POETRY.

THE ARBUTUS.

Looks so shy and innocent,
Blushes like a startled thing:
We could think it knew the whole
Of the secrets of the spring?

Keeps its rosy ear laid low,
Harking, harking, at the ground,
Never missed a syllable
Of the slightest stir or sound.

Chuckled often in its leaves,
Thinking how the world would wait;
Sending vainly for a flower,
Wondering why the spring was late.

Other secrets, too, it knows,—
Secrets whispered o'er its head;
Underneath its snowy veil
Off these secrets turn it red.

Whisper on, glad girls and boys!
Sealed the fragrant rosy wells;
You and spring are safe alike,—
Never the arbutus tells!

AGRICULTURAL.

INDIA AS A WHEAT PRODUCER.

India has become a strong competitor with this country in the production and exportation of wheat to England, and being under the control of England, that country naturally looks in that direction for her wheat supply. The area under wheat cultivation in India was recently estimated by the government at about 20,000,000 acres, a mere fraction of the area which would be put in wheat if the government would adopt a liberal policy toward companies formed to build lines of transportation whereon the prospect of a profitable freight business is good. The exportation of wheat, says the Baltimore Sun, which began in 1873, when the export duty ceased, and has been favored by recent reductions in freight rates, increases annually as the increase of railway mileage carries modern transportation facilities further into the wheat growing districts of the interior. The progress of the trade is astonishing. In 1873 the amount of Indian wheat exported was but 39,401,000 pounds. In 1880 it was 220,151,500 pounds; in 1882, 1,990,200,500 pounds; in six months of 1883, 1,571,498,300 pounds. The miles of railway increased from 5,695 in 1873 to 8,212 in 1878 and 10,144 in 1882. As might be expected the magnitude of the task proposed to the government of India by the advocates of railway extension does not dazzle the conservative statesman who has charge of the Indian finances, and his reply is that it will be better for those who have so much faith in the profitableness of new railways to build them themselves. The greatest safeguard at present, however, of the American wheat-grower is the expensiveness of transportation on Indian railways. It costs for example, more to carry a ton of wheat 616 miles over the Great Indian Peninsula Railway than it does to carry the same quantity 960 miles over an American trunk line. In 1881 wheat was carried from Chicago to Liverpool at a total cost for transportation of $7.77 per ton, while the rate charged in March, 1883, by the East India Railway from Delhi to Havrah, a distance of but 954 miles, was $7.85 per ton. If under present conditions the export of wheat from the United States, under Indian competition fell off during the past year fifty millions of bushels, it is worth considering what will be the result when increasing business and competition between rival Indian Railways bring down freight rates between the interior and the coast, as they have been brought down in the United States. The average all-rail rate from Chicago to New York was in 1868 as much as 42.6 cents per bushel, which rate was reduced by competition in 1878 to 17 7 cents per bushel. At present, the rate is much less, being fixed at about 13 cents per 100 pounds. To sum the matter up, if Indian freight rates were anything like as low as ours competition by the American farmer with the Indian wheat grower would seem to be impossible. The difference in the cost of farm labor in the two countries is too great to be overcome by our superior agricultural appliances. The Bombay Chamber of Commerce has no doubt of the future. "The Chamber broadly asserts that India is capable of supplying not only the wants of the United Kingdom, but of producing an unlimited supply of wheat; that it is simply a question of finding a market for the producer, and that markets will be erected by making branches of railways into the producing districts, and by cheapening railway communication with the coast. Freights by sea are more reasonable and are falling It may be added that in this respect New York has an advantage of about $3.50 a ton over Karrachee, in Western India, and San Francisco and Karrachee are about on a par. It is evident on surveying the whole field that to meet the competition of the pauper labor of the East the Western farmer must have all the advantages to be derived, both from a lower tariff tax on all he uses and the lower rate of transportation to be secured for his product by the construction of the Chesapeake and Delaware free ship canal.

A few years ago cotton seed was regarded as a waste material, to be disposed of with as little expense as possible. Now it is not only employed as a general fertilizer on many plantations, but thousands of tons of it are sold at the oil mills, where, after the oil has been expressed, the cake is used for feeding all kinds of stock.

To the Public, Property Owners and Consumers of House Paints.

During the past ten years every gallon of our paints have been sold under our Positive Guarantee—that any building would be repainted at our expense if not satisfactory for a proper term of years thereafter. In view of the apparently low prices at which cheaply made benzine and water paints are offered, and the difficulty experienced by inexperienced buyers in discriminating between the best paints and paints of inferior character, we now add to our previous guarantee the additional guarantee of cost, thus placing the low price of our paints beyond doubt.

We authorize any dealer to furnish our paints free of cost to any buyer, who having painted his building with our paints, can demonstrate that our paint has not cost 10 per cent. less for paint used, than cost would have been for either pure white lead and linseed oil or any other mixed paint in this country.

All this being caused by the physical derangements so common to women, which the innate modesty of feminine nature prevents (she thinks) making known, and of which the ignorance of the medical profession prevents a cure. Lady Reader, pause and consider, 'tis a duty you owe yourself, your family and your God, that you should cure yourself of these troubles and once more feel the glow of perfect health and spirits that nature intended for you. Wheeler's No. 98 Prescriptions are pleasant and palatable to take, contain nothing of an injurious nature, and may be taken by all ages at all times and in all conditions without possibility of ill effects, and will positively cure any of the peculiar diseases to which females are subject.
