FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1870.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

In two successive numbers of the Examiner, there has been a lament, that no arrangements have been made for a public celebration of the Fourth of July. Does not the Examiner appreciate the mockery of such a celebration? Can it not appreciate the fact, that such a public celebration of the Fourth of July as was common fifteen or twenty years ago, and participated in by all men of all parties—when whig and democratic orators could declaim to a delighted auditory on the virtues and patriotism of the signers of the Declaration of American Independence, would now fall like discordant sounds on the ears, even of honest radicals, and as solemn mockery on the ears of those who truly cherish the memory of the heroic deeds and the principles of the men who worked out the independence of the colonies, and established a free republic of white men in these States? What were the signers of the immortal declaration of the Fourth of July, 1776, but stern rebels to their king, and the government under which they lived?

Up to the advent of the accursed party which the Examiner now represents, these grand old patriots, the owners of negro slaves, were held in highest veneration by their descendants, and by all the world besides. The immortal Washington was honored and revered throughout the civilized world. But now, under the teaching of a new school, Washington and his slaveholding compatriots are superseded in radical devotion by John Brown the horse thief, murderer, and insurrectionist—by Abe Lincoln, Ulysses Grant, Charles Sumner, and Ben Butler, the spoon thief.

Whose glorious achievements—whose patriotic sacrifices—whose statesmanship would the Examiner have publicly eulogized on Monday next; those of the men of '76, and those who organized, after the seven years of bloody war, a republic of white men—or the glories of the men of the present day, who have subverted the government established by the patriots of '76?

In this degenerate age, a republican paper in this city has the effrontery to couple, as among the great men in the history of our country, the name of Aaron Davis, one of our city gardeners, with that of Thomas Jefferson! We, therefore, ask what manner of men shall be the subject of the orator's eulogy on an occasion of a public celebration of the Fourth of July? Is it the old or the new order of things that shall be held up to public admiration and approval? Shall the three millions of rebels of '76 be lauded, while the eight millions of "rebels" of 1861 shall be denounced? Shall the popular radical negro song of "Shoo Fly" take precedence of Hail Columbia? Shall young orator denounce Washington, Jefferson, Henry, Madison, and all the illustrious men of the olden times—of "the purest days of the republic," and exhaust eulogy on the charlatans and plunderers of the present day, who hypocritically profess to believe,—in order to hold power and place—that negroes are the equals of white men?

Well, get up a public celebration of the Fourth of July, and let the best voices unite—after the oration—in singing Hail Columbia! And then let us have, also, the Star Spangled Banner, the author of which was a horrid slave holder. And while it is being sung let some radical announce the number of white men—descendants of the patriots of the revolution—who are now disfranchised in the Southern States whilst negroes rule over them! Surely this is "the land of the free and the home of the brave;" and some radical orator, who has more statesmanship and patriotism than the fathers of the republic, ought to have an opportunity of descanting upon the progress and improvement made upon the ideas and principles of the "old fogies" who lived in "the times that tried men's souls!"

REGISTRATION.

Under this caption we find some suggestions in the last issue of the St. Mary's Beacon, which we present for the consideration of our registers. That efforts will be made to import fraudulent voters, of African descent, into this congressional district there is every reason to apprehend. We especially call the attention of registers of voters to the concluding portion of the article from the Beacon.—The Beacon says:

"As it is not unlikely that an attempt will be made, pending the coming registration, to "immigrate" to our county, under one pretext or another, quite a number of the dusky element of Washington city, at present out of voting employment, with a view to an increase of the radical vote here at the coming Congressional election, we have thought it prudent to suggest to our registrators to provide themselves in advance with the latest lists of the registered voters of that city. These can be obtained, we doubt not, by addressing our watchful representative in Congress, Hon. F. Stone. The importance of these lists as an aid in defeating the anticipated unlawful attempts of Washington negroes to vote at our polls will at once suggest itself. And the different counties of this Congressional district should take the same precaution. It would be well enough, also, to have an eye in the direction of Baltimore. In the meanwhile, even at this early day, our registers should be casting about them, by personal observation and neighborhood inquiries, for information as to the present negro residents of the county entitled to register. They will find that this "stitch in time" will greatly facilitate and lighten the labors of their office on registration days."

Hinton R. Helper, the Impending Crisis man, denies that he is a candidate for Congress from North Carolina, and says "I certainly should not esteem it an honor to be sent to Congress or elsewhere by such voters as have delighted to elect and re-elect to office individuals like Whittemore and Dewess."

"Parson" Brownlow has stopped swearing. He has lost his voice.

FIGHT IT OUT.

The Maryland scallawags and carpet-baggers are at loggerheads about the appointment of negroes to office. Some weeks ago Col. Black, of the Republican, reproached Marshal Goldsborough for ignoring the just claims of the man and brother in making his appointments of assistant census takers. The Marshal had eighty or so of these appointments to make, and, yet, did not appoint a single Fifteenth Amendment in the whole State. The Baltimore American, which journal, on the 19th of April, 1861, insisted that no more northern troops should be permitted to pass over the soil of Maryland—now an intense negroite—endorses Black's censure of the Marshal, as does, also, the Cumberland Civilian. These journals are the organs of J. A. J. Creswell, Postmaster General, an original secessionist.

The U. S. Marshal defends his action on two grounds. First, that eminent radical legal counsel assured him, that under the laws of Maryland, he could not appoint colored men in his department; and, secondly, that negro men did not apply for the positions, nor were they recommended to him for office; and, lastly, that it could not be expected that he would go about hunting up such as might be competent to discharge the duties of the office. The American scoffs at the excuses of Marshal Goldsborough, and intimates that the Marshal is not as great a man as he seems to imagine himself to be, and suggests that the more seldom he resorts to the pen in the vindication of his reprehensible conduct the better it will be for him.

In reply to Mr. Goldsborough's suggestion, that it could not be expected of him to hunt up negroes to give them places, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, who edits the Republican, and runs the postoffice in this city, reminds the Marshal, that he did, when applying for the Marshalship, hunt up negroes to sign his petition to the great Ulysses; and, that a "large proportion of the signers to his application were colored men."—This, if true, is rather hard on the Marshal; for, he should remember that a friend in need is a friend indeed; and that we ought not to forget the bridge that carries us safely over the river.

The Examiner, however, apparently single handed, rallies to the defense of the Marshal, and states that he has two negroes in his office in Baltimore, whereas our radical postmaster has no negro clerk in his office—and, that the editor of the American, who has places to give out, has been equally oblivious of the claims of the colored brethren.

Now, what do these criminations and recriminations in the radical family prove? Simply this: that they have a hard road to travel,—that white radicals want all the offices, and, that all the leaders are engaged in a stupendous and most infamous scheme to bamboozle and honeyfuggle the man and brother,—that they will use him when they want his aid and cast him aside as useless stock in trade when they do not need his valuable services.

To "save the republican party"—one of the motives which Col. Black alleges induced him to condemn the course of Mr. Goldsborough—there must be a very decided progress in doing "justice" to the "colored man." The American, in order to make the point strong against the Marshal, claims that there are 35,000 colored voters in Maryland. This is more than the white radicals number.

Now start, ye, gentlemen, on the basis at the head of Col. Black's last article—"justice—nothing more, nothing less." Is this the platform of the white republicans of Maryland? Then reduce it to practice, and give these 35,000 negro voters one half the representation in all your county and State conventions; in county and State nominations give them one-half the nominees; and so in regard to corporation offices; and, give them, also, one-half the federal appointments within the State. Let the "claims of this patient, patriotic and industrious race"—in the felicitous language of Col. Black, be fully recognized; and if Marshals, and Internal Revenue Collectors, Postmasters, and Collectors of Imposts wont do "justice" to the 35,000 men and brothers, let them be turned out and let more willing slaves be put in their places, who will do "justice—nothing more, nothing less," to "a patient, patriotic, industrious race!"

Four white men and five negroes, black as the ace of spades, delegates from Jefferson county to the Radical Convention at Parkersburg, left here on the Express Monday night. They fraternized as lovingly as cooing doves. The Jefferson Radicals "go the whole"—negro.—New Era.

Here the negro delagates to the West Va., State Convention, out number the white delegates. The reason is, we suppose, that the radical negroes in Jefferson Co., out number the white scallawags and carpet-baggers, and insist upon representation according to numbers. Thousands of white men in Jefferson county and throughout West Virginia, are disfranchised under the State Constitution for sympathy with the South during the war between the States; but all negroes in the State, by virtue of the XVth Amendment, are now voters. The scallawags and carpet-baggers must "fraternize lovingly" with the negroes as the only hope of retaining their political ascendency—notwithstanding they denied suffrage to the negroes, until it was forced upon them by the fraudulent amendment. But there is a conservative reaction going on in West Virginia, tending to a restoration of political rights to native white men; and the extreme radicals will soon find themselves in a hopeless minority even with their negro allies—"fraternize" though they may never so lovingly. The white man who can advocate or approve negro suffrage without, at the same time, demanding equal political rights for all men of his own race is a tyrant at heart, and is utterly unfit to enjoy the blessings of free government.

Forty-four thousand women are employed as out-door laborers in England.

He was returned to the Sheriff of this county.

Quynn & Ritter, his brother, and Henry Williams, son of the President of the Frederick County National Bank. The friends of these very deserving and enterprising young merchants, in this county, are gratified to know that they are doing a very extensive and successful business.

OPERETTA.—By referring to our new advertisements it will be seen that the celebrated Templeton Opera Troupe will give three entertainments at Junior Hall, commencing on Monday evening, July 4th. Our citizens will receive this announcement with pleasure, for they have not forgotten a former visit of this troupe, when the beautiful Miss Alice Vane won unbounded praise for her admirable and artistic rendition of "Fanchon, the Cricket." This excellent artist, justly termed the "star of the South," will be present; also, the charming danseuse, Isabel Vane, little May, "the Fay." Mr. Templeton, an actor well known and of high repute in the South, and other able performers—combining a troupe worthy to be patronized by any city. We hope they will be greeted with full houses, as it is rarely the privilege of our people to witness such excellent artists.

DEAF AND DUMB INSTITUTION.—On Wednesday and Thursday of last week the pupils of this institution passed a satisfactory examination before a portion of the Board of Visitors, and a few others of our citizens. Although the conveniences of this institution are not of the most comfortable character, we are pleased to state that the efficient principal, Prof. W. D. Cook, has done everything in his power to promote the general welfare of those under his care and instruction. It is expected that the work for the erection of the new building will be commenced some time in August, and when it is completed the pupils will be surrounded with those conveniences that will administer to their comfort and pleasure. On the 28th of June the Board of Visitors reelected the following officers: A. Fuller Crane, president; Wm J. Ross, vice president; H. Clay Naill, secretary; L. J. Brengle, treasurer; Dr. William H. We have not been informed as to the cause of her death or how long she had been dead when found. Her remains were interred on Monday last.—Examiner.

DEATH OF JOSEPH WALTMAN.—This gentleman died at his residence near Berlin, in Petersville district, on Saturday last, in the 70th year of his age, and was buiried in the Lutheran grave yard, near Lovettsville, in Loudon Co., Va. Mr. Waltman commenced life with limited means, but by extraordinary industry and energy, and habits of most rigid economy, succeeded in accumulating an estate, cheifly in landed properly, supposed to be worth some $90,000, which he devised to his relatives in Missouri and Virginia. He never cultivated any of the social virtues, and never married. Although the chief aim of his life seems to have been the acquisition of wealth, we have never heard his personal integrity called in question.

DEATH OF AN AGED LADY.—Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, widow of the late Samuel H. Thomas, died at the residence of her son-in-law, Col. John B. Thomas, in Buckeystown district, on the 13th of June, at the advanced age of 88 years and 18 days—having been born before our nation was six years old and when its population was only three millions. Notwithstanding the deceased's great age, she was able to move about and wait upon herself up to within a few months of her death. She was well known in the section of county where she resided, and her examplary and christian life made her universally respected and esteemed. She leaves quite a number of descendants embracing children, grand-children and great-grand-children. She was buried in the Thomas burying grounds, on the lands of the late Capt. Otho Thomas, and the interment of her remains was witnessed by a large circle of sorrowing relatives and friends.

DEATH OF A SISTER OF CHARITY.—On the 12th inst., Sister Matilda Coskery died at St. Joseph's, Emmittsburg, Md. The Baltimore Catholic Mirror, referring to the deceased, says: "During a long period of time Sister Matilda discharged faithfully, in a variety of capacities and in many different places, the duties of her sacred calling, her first post being, if we mistake not, Mt. St. Mary's College, Md. As early as 1834, if not before that year, she, together with Sisters Olympia, Octavia and Ursula, took charge of the patients at the Maryland Hospital, of this city. She was afterwards Sister Servant at Mt. St. Vincent's Hospital, Baltimore, and at Mt. Hope; also, at Medical Hospital, in Richmond, Va., the Orphan Asylum at Norfolk, at Rochester, N. Y., and various other places. During the civil war she ministered at various places to the sick and wounded. For some years past she has been at the Mother House, St Joseph's, near Emmittsburg, where a portion of her duties consisted in relieving the wants of the poor and sick for several miles around St. Joseph's."

WARM WEATHER.—During the latter part of last and the first of this week we were visited with very warm, weltering weather, the thermometer ranging from 80 to 98 degrees, which rendered the heat almost unbearable. On Tuesday last the greatest warmth was experienced, the thermometer rising in the afternoon to 98 degrees in the shade. This stage of heat also prevailed in New York city on that day, while in New Orleans, notwithstanding its great Southern latitude, the mercury did not rise higher than 86. Wednesday noon a brief but heavy shower of rain fell in this city, and in the evening deep masses of black clouds, heavily charged with lightning and thunder, and accompanied with a violent storm of wind, rolled over and west of our city, which rendered the temperature on Thursday much more pleasant. In some localities large numbers of trees were blown by the storm.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. John W Shafer of this vicinity, who had been suffering with a pulmonary affection for some time past, and who had recently become quite feeble, died very suddenly on Friday last at the residence of Mr. John E. Crone near Bolivar. In company with his mother, he had just arrived at the house of Mr. Crone, who was an uncle to him, and upon taking a seat was noticed to faint away. He was immediately laid upon a bed, where he expired in a few minutes.—Valley Register.

The partnership between the Radical leaders and the negroes in Delaware is not doing so successful a business as the high contracting parties hoped it would. Many of the white Radicals refuse to be included in the contract, and the probability is that the State will go Democratic despite the addition of 4,000 negro votes to the Radical ranks. A similar failure awaits the coalition in Pennsylvania.—Gettysburg Compiler.

Michael Gochnaur, of East Hempfield township, Lancaster county, Pa. has a calf of the Devonshire breed, which, when only a day old, weighed 127 pounds.

METROPOLITAN RAILROAD.—The operations on this line of railroad have now reached a stage where its completion, within less than twelve months, seems a matter assured. The work has been progressing steadily at the heaviest points on the line; a bridge is now being constructed over Monocacy, and operations at all points will be prosecuted vigorously. We look forward with pleasing anticipation to the day, now not far in the future, when the "iron horse" shall come thundering through this section of country; for we know he will bring along with him a train of blessings which will lift the head and cheer the heart of "old Montgomery." Prosperity will abound on every hand. Activity, enterprise and thrift will flow in enlarged channels. The value of lands will be greatly enhanced; facilities for improvement vastly augmented.—All along the line will spring up new places of business; and our own little borough will expand to the dimensions of a mammoth municipality, until her limits reach the District line, by reason of capitalists from other quarters investing their funds in the purchase of lots and erection of dwellings on and near the line of a railroad passing through one of the prettiest, healthiest, and, in all respects, most advantageous localities in the world. So mote it be, and that speedily.—Rockville Sentinel 24th

HOW TO KEEP COOL.—The Herald of Health for July gives some directions upon the pertinent problem of how to keep cool. We quote:

1. The diet should be composed largely or entirely of fruits, fresh vegetables, and wheat-meal bread, and other preparations of wheat and oat-meal. Cornmeal bread and cakes should be seldom eaten, if at all, during hot weather. Avoid all stimulating or heating articles of food, as meats, especially fat or salted meats, butter, gravies, and greasy food of all kinds, sugar, mustard, spices, ect. Do not eat hot food, and especially avoid eating more than the system requires.

2. Drink nothing but water, and of that only a small quantity at a time. Of course this precludes the use of tea, coffee and all alcoholic drinks.

3. The clothing should be light, light colored, loose fitting, and changed often

3. The entire body should be bathed every day, either in the morning or at night. Farmers and others who prespire freely and are exposed to dust should bathe at night. They will rest and sleep better for doing so. The whole body can be effectually cooled in a short time by holding pieces of ice in the hand, or letting a stream of cold water run upon the wrists or ankles.

5. Avoid all undue mental or physical excitement.

A REVERSE OF FORTUNE.—Fifteen years ago there resided in this city a man named Wm. Beckly, who at that time was one of the leaders of fashion, and who moved in the best of society. By birth he was a Virginian, and, being educated, and reared in the lap of luxury, conceived that his path through life was to be over roses, and that care and trouble would never be known to him. He had not resided in Baltimore many months before he contracted the acquaintance of of certain young men, who quickly despoiled him of his good name and money, and in his depressed moments he sough comfort in drink. His downward career was rapid and effectual. Since that time he has existed no one knows how, and yesterday he was arrested upon the charge of vagrancy. He had just arrived from Hartford, Connecticut, having walked every step of the way from that city to Baltimore, and stated that he was seven days on the tramp. Justice O'Donnell committed him to the Bayview Asylum.—Baltimore American, 18th.

MORE INDIAN HOME THRUST.—The speech of the Indian Red Cloud to New Yorkers last week was marked by the same simplicity of style and pointed sentences that he indulged at Washington. He asked his hearers to help the Indian in his present trouble, and protect him from the bad white men. He was sarcastic on Spotted Tail, who he charged would "say one thing one day and be bought for a fish the next." The orator Red Dog, followed with a short address, in which he made the pithy remark that "once he was thin and spare, but now he is large and fat, because so many liars have been sent out to his country by the Great Father that he is stuffed full of lies." Calling attention to his young men he added: "Look at them and see if you can see any that are rich; they are all poor because they are honest." These great truths, of course, elicit cheap applause.

TERRIBLE EFFECT OF LIGHTNING.—As the propellor D. S. Miller, of Poughkeepsie, and the barge Susquehanna, of Homer, Ramsdell & Co.'s Newburg daily line, on Monday night were, passing Cro' Nest Mountain, which looms almost perpendicularly up from the water, one solid mass of rock, an awful explosion of thunder occured, immediately following a vivid sheet of lightning. A fire-bolt descended and struck the mountain top, splitting off an immense piece of rock, weighing a hundred tons, which was hurled into the air and plunged with a fearful momentum into the river at the base of the mountain. Showers of pieces were scattered in the air, some of them falling upon the decks of passing vessels. The smell of brimstone was for a time almost overpowering, and the hiss of the water as the heated rock plunged into it was plainly heard.—N. Y. Herald.

PAT. WOODS AT WASHINGTON.—Through a private source we hear that testimony has been given in the case of Pat. Woods before the Judiciary Committee not likely to make him looked upon with much love by his inquisitors. Dr. Frayser testified that Pat. whipped Porter and Humphreys, and in a threatening manner said he wouldn't rest until he had cleaned out the whole d—d Radical party. W. R. Howle testified that he punched a hole throug Porter's head, and that Porter bled like a stuck pig. A colored witness testified that Pat. first whipped Porter, knocked Humphreys down, and then made for a whole crowd of other men.—Richmond Dispatch.

COST OF A KISS.—Trial was had in the Superior Court of a suit instituted therein by Newton W. Seibert and Elizabeth his wife against John Leeson for assault. The facts in the case appear to have been that the plaintiffs were tenants of Leesons, who, upon one occasion, when the rent was due, called at the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Seibert, and during the absence of her husband approached Mrs Seibert with protestations of love, kissing her hand against her will.

The jury having considered "all the circumstances," returned damages in favor of Mrs. Seibert to the amount of $2,000.—Baltimore Gazette.

A sad case of drowning occurred near Waynesboro', Greene county, the other day. A mother missed her little boy, a lad of some ten years, and went in pursuit. Hearing he had gone to the creek to swim, and hastening hither, she was just in time to see him struggling for life in ten feet of water. Mother-like she plunged in, and the result was both mother and child were drowned.

Sympathy for the Carpet-Baggers.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, one of the most intensely "loil" papers in the country and a Radical among Radicals; sympathizes with its friends, the carpet-baggers of the South, in the following peculiar strain. The scoundrels are beginning to catch it in all quarters. Says the Inquirer: "The 'carpet-baggers' in Wilmington, North Carolina, have come to grief, and have been betrayed in the house of their friends. To secure the offices for themselves, they packed the nominating Convention with colored delegates, with the understanding that the latter would support the former. We regret to say that among those delegates there must have been a large number of those gentlemen who were known to the country during the war as 'reliable contrabands'—chiefly on account of their never telling the truth—for when the candidates came to be voted for it was found that not a single 'carpet-bagger' was elected. The colored delegates placed in nomination, for the office of Sheriff, a colored man; for Senator, a colored man; for three vacancies of the lower House, three colored men, and so on to the end of the list. Great dissatisfaction is expressed, we are informed by the Northern gentlemen with Southern office-holding proclivities, and they theatened to call another Convention to be composed of themselves exclusively. We are also gravely told, that 'It is feared by the leaders of the party that the disposition shown by the colored people to monopolize the offices in the counties in which they have majorities will have a disastrous effect on the result of the election in the interior counties.'"

The Inquirer adds: "We do not see why that which was wrought for should be feared by the carpet-baggers. The whites of the South are denied citizenship the colored people are not, and it seems only fair that those who have the votes ought to have the offices too. At least, that is the popular theory in his vicinity."

Alas for the carpet-baggers! Not only does Sambo in the South give them the cold shoulder by taking the offices, but they are scorned and laughed at by their "loil" friends in the North!

WHITTEMORE'S SECOND REPULSE.—Whittemore, the "bold adventurer," as a congressman from South Carolina, has once more got his deserts. The newly enfranchised voters of his district, whose untutored condition he took advantage of in appealing to them for reelection, after having been solemnly declared by resolution of the House unfit to be a member of that body, have been taught a lesson by the House and himself rebuked by the adoption of a resolution yesterday refusing to allow him to be sworn in. The vote was very emphatic, 124 to 29. Mr. Logan offered the resolution on the subject, and supported it by some remarks. He intimated that the act of selling a cadetship was punishable under the law by confinement in the penitentiary, which of course must apply as fully also to other members who profited by the same business, whether they be retained in the House or not. Whittemore, on the other hand, accuses Logan of treachery, and says that it was by the latter's advice that he stood for re-election.—Balt. Sun.

A MODEL COUNCIL.—The Unitarians have been in council in Cleveland. The delegates were numerous. There seems to be no lack of speeches. But certainly the Unitarians are not of one mind. One of the speakers said that what the Church wanted was the Holy Ghost. Another had no faith in the Holy Ghost religion By some of the speakers Jesus Christ was ranked with a famous Mohammedan girl, who had worked some great reform in Persia, and placed somewhat lower than Chunder Sen. This of course shocked some good people. If the Unitarians have no more of the spirit of unity in them than this Cleveland Conference has revealed, we fear many eloquent Hepworths will be needed to bring the world around to the Unitarian standard. When the shepherds point in so many directions what is to become of the sheep.—N. Y. Herald.

DISCOVERY OF GOLD IN APPOMATTOX.—A gentleman from Appomattox county, informed us yesterday of the discovery in that county of a very rich gold mine in the vicinity of Evergreen, on the land of a Mr. Harvey. Several hundred dollars worth of the precious metal, he said, was taken out in a day; and the mine is believed to be one of extraordinary richness. Much excitement has been created by this discovery, and it is believed that Appomattox will become a second California. We hope that there is a prospect of its becoming famous for something besides the surrender.—Lynchburg Virginian, 21st.

The city election held in Waterburry, Connecticut, on Monday week, resulted, in the words of the Waterbury American (Radical,) "in a clean sweep for the Democrats in everything except the Second ward." The American claims that this is not surprising, excepting as regards to the Third ward. "This ward," it says, "is known to be strongly Republican, but it went Democratic." The Democratic candidate for Mayor, Isaac Newton, was elected by 193 majority. Waterburry, last year elected a Radical Mayor by 316 majority, but her citizens seem to prefer a return to Democratic management.

An attempt was recently made in the House of Representatives of Massachusetts to commit that body against the policy of introducing Chinese labor into the manufactories of that State. It failed. The big corporations want cheap laborers, and they will obtain them from China, Africa, or any other place. Slavery having been blotted out in the South, it begins to crop out in the North—the only difference is that the chains will now gall the limbs of white men, and they will have no Sumner or Butler to plead their cause.—Age.

103 YEARS.—One by one the living links of the grand old chain that binds the present generation to the past, are yielding to the corrosive influence of Time, and passing away. Recently, Mrs. Hannah Larue, widow of the late Richard Larue, a soldier of the war of 1812—and residing in Jefferson county, near the Loudoun line, died at the advanced age of one hundred and three years. The old lady, we understand, possessed in a remarkable degree all of her faculties up to the day of her death, and was stricken down while walking across the floor.—Leesburg Mirror.

The last advices from Oregon confirm the report of the complete Democrotic victory in that State. In the House of Representatives, on Friday last, Mr. Smith, the member from Oregon, sent to the Speaker's desk a telegraphic despatch from Hon. L. F. Grover, the Democratic Governor elect, containing these words:—"Have carried everything; got Legislature by twelve majorty, sure."

If the black men of the South are so well qualified to vote, hold office, and administer affairs, why not call home the carpet-baggers and set them to work or send them to prison, where they belong?
