FRANK THOMAS BABYLON

as the successor to the late Jesse Reifsnider, its founder. He rose from a junior clerk to the proprietor of the business. Knowing the business thoroughly and the value of the men engaged therein Mr. Stephan did not hesitate one moment when young Babylon, who had become enthusiastic in "storekeeping," applied for employment.

Young Babylon's services to Mr. Stephan were appreciated, and step by step he advanced in the esteem and confidence of his employer and his patrons. To understand the business thoroughly and to make the best and most reliable employee in the service of Mr. Stephan was his laudable ambition; and he succeeded.

Firm of Babylon & Gilbert Formed.

In 1886 Mr. Stephan, then a comparatively young man died from typhoid fever. He was exceedingly popular with his patrons and the public, and his employees were devoted to him, none more so than young Mr. Babylon.

The death of Mr. Stephan meant a change in the business, but for the moment no one knew just what it would be. At that time there was living in Westminster a young, industrious, and progressive young man named Oscar D. Gilbert, who was conducting a plumbing business. He and Mr. Babylon were friendly and both were anxious to achieve something worthwhile, and both were in possession of some money.

The stock of hardware was put on the market by the executors of Mr. Stephan and was purchased by Messrs. Babylon and Gilbert, and the firm of Babylon and Gilbert formed, which conducted the business very successfully until 1895, when Mr. Babylon felt he had earned and needed a rest. His interest in the business was sold to Mr. Denton S. Gehr, and the firm of Gilbert and Gehr was formed.

Being out of business with nothing to which he could devote his talents did not last long with Mr. Babylon. Like all other men he found the "doing nothing" was one of the hardest jobs he had ever tackled. A comparatively young man, in good health and possessed with all his faculties was not going to be allowed to live a life of indolence.

In 1896 Mr. George W. Albaugh had just embarked in the wholesale grocery business with his son Carroll Albaugh. Knowing the value of Mr. Babylon's experience as a merchant and desiring to have an experienced person with his son Mr. Albaugh induced Mr. Babylon to become a stockholder and officer in the corporation of Albaugh and Babylon Grocery Company, and he is now and has been since 1896, secretary and treasurer of the company. It is one of the leading wholesale grocery companies of this part of the country.

President of Westminster Savings Bank.

A number of years ago Mr. Babylon became a director of The Westminster Savings Bank one of the best institutions of this county, having succeeded his father-in-law the late David A. Snider, and upon the death of the late Dr. Charles Billingslea, he was elected president of the bank, and today fills that honorable and important office.

Has Faith In Future of Westminster.

Many men, after they have made money in a town, refuse to invest the same in it in order to build it up commercially, socially, or materially. Mr. Babylon must not be classed with such men. His faith in Westminster has been proven by the erection of buildings in which to house some of its inhabitants, and others for commercial purposes. One large and handsome building located on West Main street, near the railroad station, is a monument to his faith in Westminster. It is called "The Babylon Building," is three stories high, and forty-three feet wide. It was erected in 1896 and is now occupied by The Babylon and Lippy Company, a corporation that conducts a large retail department store, using the whole building. His investments in many other industries and institutions in Westminster also prove his faith in the city of his adoption.

Becomes Member of Grace Lutheran Church.

In 1879 Mr. Babylon became a member of Grace Evangelical Lutheran church of Westminster and for 25 years he was a member of the church council. In 1918 he donated a considerable lot of land opposite the church on which may be erected a social hall, or Sunday school room, or it may be used as a playground for children.

Marries Miss S. Ella Snider.

On March 24, 1881, Mr. Babylon and Miss S. Ella Snider, daughter and only child of the late David A. Snider, a retired merchant and farmer, then residing in Cranberry Valley, were married by Rev. Henry W. Kuhns, the then pastor of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church of Westminster. They have one child, a son, David Snider Babylon, born in 1883, an officer of the Babylon & Lippy Company, who married Miss Marion Coover, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Cover, of this city, and they have a daughter and two sons.

In 1881 Mr. Babylon became a subscriber to the Sentinel and has been one ever since. He receives other county papers but says he reads the Sentinel first.

CARROLLTON

Church of God, Wakefield: Sunday school at 10:30; Christian Endeavor at 7:30. Mrs. Clarence Jackson will be the leader. Prayer service Thursday evening at 7:30. You are invited to come to these services.

While Christian Endeavor meeting was going on at Wakefield Church of God Sunday evening, some one took a tire, rim and inner-tube from one of the cars. This is the second time since Christmas. They had better be very careful after this what they steal. It is a pity such a person can not be caught.

Dora Cook spent from Saturday till Sunday with his family, near here.

Mrs. Daniel Crumbacker spent last Wednesday with her son Marshall and family.

Mrs. John Sherfey is on the sick list.

Quite a number of the Wakefield people attended the revival service at Frizellburg last week.

Human intelligence is said to be at its brightest at the age of 16, and the boys of that age will admit that they know more than their parents.

UNIONTOWN

The burial of Mrs. Anne Stultz, wife of the late William Stultz, formerly of this place, was held at the M. P. cemetery Tuesday morning, Rev. Reinecke officiating. Mrs. Stultz's six sons acted as pallbearers, Charles, George, Harry, John, Ernest, and Jesse Stultz. One daughter, Mrs. Frank Nagle, survives.
