MANCHESTER

The time is here and there is no use to put it off any longer. Consulting my notes they are few, but to indulge in prospects. October has quite a showing for items. The farmers are among the busy people with seeding on the go but some complain of it being too dry. From the loads of fertilizer that is being hauled through town gives promise that there will be a large acreage sown or that they are sowing more of it to the acre. There too are the corn cutters who will finish up this week, elated over a fine crop. The thrashermen travelling back and forth to suit the farmers who are ready to receive a report on their bumper crop without any complaint. The canning business for several weeks had men and women from all quarters to help when the corn was at its heighth. The pay was good so that the industry put a lot of money into their hands in this section. Another busy number of mechanics were building the firemen's hall that is a fine home for the laddies. The basement has a bowling alley for fun and exercise. The ground floor accommodates the engine and its belongings, with a fine large kitchen, roomy dressers all connected with the sewer. The second story is a large hall with stage fitted with moveable scenery, with three hundred folding chairs. It will be dedicated on the 17th. A drawing card will be the Sun Paper Boys' Band of Baltimore, that will furnish the music. Hon. Millard E.
