President Coolidge Inaugurated

Charles G. Dawes Takes Oath As Vice-President.

Wednesday, an ideal March day, in the Senate Chamber in the Capitol in Washington Charles Gates Dawes took the required oath as Vice-President of the United States, and automatically became the presiding officer of the U. S. Senate.

Shortly thereafter President Coolidge was administered the oath as President by Chief Justice Taft, of the U. S. Supreme Court, himself a former President of the United States.

Immediately after taking the oath President Coolidge delivered his inaugural address to the large gathering in front of the Capitol.

The outstanding utterances of the President are as followed:

Economy—I favor the policy of economy not because I wish to save money, but because I wish to save the people.

Taxation—The collection of any taxes which are not absolutely required, which do not beyond reasonable doubt contribute to the public welfare is only a species of larceny.

The Wise and correct course to follow in taxation is not to destroy those who have already secured success, but to create conditions under which every one will have a better chance to be successful.

criticism which often falls to its lot, there is no more independent and effective body in the world.

Party Loyalty—Unless those who are elected under the same party designation are willing to assume sufficient responsibility and exhibit sufficient loyalty and coherence, so that they can cooperate with each other in the support of the party platform, the election is merely a mockery.

Election Result—The people demonstrated that they are sound and are determined to have sound government.

Armed Force—Our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions, but it ought not to fail to maintain such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people. It should be conducted that all the world may see in it but an instrument of security and peace.

World Court—We have long advocated the peaceful settlement of disputes by methods of arbitration. The same consideration should lead to our adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

America's Foreign Policy—America cherishes no purpose save to merit
