NEW FIRM AT THE OLD STAND.

We, the undersigned, having associate ourselves together in business under the firm name of

MATTHEWS & BIERY,

adopt this measure of informing the public that we have rented the MACHINE SHOPS that for many years have been conducted by Tuthill & Avery, and more recently by D. C. Avery & Co., where we are now prepared to take orders for new work, such as

Carriages, Carts, Wagons, Drays, Trucks, and Agricultural Implements, in general. Having requisite tools and machinery, strict attention will be given to all repair work, especially

Farm Engines, Grain Threshers, and Saw Mills.

This branch of the business will be attended to by E. J. BIERY, in person, whose long experience in handling the Wood, Tabor & Morse, Watertown, Nicols & Shepard, and all other Engines, used in this and adjoining counties, gives him a thorough knowledge of their natures, a trial of which will be convincing proof of what we assert. We have also in our Smith Department a First-Class Horse-Shoer, who will give this grade of Blacksmithing his particular attention. The

Carriage Department

will be under the sole supervision of C. P. P. MATTHEWS, whose long experience in building fine Carriages, Dearborns, Sulkys, and all repair work in connection with the trade, justifies him in saying that he will give entire satisfaction to each and every customer who may favor him with orders. In our

Paint Rooms

we have all the facilities for doing the finest of work, having in our employ a skilled mechanic, who thoroughly understands his business. Old Carriages Repainted, made to look as good as new.

We extend a general invitation to all to call and see us, and we will prove what we say.

POETRY.

A Dream of Autumn.

Mellow hazes lowly trailing
O'er the wood and meadow, veiling
Sombre skies, with swallows sailing,
Sailor-like to foreign lands;
And the north wind overleaping
Autumn's brink, and flood-like sweeping
Wrecks of roses where the weeping
Willows swing their helpless hands.

Flaunted high, like torches flinging
Flakes of flame and embers, springing
From the vale the trees stand swinging
In the moaning atmosphere;
While in dead'ning lands the lowing
Of the cattle, sadder growing,
Plus the sense to overflowing
With the sorrow of the year.

Beds of ragged stubble, tangled
With rank weeds and shocks of jangled
Corn, with crests like wet plumes dangled
O'er the harvest's battle plain;
And the sudden whir and whistle
Of the quail that, like a missile,
Whizzes over thorn and thistle,
And, a missile, drops again.

Muffled voices hid in thickets
Where the redbird stops to stick its
Ruddy beak between the pickets
Of the truant's rustic trap;
And a sound of laughter ringing
Where, within the wild vine swinging,
Climb Bacchante's schoolmates flinging
Purple clusters in her lap.

Rich as wine the sunset flashes
Round the tinted world and dashes
Up the sloping west and splashes
Its red foam against the sky,
Till my dream of Autumn, paling
In the splendor all-prevailing,
Like a sallow leaf goes sailing
Down the silence solemnly.

AGRICULTURAL.

What Breeds to Keep for Winter.

There are some breeds of fowls more suitable for winter than others, and the time will soon be here for "culling" out those not wanted. The feathering of a fowl has more to do with its winter laying than the care bestowed sometimes but, as all breeds seem to be well feathered after moulting, how is the poultry raiser to know which to keep. There are full feathers and "fluff" feathers, the latter being fine and downy. These small, downy, soft feathers, which are covered by those that are hard and coarse, are the true retainers of heat, but all breeds are not provided with them over all portions of the body. For comparison, select two hens—a Brahma and a Leghorn—and examine them closely. Being small in size, the Leghorn will apparently have more feathers than the Brahma, but raise the wings of the Brahma, and no nakedness will appear, the whole body being covered with the "fluff" feathers, but when the wings of the Leghorn are raised that portion of the body which they cover will be clean, naked and devoid of any down. Turn them loose, and the Leghorn seems to be perfectly protected. It is the close under covering of the Brahma that enables it to stand the cold of winter, remaining sound, healthy, and in good laying condition when the Leghorn will be shivering with cold or dying with the croup. Feathers do not of themselves keep a fowl warm. They simply hold the air which is a non conductor of heat. The "fluff" feathers retain the air more completely than the long outer coverlets, and this may be noticed by the fowls raising their feathers when cold as if they were permitting the air to pass in, when in reality they are increasing the depth of the non conducting fixed air, and for a like reason in summer they bring their feathers close to the body for a contrary effect. Thus the breeds to keep are those that are full in under feathers, for other breeds must be given more care and attention. The Brahmas and Plymouth Rock are both heavily feathered over all portions of the body, and so are the Cochins and Langshans, but the Cochins are too sluggish while the Langshans have not proved to be as hardy as the Brahmas, though they are hardier than some breeds. A cross of the Leghorn and Brahma feathers well and combines the merits of both, but it is best not to rely on any of the non sitters for winter laying.

To Tell the Age of Cows.

The age of horned cattle may generally be known by rings on the horns till their tenth year; after that time they give no indication of age farther than that the animal has passed its tenth year. The first ring appears on the horn after the animal is two years old—soon after, as a general rule, though sometimes before that age. During the third year the ring gradually increases, and at three years of age it is completely formed. The second ring appears during the fourth year, and at the fifth year it is complete After that period an additional ring is formed each year. This rule is sufficiently plain, and even a young farmer needs but little practice to enable him to read a cow's age on her horns. A cow with three rings is six years old; with four rings she is seven years old. No new rings are formed after the tenth year, the deeper rings, however, and the worn appearance of the horns are pretty sure indications of old age.

A Pledge Fulfilled.

A person passing a barnyard was observed by a mule to be in distress. "Tell me," said the mule, "what is the cause of your sorrow that I may sympathize with you." "Alas," said the man, "I am dead broke, and I know not how to mend my fortunes." "If you will just step inside of this yard," remarked the mule in a kindly tone, "I will try to make a raise for you." The man did so, and the fact that his hat was found in the adjoining State the next day warrants the belief that the mule fulfilled his pledge.—Denver Tribune.

What Tom Moore Said.

"WRINKLES are democratic and flatter nobody." The same may be said of all blemishes of the skin, whether caused by sickness, age or accident. "GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP" will at least retard the time when wrinkles make their appearance, by keeping the skin of a velvet softness, improving its elasticity, and preserving its healthful appearance. It gives a pearly aspect to the skin, which cannot be distinguished from the natural hue of a pure blonde complexion. Beware of counterfeits. See that "G. N. CRITTENTON, Proprietor," is printed on each packet, without which none is genuine. Sold by druggists and fancy goods dealers.

EASTERN SHORE DOMESTIC GUANO WORKS

EASTON, MD.

F. H. NICKERSON & CO., Proprietors.

The Eastern Shore Domestic Guano is justly styled the complete wheat manure of the age. It is acknowledged by all who have used it as having no superior, if any equal. It is a highly concentrated wheat manure, combining all the fertilizing qualities of PERUVIAN GUANO and the permanency of PURE RAW BONES, and contains all the elements that are necessary to nourish the wheat plant from the time the seed germinates until it matures.

F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: The past four years your fertilizer has proved satisfactory. I consider it the best commercial manure on the market for wheat and clover. From 12 acres last year I cut 31 tons of hay, and the second crop yielded 30 bus. of seed, Please ship me 10 tons for this fall.

Yours truly, W. P. POWELL.

F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: I have used your "Eastern Shore Domestic Guano" on my wheat crops (light lands) for the past four years, and am pleased with the results. The crops of wheat have been good, and the clover that followed has always been excellent. You will please send me 10 tons for my wheat this fall. Yours truly, J. P. REESE.

BROAD CREEK NECK, MD., July 23, 1883.

Messrs. F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: The Eastern Shore Domestic Guano I purchased of you last fall has proved entirely satisfactory. I used other standard fertilizers which I considered the best on the market. The wheat from your fertilizer was equal, if not the best, notwithstanding it was used on my thinnest land. I shall use it exclusively this fall. Yours truly, THOS. F. BRIDGES.

ST. MICHAELS, July 17th, 1883.

Messrs. F. H. Nickerson & Co., Easton, Md.—Gentlemen: The Eastern Shore Domestic Guano I purchased from you last fall acted first-class. I made more wheat than ever before, notwithstanding I had in less ground. I regard it a first-class fertilizer, and shall use it again. SAMUEL H. WRIGHTSON.

TRAPPE, MD., July 23, 1883.

Messrs. F. H. Nickerson & Co.—Gentlemen: In response to your inquiry concerning the results of your Eastern Shore Domestic Guano on my lands, I cheerfully give you the following: I have used your fertilizer on land which was very thin; 200 lbs application each year on an 18 acre field that has been in wheat successively for five years; the first year I reaped therefrom 255 bushels, and have increased that yield every year, with 460 bushels this season. As a clover producer and a permanent improver I consider it has no equal, and has always given me a strong growth for the last six years.

Yours truly, JONATHAN LEONARD.

CAMBRIDGE, MD., July 17, 1883.

L. Eugene Ross, Esq.—Dear Sir: It gives me great pleasure to report that the effect of Nickerson & Co.'s phosphate, which I purchased of you in October last, has been very satisfactory. I applied it, as nearly as I could, at the rate of 200 lbs to the acre, to my wheat, both in fallow and corn ground by the side of "Sea Island Guano," which I regard as an excellent fertilizer, and the effect was fully equal to and I am inclined to believe better than that of the latter. My crop, although seeded late, averaged 25 bushels to the acre, without the application of any compost or other manures to either field during the year, except some six or eight loads along the turning rows. Yours truly, DANIEL M. HENRY.

EASTON, MARYLAND.

F. H. Nickerson & Co.—Gentlemen: My experience with your Eastern Shore Domestic Guano has convinced me that it is one of the best fertilizers on the market, and I recommend it to all farmers who may be undecided as to the kind of manure to apply to their wheat lands. Yours truly, J. E. M. CHAMBERLAINE.

Mr. Wm. A. Kirby, Trappe, Md.: "I have applied Eastern Shore Domestic Guano to my wheat crops for eight years with good results. I am satisfied it is a good manure or I should have discontinued the use of it I have tested it by other fertilizers to my satisfaction. My grass that follows when the Eastern Shore Domestic Guano is used has always been good."

Mr. James H. Willis writes: "In reply to your inquiry of me in relation to my trial of Eastern Shore Domestic Guano, side by side with several of the best brands in the market I have to state that, early in the spring the Eastern Shore made the best start; at harvest I could not see much difference in the straw where Turner's Excelsior and the Eastern Shore were used, but the Eastern shore yielded better. I consider it the cheapest and best fertilizer I ever used."
