—She snow last week arrested the forward movements of the Choptank shad. They will now be here when they get here, and not before. If the fine, mild weather had continued, we should probably be picking some of their bones this week.

—How to buy Clover Seed.—A prominent farmer says the best plan yet in buying Clover Seed is to examine it before buying. Shannahan & Wrightson's is the place to go where you can find choice Clover, Timothy, Orchard Grass and Kentucky Blue Grass Seeds at prices that cannot be beat.

—In our "agricultural column" on the fourth page of this morning's STAR, will be found an article on the now celebrated "Johnson Grass," which is specially worthy the attention of our farmers. If this grass possesses the great merits claimed for it, our farmers ought to try it, in a small way at any rate. It might prove the very best grass for the dry lands of Bay side as it is said it is not liable to be injured by the drought.

—The announcement of a new and wonderfully successful treatment of disease, is of especial interest to all who are in ill health.

On another page will be found a startling offer by the Wilcania Magnetic Appliance Co., of New York, an offer which could not be made in behalf of any remedy ever before discovered for the cure of disease. This offer is made by a strong company, who are entirely able to carry it out.

—It is said the leaves of the osage orange are almost equal to the mulberry as food for silk worms. Only think what a source of profit we should have in this county, if hedges were planted to take the place of our fences, and then the foliage of the hedges utilized in making silk. The yield would amount to almost as much as our wheat crop. Remember, there are over 200 silk factories now operating in this country, creating a demand for all the cocoons which can be raised.

—We had such a press of advertising last week, we were compelled, in order to accommodate our customers, to throw out the most of the editorial and news matter, which had been put into type for the paper, and lay it over for another week. These articles will be found on the first page of this morning's paper, and embrace THE STAR'S views on the political situation, the awards of the Strawbridge & Clothier premiums for silk culture, the adulteration of food in New York, the ages of people who married last year in New York city, statistics of the Methodist Book Concern, and other articles.

—Is there no lady in Talbot county plucky enough to enter the list and contend for the next Strawbridge & Clothier premium of $500, offered for the best silk from American grown cocoons? Some of the last prizes went to California, some to Kansas, some to Philadelphia, and some to New Jersey, but none to the Eastern Shore. And yet the mulberry flourishes here, and this could doubtless be made a great silk growing country. What our ladies want is a knowledge of the business, and this they can obtain of The Women's Silk Culture Association, of Philadelphia. Come, ladies of Talbot, go to work and learn how to raise silk worms and cocoons.

—The advertisement of the New York Sun which commences this week in our columns will be continued for three months. The Sun states that the circulation of its several editions last year was 55,556,030, against 50,224,919 the year previous. The Sun, while it furnishes a live and generally acceptable newspaper at a very low rate, expends a great deal of money to advertise the fact. This is one of the secrets of its success. The Sun believes that every man should subscribe for and liberally support his local newspaper first and foremost. Having done this conscientiously and faithfully, it advises all those who may wish to supplement their town or county paper with a metropolitan journal, to give the Sun a trial.

—The stylographic pen is one of the necessaries of our modern civilization. If Hood's song had been "Dip, dip, dip," instead of "Stitch, stitch, stitch," it would have lost its text at the hands of Mr. Livermore, who has given his age this perfection of pen, pencil-holder, and case, and ink, all in one, handsome, and always at hand and ready for use. The inventor has put some new improvements into it, and now what remains but for every scribe and letter writer to find it on his desk. Ink, filler and cleaner, all go with it. And to crown all, the price has been reduced to $2. Send that amount to the sole agent, Mr. Louis E. Dunlap, 290 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., and the return mail will bring you this most perfect pen.—[Contributor, Boston, Mass.

—See here, friend, read the advertisement of Simmons Liver Regulator.

—Oh! Wingfie, you have foiled us!
Fie, fie, fie;
We believe you are non compos;
My! my! my!
For you said there'd be a squall,
And you greatly scared us all,
Now its "Postponed until next fall,"
Lie! lie! lie!

—The salutary effect of Simmons Liver Regulator is proverbial.

—Dr. Kirkus's lecture in pamphlet form for sale at MACK. GOLDSBOROUGH'S Book Store.

—Elder J. T. Myers will preach at Union Church, Peach Blossom, on Easter Sunday, March 25th, at 10 A. M.

—Easter Cards.—A beautiful and profuse line can be bought very cheap of Minnick & Son, opposite the Bank.

—Minnick & Son have a large special lot of Paper and Envelopes, various sizes and grades, recently received from their city headquarters, which they are selling in large and small quantities at exceedingly low prices.

—Mr. Isaac W. Jump, of Trappe, has just improved the capacity of his grist mill, by putting in a new set of four feet corn burr-stones which will add much to the quality of the meal which the mill will hereafter grind.

—Mr. A. A. Pascault returned from New York last Friday. His trip was entirely successful. He secured a number of German immigrants, and any number can be obtained, if farmers will make the arrangements with Mr. Pascault.

—"Isaac, my son," said the angelic Mrs. Partington, "you must make preposition to go to church." "But which church shall I go to, mother?" asked the youth. Then she raised herself up with sublime dignity, and replied: "Of course to the church where the gospel is dispensed with."

—We have received the initial number of the Trappe Enterprise, published by Messrs. Kemp & Mullikin. It has a businesslike appearance, but is not without the imperfection incident to all new beginners in printing a first issue, which will doubtless be corrected hereafter. We cheerfully place it on our exchange list and wish it success.

—Having sold his farm in Harford county, Judge Frederick Stump will sell his stock at auction, on the farm, near Glenville, on the 28th inst. Among the stock are 28 thoroughbred short horn cattle, registered and entitled to registration in A. H. B. It would be well for such of our farmers as want thoroughbred short horns to attend the sale.

—The inclement weather last week prevented the fox hunt by the Elkridge Club, of Baltimore. On Friday Mr. John Pascault earthed a fox in Hollyday's woods, dug him out, took him home and put him in a box in his stable, but Friday night he gnawed out, and the stable door blowing open early the next morning, he took advantage of the opening, and departed for the woods, a happy old fox.

—Pompey drives the 'bus for a popular hotel in a certain Eastern Shore town. Jack S——, who travels the "Shore" for a Baltimore house, boarded Pompey's 'bus last week at the railway station. There were two passengers in the 'bus besides Jack. When they arrived at the hotel, the landlord, who was up stairs, yelled down at Pompey:

"How many possengers came, Pomp?"

"Three, sah! Two gentlemen an' a drummer, sah!"

—Take in time: see advertisement of Simmons Liver Regulator.

Ten Years in Washington.

BY MARY CLEMMER.

"Ten Years in Washington" is the title of MARY CLEMMER'S new book. It is decidedly the most entertaining, fresh, vivacious and really original work on Washington life and scenes we have ever met, and it will certainly add new laurels to the fame of its gifted author. It is overflowing with good things for every man, woman and child—full of amusement and instruction for all—a perfect panorama of the countless and mighty interests of the National Capital "as a woman sees them."

The author shows us the wonders and the inside workings of the elaborate machinery of all our Government Departments; and tells us all about the men and women whose words and deeds are making up to-day's history of our country. She tells every incident and fact which can interest, instruct, or amuse. She shows us the works of art and the architectural glories of the Capital. With her we visit the Treasury and peer into the vaults, and handle the money, and talk with men whose names are household words. We pass into the marble Cash-Room and watch the busy clerks as they handled huge piles of greenbacks. We ascend the higher floors and see men and women by hundreds at their novel and interesting work. We see how Uncle Sam makes his money; how the notes and bonds are engraved, printed and finished ready for use; how the fingers of busy women count vast piles of greenbacks with a celerity truly astonishing; how they assort the mutilated and defaced currency with marvelous expertness and dexterity, and how counterfeit dollars are detected in an extraordinary way. She explains what they do and how they do it; and in a charming manner she gives us the ten years' experience of a clever and wide awake woman.

We are shown the wonders of the Army Medical Museum with all its strange sights and instructive details; the curiosities of the Post Office; the mysteries and marvels of the Dead Letter Office; the Patent Office with its nearly two hundred thousand models of every kind—wonderful, curious, odd and comical; the curious instrument room of "Old Probabilities," where he makes his extraordinary predictions about weather, and how he does it; the inside of the Capitol; the treasures of the National Library, the daily life at the White House; in short, all and everything that possesses interest to the reader is presented in the graphic and perfectly fascinating manner so characteristic of Mary Clemmer's descriptions.

Our author also gives brilliant pen pictures of every day life inside the White House, in the past and at present, and the fascinating sketches she gives of ladies who have presided over it will rivet the attention of the reader to the end. These are charming portrayals of home life inside the White House, and every woman will read with pleasure, profit and pride this record of the lives of the many distinguished women who were called to occupy the most prominent position within the gift of the people. These interesting stories are brightened with many charming anecdotes and incidents of political, social and private history, never before published. The lives of these ladies are a part of our national history they were often the power behind the throne, as Mary Clemmer shows.

No other book appeals to so large a constituency as does this one. It is a book for no one class, condition, sect or party, it is a work for all. It is indispensable to every wide-awake and progressive person—young, old, rich or poor—and in every family in the land there is a customer waiting for this charming, instructive and really valuable work.

In point of printing, binding, gilding, ornamentation, and above all, beautiful and costly illustration, this work is unexcelled. It is superbly illustrated with forty-eight choice engravings, including a superb steel-plate portrait of the author, engraved from a photograph taken expressly for the purpose.

The work is sold only by subscription through canvassing agents, and we advise our readers to buy it at the very first opportunity. Mr. R. T. Savage is taking subscribers in Talbot county. See him and order it, if you want this most interesting book.

Mr. Hough's Challenge Accepted by Mr. Caulk.

As a sequence to the challenge of Mr. Hough, that appeared in THE STAR of two weeks ago, a match race has been arranged between "Peralto" and Mr. John K. Caulk's "Hannibal," to take place at Dover, Del., October 1st, 1883. These gentlemen are well known farmers and breeders, and have made this race, not as a betting race, but simply to show their respective horses to the breeders of the county. Both horses are representative ones, "Peralto" being a Hambletonian, and "Hannibal" a Mambrino—the two great trotting families. It is a pity that Talbot has no Fair Grounds, thus forcing this race to take place elsewhere. BOB

Address as above. N. B.—No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. jan2-y.

St. Michaels Items.

ST. MICHAELS, March 10, 1883.

MR. EDITOR:—If an occasional letter from me will be acceptable for publication I should be greatly pleased to furnish it.

Great complaint is heard about the Miles River oysters this season; why they have so suddenly become inferior to those taken from the waters of the Choptank is now a common question on the streets. They are lean and poor and comparatively tasteless. The Miles River oyster has been known for years as a rich and juicy bivalve, and the sudden change from a good to a poor oyster is to say the least very strange. Oystermen also tell us that the mananose found along its shores is lacking in flavor. What is the matter with our Miles river oysters and mananoses? Can not some wise Solon, who is interested in the propagation of oysters, tell us?

The past winter while it has been a comparative mild one, has also been a severe one on us. So much rain has kept the mechanics and farmers indoors, and the oystermen and fishermen have net made anything. Consequently not much money has been afloat and our merchants complain of dull times.

The Comet and Advertiser, our only paper, made its appearance this morning after a two week's sleep. It is greatly improved in looks, and shows the imprint of go-aheadativeness.

The supper given by the Mechanics Lodge, in Odd Fellows Hall, Thursday evening, was well attended, and the receipts were large, but as I saw a STAR reporter present, I suppose he will tell the readers of your paper all about it in a way peculiarly his own.

Each of the four shipyards in town have a new schooner on the stocks. At Jewell's yard is a strange looking craft, which, we were informed, is being built for a Cuba, W. I., firm. It seems to have almost as much depth as it has length. As one of the ship-carpenters put it, "It is all cabin." Owing to the peculiar construction of the boat one is led to believe that it is a miniature Noah's Ark without a "hop covering." It is being built strongly, however, and in a workmanlike manner. There is a move on foot to petition the next Congress to grant an appropriation to widen and dig out the channel of the inlet on which these shipyards are situated. If the improvement is made Mr. T. G. Dawson will immediately build a railway out from his yard, and double his present force of workmen. Others will follow his example, and St. Michaels will then be, what it once was—the leading town for ship building on the Eastern Shore. Last summer the ship builders sent out nine large boats, and expect to put that many again on the waters this season, but if the channel was widened and deepened they could build more and larger ones.

The steamer Olive has been thoroughly overhauled and repaired, and is now running between here and Baltimore. The little boat looks as resplendent as a bride in its new dress, and is as popular as of yore.

You will hear from me again in a the course of a few weeks. GRIT.

Maryland vs. Delaware.

It having been advertised that there would be a pigeon shooting match for a horse, at Townsend, Del., on Friday week, Capt. George W. W. Haddaway, of the European House, Easton, and the prize shot of the Talbot County Game Association, concluded he would go up there and take a hand in the sport. But as he once sent his name up to Delaware, for entrance in a shooting match, and was left out, because he was too well known, he determined to go to Townsend incognito. Taking his gun with him and a good supply of spoudulix, he reached the shooting grounds without being recognized, and found between 200 and 300 people, and the sportsmen trying to make up the shooting match for the horse. Being asked if he would not take a chance, he said he did not care about it, but if the match was made up, all except one chance, he would go in to complete it. But the parties failed to make up the number to shoot for the horse, and the scheme was abandoned. Then it was proposed for ten to make up a purse of $5 each and shoot at five birds for $50, and in that he was invited to join. He consented as a matter of accommodation, just to make up the match, and give those present a little sport. When he paid his money and gave in his name, it caused quite a fluttering among the fraternity. He was asked if he was not the great Easton brag shot? He answered that he supposed they referred to his son, who was an excellent shot. When the match was about to take place, he unexpectedly discovered that he had pitted himself against Mr. Ratcliffe, the brag pigeon shot of Delaware, who was first favorite, with a host of backers. The match took place, and Messrs. Haddaway and Ratcliffe each killed his five birds, and were declared first and second best; but they had to shoot off for first honors. In shooting off Capt. Haddaway killed two birds and Mr. Ratcliffe one. Capt. Haddaway was then declared the champion shot and awarded the first money—$95 to the 1st; $15 to the 2d, and $10 to the 3rd. Capt. Haddaway was then challenged to shoot Mr. Ratcliffe 10 birds for $50, which he accepted; but Mr. Ratcliffe could not accept without consulting his backers. They declined, but offered to shoot 50 birds for $200, but when Capt. Haddaway accepted this proposition, and offered to put up the money then and there, and shoot at once, they backed down, and that ended the matter.

EDITOR STAR:—While it is embarassing to me to make mention of my private professional work, yet we are enjoined upon to withhold nothing that will benefit one another. Therefore, having successfully treated several cases of that terrible disease, Pneumonia, within the last three weeks, one of which being the worst case I ever saw to recover, it is but just and right to say that AGUE BITTERS was one of my "sheet-anchors" as a medicine. Physicians can find the formula on each bottle, and if they want to know more about it, I will gladly impart the information. An aged, but able, physician has said in treating Pneumonia, "REMOVE THE CAUSE AND EQUALIZE THE CIRCULATION; OPEN THE PORES OF THE SKIN AND STIMULATE THE CAPILLARY GLANDS; this," said he, "has been my hope for years, and I have not lost a case in ten years, and do not expect to lose one in ten years to come, if I live to treat them."

AGUE BITTERS REMOVES THE CAUSE, EQUALIZES THE CIRCULATION, OPENS THE PORES OF THE SKIN, AND STIMULATES THE CAPILLARY AND OTHER GLANDS, hence is a sine qua non in Pneumonia, Coughs and deep-seated Colds. I have prevented and broken up many cases of threatened Pneumonia among the oyster shuckers at Oxford this winter by the use of Ague Bitters. Running at the eyes and nose, darting pains through the lungs, aching in the limbs, creeping and chilly sensations, and coughing, are some of the symptoms that call for Ague Bitters. Most frequently, after a few days or weeks of these symptoms, Pneumonia is ushered in by a chill and severe pains through one or both lungs, and when this is the case send immediately for your physician, because there is not a moment to lose, for the disease does its work in from three to seven days. Hoping this letter will be appreciated by all who may chance to see it, I am, &c.,

Specially Reported for the Star.

A Pleasant Affair.

The lodge of Mechanics, of St. Michaels, held a reunion and supper in the Odd Fellows of that town, on Thursday evening last. The large room was crowded with visitors. Each of the fruit, confectionery and ice cream tables was presided over by a bevy of pretty girls, who greeted each person with "Buy something from us, please," and the dazzling black and melting blue eyes invariably succeeded in so bewildering the male portion of the visitors that are they knew it the money was transferred from their pockets to the hands of some bewitching maiden. The supper was all that the most exacting epicure could wish, and a relish was given to it when it was served by some "banged and shingled" divinity. A noticeable thing was that at one table were six ladies with the name of Fairbank, some married and others single, while several with the same name acted as waiter girls. Yet none of these were relatives. The most popular names in St. Michaels are the Fairbanks, Blakes, Harrisons and Hambletons. The supper gastronomically and financially was a complete success, and several gentlemen left under the impression that a change in some of the ladies names for theirs would effect a radical cure for a disease with which they all suffered commonly known as an affection of the heart.

A Gratifying Change.

The Adams Express Company's office will be removed from the depot to the centre of the town by April 1st, and after that date the company will collect and deliver all packages free. We have not learned the exact location as to where the office will be, but it is generally understood that it will be in the old sample room of the Brick Hotel, fronting on Washington street. Mr. W. K. Norris has received the appointment of agent for the company. This change will be a great accommodation to the public, and one that has long been desired.

MESSRS. HUBBARD & BROTHER:

Dear Sirs:—Enclosed you will please find result of my analysis of the sample of your OCEAN BIRD GUANO, and it is my candid opinion that the article represented by this sample must prove a valuable fertiliser. As stated in my Analysis 26.59 per cent. of the Bone Phosphate of Lime is soluble in a solution of Citrate of Ammonia at normal temperature, and would be quoted Available Phosphate, though the physical condition of the undecomposed phosphate justifies me in saying that all of the phosphate is in an available form, and ready to act as plant food at once. Yours truly,

G. A. LIEBIG.

It is not necessary that we should make further explanation of our O. B. Guano. The above analysis with the accompanying letter we think will satisfy any one who has a knowledge of the required elements to make a valuable GUANO, and from at least twenty tests that have been made from different samples, not in a single instance has it shown a less value. We have exclusive control of a vast deposit of this Guano, yet only a limited quantity can be got here in time for Spring crops. We have now at our factory and in Baltimore something over 200 tons and expect another cargo this month. Orders can be filled from either place. We shall be pleased to have our farmers generally test our O. B. on Spring Crops with our STANDARD PHOSPHATE or say high enough to fertilize in the market. To introduce the O. B. GUANO we are selling very low when quantity is considered. Call at office and see the place and get prices.
