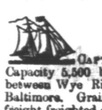
Skipton Packet Line.

The Fast Sailing Schooner

ELIZA ANN,



CAPT. JOHN A. CATRUP, Master, Capacity 5,500 bushels, makes regular trips between Wye River and its tributaries and Baltimore. Grain and all other kinds of freight freighted on moderate terms. Ample store room for grain at Skipton Landing. Orders left with George E. Bowdoin & Co., Bowley's Wharf; Kenley & Tilghman, Bowley's Wharf, and Emory & Neavitt, 88 South street, Baltimore, promptly attended to. The patronage of the public solicited. All orders for goods must be accompanied with the CASH. Orders received at Skipton by the Captain or J. A. F. Neal.

N. B.—The Granary at Skipton landing has been raised two feet above tide, thoroughly repaired and strengthened, and made perfectly secure for the storage of grain. Having leased the granary for a number of years, and embarked permanently in the boating business, I have ample granary and boating facilities for accommodating the business of the neighborhood, and respectfully solicit the public patronage. OF LONG EXPERIENCE.

I would respectfully inform my friends and the public generally, that I am now better prepared to furnish everything in the furniture line, than I have been in the past.

My ware-house contains 8500 square feet of flooring, which is at all times covered with stock pertaining to my business, and which will be sold as cheap or cheaper than can be bought here or elsewhere.

Having no other trade or profession, I am in the business for life, health permitting, and do not intend to be undersold or excelled in any particular pertaining to my business.

Myself and son Harry will give our personal attention to the business, and I recommend him as capable to attend to all business in my absence.

AGRICULTURAL.

How Farmers are "Protected."

From the Missouri Republican:

The Eastern protected manufacturers must make some sort of pretence of admitting farmers to share in the benefit of that system. It would be too bare faced to frame a protective tariff and exclude farmers entirely; and so they make a show of giving farmers a share of protection also. But how?

The answer discloses a cunning trick which runs all through the system. There is a duty of 20 per cent. on cattle, horses, sheep and hogs—as if the farmers of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas needed protection on the animals they are exporting to Europe. The only effect of this duty is to make the cattle, hogs sheep, and horses of improved breeds, which our farmers import from abroad for the purpose of improving their stock, cost them one fifth more than they would cost without it. The duty is of some advantage to the few stock breeders of the East and of Kentucky; but to the great mass of farmers in the west and Northwest, it is a positive disadvantage. Then there is a duty of 10 cents a bushel on Indian corn, 10 cents on oats, 20 per cent. on bran, 15 cents on rye, 20 cents on wheat, 20 per cent. on cider, 2 cents a pound on bacon, 15 cents a bushel on potatoes, 4 cents a pound on butter, 2 cents a pound on lard, 10 per cent on milk, 20 per cent. on mutton, 1 cent a pound on pork, 20 per cent. on salted tongues, 10 per cent on tripe. It would be impossible to imagine anything more ridiculous than these duties on articles which our farmers produce cheaper than any other farmers in the world, and the exportation of which constitutes so large a proportion of our commerce. What Western farmer wants protection on wheat, potatoes, corn, lard, pork, beef and butter? And yet all these duties are padded into the tariff law to delude Western farmers with the notice that their business is protected as well as manufacturing, and that they ought not to complain of a system whose benefit they share. If they were all abolished, the mass of the American farmers would be better off. The only benefit they yield goes to the few small farmers and truck raisers of New England and the upper part of New York and Pensylvania whom they prottect against Canadian competition. To the real agriculture interest of the country, whose seat is in the West and South they, are nothing but a mockery.

Interesting Facts

Onions and cabbage are far more valuable food than potatoes; but like bread, potatoes seldom satiate or wear the appetite, and therefore, like bread, they are considered a staple food.

In fattening swine do not forget to give charcoal liberally. When pigs are confined to a corn diet they are apt to suffer from a disordered stomach, which is relieved by charcoal. An occasional handfull of woodashes and sulphur will also be found beneficial.

There is little or no difference in quantity of oil between white and yellow varieties of corn grown in the same locality. The white varieties are the best esteemed for bread, and the yellow for feeding the cattle. Chemistry shows very little reason for this, however, and it is usually a matter of education and taste.

In commenting upon the fact that upward of $8,000,000 worth cottonseed meal is annualy imported into Great Britain to feed cattle, English agricultural authorities style it the very best food imported, admitting that only by its use English grazers compete with the Americans. It might be profitable for our cattle dealers to take this hint and feed proper rations of cottonseed meal.

Farmers who cultivate too much land, expend more labor to secure their crops than if their farms were smaller. Such farmers seems to always endeavor to cultivate every part, and in so doing, are compelled to slight their fields and crops, entail greater expenses than should be necessary, and reap less than if their energies were confined to less space.

The average farmer, in the older States, at least, does not keep as many sheep as he might profitably. Sheep are becoming popular with the masses of the Western farmers who seek to increase their profits by stock raising and at the same time improve their soil, raise more grass, have less labor and make more money. A pound of mutton can be raised as cheap as a pound of beef or pork and is worth equally as much in the market, and the wool is extra profit.

Rheumatism in Horses.

When a horse falls lame at uncertain and irregular intervals, and suddenly recovers and as suddenly falls lame again, it indicates that the cause is rheumatism. Rheumatism is a form of inflamation arising from a disordered and unusually acid state of blood; and attacks the fibrous structure, the muscles and tendons of the body. It is frequently constitutional and hereditary; and shifts from place to place within it warning and very suddenly, and it may as rapidly disappear by warmth, the heat of the sun, or a change of weather, rainy, warm weather being favorable. Indigestion will cause it to appear, or a cold, or even exposure to a slight change in temperature. The most effective remedy is alkaline salts, as acetate of potassa or hydrosulphate of soda, given in one ounce doses and continued for a week or two. Local application of hot fomentations to the limb affected, or of stimulating liniment will be useful. No corn should be given, and soft mashes of bran or oats and linseed should form the bulk of the food.

Seasonable Hints.

Among the hints most seasonable on either the garden or farm, few things are more serviceable than those relating to the sharpening and repairing of tools. Too often these things are not thought of until the articles are wanted, when much valuable time is lost in putting in order what might as well have been done during the dull winter days. Even the smartest of us do not think enough of these things, and indeed hardly know how much we lose by having dull tools to work with. It has been tolerably accurately computed that the same man can do as much in two days with a sharp scythe, spade or hoe, as with one but comparatively dull and the same expenditure of force, could do in three. And it is just the same in regard to all other tools or implements, whether operated by hand, steam or horse power. The engineer continually oils the machinery, and a good saw or file is oil to hand implements. We know of people who have a great deal of hoeing to do, and they believe that the continued use of the file on the hoes makes a difference of nearly one-half in the labor. The calculation is that every file bought saves ten dollars in labor. Hence, now is the time to look after spades, scythes, hoes, forks, saws, &c. A good grindstone and set of files are among the best of farm investments, especially at this season. It is always nice to be forehanded, to get things well-ahead; but the best of all is that which prepares in advance a full set of good and repaired tools to work with.—Germantown Telegraph.

HENRY WAIKART'S

ICE CREAM SALOON!

AND

BAKERY,

AND

OYSTER AND EATING HOUSE,

Next Door to the Frame Hotel, Easton.

HENRY WAIKART

Having moved into his new quarters and fitted up his new Saloon and Bakery, next door to the European House of Mr. Haddaway, invites the public to call and see him.

His long experience as a Baker justifies him in claiming that his bread and cake are excelled by none. Fresh bread and cakes baked every day, Sundays excepted.

Meals served at all hours, from 6 A. M. to 11 P. M. Oysters by the plate, fried, roasted or stewed.

A good beef steak always ready, and French coffee a specialty.

Ice Cream made to order in winter, and kept constantly on hand in summer.

Terrapin and Game suppers furnished, but they must be specially ordered a few days in advance, so as to give time to procure the game.

He will do his best to give satisfaction, and hopes the Easton people and visitors to town will encourage the effort to establish a first-class saloon in Easton. febl3 83

THE

HANCOCK INSPIRATOR

THE BEST FEEDER KNOWN,

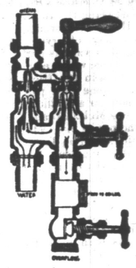
—FOR—

Stationary, Marine & Portable Boilers.

Has No Rival For Pumping Purposes

IS SIMPLE, RELIABLE AND ALWAYS IN ORDER.

CONSUMES LESS STEAM THAN ANY OTHER BOILER FEEDER KNOWN.



REQUIRES NO OILING

They will lift water 25 feet, and deliver to boiler at comparatively High or Low Pressure, as desired. No adjustment required for varying steam pressures. Has no movable parts to get out of order.

One important advantage of the Inspirator over a pump is that all the steam required to operate it is condensed in the water, thereby heating it and returning it all into the boiler, and enabling us to feed hot water to the boiler without the use of a heater (although a heater can be used with the Inspirator as well as with a pump). The Inspirator requires no repairs, no oiling, and is noiseless in its operation, whereas a pump requires repairs, it has to be oiled, is usually noisy, and all the steam used in operation is wasted. The only loss of steam by using the Inspirator is by radiation from the pipes, and this is no greater with the Inspirator than with the pump.
