MANCHESTER

The weather conditions for the holding of the supper of the Willing Workers Aid Society of the Reformed church on Friday evening was rather discouraging and at a meeting on Thursday evening of the promoters it was almost a call off. But Friday came forth with a bright sunlight and the shovelers and snow plow people went to work and got the pavements and streets passable. The announcement was made that the serving of the suppers would begin at 5 P. M. and true to the promise the early comers were served that countinued until 165 fine suppers were enjoyed. Everything came from the kitchen good and hot. Quite a number of suppers were called for and taken to friends who could not venture out. The kids spied the fish pond and soon were pulling out promiscuous variety of the shodded tribe. At this period the miscellaneous "Booth" got into prominence "Asking the audience to buy a cat in a bag." It had quite a number of bags hanging in display. Auctioneer Abkin took his place on a stand. A package in book shape brought a dollar that opened the fun and spirited so that all were sold at an average of fifty cents a package. An orchestra was to furnish music for the evening, but the members from the country could not get here. A quartette took up that part of the entertainment and filled the bill with credit. The treasurer and officers of the association went into secret session and audited the financial end, bringing their report that they had $108.00 to add to their bank account, and take this opportunity of thanking the audience for their generosity. The proceeds from the fish pond and miscellaneous was $29.00.

Don't forget the chicken and waffle supper on the 12 and 13 by the Firemen. Give them the best when they come to solicit donations, either in hard cash, groceries, or anything, will add to the festivity.
