the secrets of successful poultry raising is the art of feeding properly, not merely at regular intervals, but on the most suitable food, and keeping the chicks growing as rapidly as possible from the very start. It is very poor economy, to stint the poultry, especially young growing stock, for when once stunted it takes a long while to recover if it does occur at all. For the first twenty four hours after the chicks emerge from the shell, they should remain under the hen unmolested, both to dry and gain strength and heartiness. They do not require any food, as the store nature provides will last over this time. As the chicks hatch sometimes irregularly, the older ones can be cared for in the house until the others are ready to be taken away, when the hen and her brood can be removed to a roomy coop, with a tight board bottom and a rain proof roof. They should be fed five times daily, but only just what they will eat up clean. The first food should consist of stale bread moistened in water or fresh milk, the milk is decidedly preferable. Do not wet the food, as very moist or soppy food will cause sickness and a high rate of mortality among young tender birds. Keep the water (for drinking) away from them until they are six to eight weeks old, but if milk can be spared, give them occasional drinks of it. The lavish use of corn meal has caused more deaths among young chicks than cholera among grown, fowls. Until the chicks are half grown, corn meal should be but sparingly fed, but after that time, when judiciously used, is one of the very best and cheapest foods for fowls and chicks. Nine tenths of the young turkeys and guinea fowls which die when in the "downy" state, get their death blow from corn meal, as it is a very common practice, because it is so "handy," and suits lazy people so well, to merely moisten with cold water, some raw corn meal and then feed it in that way. Young chickens relish occasional feeds of cracked wheat and wheat screenings, while rice, well boiled, is not only greedily eaten by the chicks, but is one of the very best things that can be given. It frequently happens that damaged lots of rice, or low grades of it, can be bought at low figures in the cities. As it increases so much in bulk in cooking it is not an expensive food for young chicks even at the regular retail price, though it would not ordinarily pay to feed it to full grown fowls very liberally or very frequently. In the absence of worms, bugs, etc., during early spring, cheap parts of fresh beef can be well boiled and shredded up for the little chicks, but care must be taken not to feed more frequently than once in two days, and only then in moderation. This feeding on meat shreds is very beneficial to young turkey and guinea chicks when they are "shooting" their first quill feathers, as then they require extra nourishment to repair the drain on immature bodies.—American Agriculturist.

Value of Corn Cobs.

Few farmers stop to consider how much of fertilizing matter is annually wasted about the farm, nor of the expense incurred in purchasing the same material in other forms. Thus in the apparently insignificant matter of corn cobs is an item worth saving. If the accumulation of corn cobs were gathered up and thrown into the hog pen, they would, by the next spring, be reduced to manure. It has been estimated in the corn cobs grown in this country last year were upwards of two hundred thousand pounds of potash. Where corn cobs are used in lighting fires at the farm house, the potash may be saved in the increased value of the ashes.

It is well known that the different varieties of wood, when burned yield varying proportions of potash. At the head of the list in the production of potash stands the willow; hence its ashes are of superior value in this respect, yet corn cobs contain double the amount of potash carried in the willow; so, in this manner, we may approximate the value of the ashes obtained in the burning of corn cobs, and preserve the same for future use in the fertilization of the soil of the farm.

Successful farming is commonly the result of careful attention to little things to the economical use of the smallest element of value. Hence, even the corn cobs, with their product of potash, are worthy the attention of the practical and thrifty farmer. The enormous cost to the farmer of potash—whether in his barnyard manure, in his commercial fertilizers, or in his more direct purchases of potash in one form or another—renders the economical utilization of corn cobs a matter of some importance. It is but a few years since most of our New England farmers thought they could purchase Western corn cheaper than they could raise a superior article on their own farms; but when the proper methods of utilizing the fodder were understood, the advisability of growing their own corn became apparent. Again, as an additional argument in favor of corn raising here, even though a small one, we have the fact that every bushel of corn cobs contains upward of a pound of potash. And, in conclusion, if the growing of corn makes a drought upon the soil for the necessary potash, how important that some method should be adopted, through a proper use of the corn cobs, to return this valuable element to the soil from whence it was drawn.

Love of Flowers.

In all countries women love flowers; in all countries they form nosegays of them; but it is only in the bosom of plenty that they conceive the idea of embellishing their dwellings with them. The cultivation of flowers among the peasantry indicates a revolution in all their feelings. It is a delicate pleasure which makes its way through coarse organs; it is a creature whose eyes are opened; it is the sense of the beautiful, a faculty of the soul which is awakened; colors, forms, odors, are perceived for the first time, and these charming objects have at length spectators. Those who have traveled in the country can testify that a rose tree under the window, a honeysuckle around the door of a cottage, is a good omen to a weary traveler. The hand that cultivates flowers is not closed against the supplications of the poor, nor against the wants of the stranger. Flowers may be called the alphabet of angels, wherewith they write on hills and plains the mysterious truths.

Malaria, Chills and Fever, and Bilious attacks positively cured with Emory's Standard Cure Pills—an infallible remedy: never fail to cure the most obstinate, long standing cases where Quinine and all other remedies had failed. Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

THE GOLDEN SHEAF.

A Fertilizer specially adapted to the Soil of the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

$20 PER TON.

Sold at a very small profit on cost of production and clear of Agents' commissions.

THE COMPOSITION IS NO SECRET.

Made Without Sand or Dirt.

FOR SALE BY
THE OXFORD GUANO CO., Oxford, Md.
W. H. SETH, Secretary.

The attention of Farmers who desire to secure a good fertilizer at a reasonable price, is respectfully called to the above named brand.

The object of the manufacturers has been to originate a compound of plant foods directly adapted to the soil of the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and to fix the price therefor at the lowest possible figures; cutting off all agents fees of $5 and $6 per ton and adding to the actual cost only a very small profit. We think this fertilizer has as much intrinsic value as most of the high price manures, and feel confident that farmers who may think proper to use it will say, that in its effects upon the soil, it will equal them.

The analysis, as made by Prof G. A. Liebig, shows it to contain:—

Ammonia, from	.75 to 1.25	per cent.
Phosphoric Lime, from	5.00 to 7.00	"
Lime	33.10	"
Carbonic Acid	26.07	"

The lime and carbon, which are essential to plant growth, are obtained from oyster shells ground to powder, instead of being burnt. This combination not only dispenses with the necessity for dirt or sand to hold the chemicals, but is a most valuable assistant to their action.

We are also manufacturing ground lime, which we propose to put upon the market at a low price. aug30-6m

Rex 1,330 is considered the best bull in America, and was purchased last December by his present owner at a cost of $3,500. "Favorite of the Elms" 1656, the Grand-dam of Gay Primrose, has a butter record of 17 pounds 5 ounces per week, and her owner, Mr. John J. Holly, of New Jersey, has refused $2,500 for her.

At the auction sale of the herd of Jersey cattle of Messrs. Corpa, Maddox & Co., at New York on Friday, May 12th, 65 head of cattle brought an avsrage of $622.77 per head. This sale shows the present value of high-bred Jerseys.

"Favorite's Greatorex" 5,898 will be permitted to serve a few registered cows this season at $10 per service. Cows for service will be cared for at $1 per week.

OF LONG EXPERIENCE.

I would respectfully inform my friends and the public generally, that I am now better prepared to furnish everything in the furniture line, than I have been in the past.

My ware-house contains 3500 square feet of flooring, which is at all times covered with stock pertaining to my business, and which will be sold as cheap or cheaper than can be bought here or elsewhere.

Having no other trade or profession, I am in the business for life, health permitting, and do not intend to be undersold or excelled in any particular pertaining to my business.

Myself and son Harry will give our personal attention to the business, and I recommend him as capable to attend to all business in my absence.

REPAIRING

done neatly and with dispatch. Stock of always on hand made to order. Thanking you very kindly for your patronage in the past, I earnestly solicit a continuance in the future.

PICTURE FRAMES

Undertaking a Specialty.

I shall continue to give the undertaking department of my business my special attention, and having had thirty odd years experience in the business, I feel sure I can give satisfaction in the attention of all funerals entrusted to my care.

I have one of the best hearses and keep in stock everything necessary to furnish the best funeral.

Corpses preserved in ice when requested. Remember my prices shall be as low as the very lowest. Respectfully,

JOHN MASON.

To the Farmers.

THE TALBOT COUNTY PAPER MILLS COMPANY will now contract for WHEAT STRAW, to be delivered at a convenient time hereafter. A little more care in stacking and ricking, will insure so much better keeping as to enable farmers to spare at least half of their straw, the cask for which would nearly pay for their phosphates.
