A party of gentlemen consisting of John Loats, Esq., President of the F. & P. L. R. R., Capt. W. Eichelberger, President of the Hanover Branch R. R., Col. Ephraim Myers, President of the Littlestown and Hanover R. R., Col. Wm. McSherry, Director of Littlestown and Hanover road, J. S. Galt, Chief Engineer of the Littlestown road, Mr. Diller, contractor on that portion of the F. & P. L. R. R., between Littlestown and Mason and Dixon's Line, his Honor Mayor Ebert, Messrs. Bantz, Zeiler, Blackstone, Burke, Kunkle of the Board of Alderman and Common Council; Hon J. A. Lynch, Capt. John Ritchie, P. H. Pyfer, B. F. Brown, J. B. Reifsnider, Jos. Tregellas, D. C. Winebrenner, Esqs., and the editor of this paper, and several gentlemen from Pennsylvania, whose names we cannot remember, left this city in carriages and buggies on Wednesday morning of last week, for an excursion over the line of the above road, to its terminus at Littlestown. Striking the road at the point where it crosses the Emmittsburg pike about three miles from this city, the party passed on to the Monocacy, about one mile to the point where the railroad bridge will span this stream—the distance being graded and ready for the cross ties. Returning we passed through private roads and crossed the Monocacy at Doub's ford, and passed round through Mr. G. W. Murdock's farm and reached the Monocacy on the North bank, at bridge point.—Here we found a considerable force at work, some carting for the embankment, which will be of considerable height, to bring it on a level with the high bluff on the South bank of the stream, while others were occupied in dressing stone for the abutment for the bridge. These stone are from a lime stone quarry on Mr. Hoke's farm near Ceresville and are taken out in blocks two feet thick, and in width and length three, four and five feet, presenting level faces and requiring but little dressing. We have never seen stone any where better suited for bridge building. From our observation we presume there will be only one abutment of masonry at this bridge, and this on the north bank, as on the opposite side of the stream is a high bluff of solid rock more durable than can be built by human skill. After a survey of the situation, the party took to their vehicles and proceeded northward over the bed of the road to Little Pipe Creek, a distance of twelve or fourteen miles. Except at two or three points where some further excavations and filling are required at cross roads all this portion of the road is ready for the rail. Passing on to a pleasant grove, near York Station, on the Western Maryland Railroad, the party halted for lunch, consisting of choice ham and bread and butter, which was keenly relished and demolished in large quantities by the hungry excursionists—the appetite being whetted by some fine old rye. It was now about 12 o'clock, and as soon as the horses were ready we proceeded onward, either on the bed of the graded track of the railroad or in sight of it, to Taneytown, where some of the party tarried while others made an examination of some heavy work on the road about a quarter of a mile distant. The contractor is about to commence the building of the depot at this point. All being again in line we proceeded onward as before, on or in sight of the railroad, until we reached the Pennsylvania and Maryland line. Here we halted for a few moments to see the invisible line which divides and yet does not divide the two sister States, and some of the party supposing they had discovered the line, got astride of the said line, and with one foot on Maryland and the other on Pennsylvania soil renewed their fealty to the Union, and insisted that this railroad should, at all events, bind these two States more closely together in mutuality of interests. From this point to Littlestown is about 3 miles distant, the road being under the Presidency of Col. Ephraim Myers. A hundred laborers could finish the grading of this end of the road in thirty days. About 7½ o'clock we entered Littlestown and called a halt at the Yantis Hotel, where we found most comfortable quarters, and in due time sat down to a most excellent supper, to which ample justice was done. By the by, Mr. Yantis is a Frederick county man, late of Woodsboro', is a most polite and attentive host, and knows how to make his guests comfortable, and we commend his Hotel to all travelers who may visit Littlestown.

In the course of the evening the Littlestown Band serenaded the party. Capt. Ritchie responded to the compliment with his usual wit and humor, and felicity of expression, and was frequently interrupted by applause. Seated on the fine veranda of the Hotel a couple of hours were passed most pleasantly with a number of citizens discussing railroad matters. Capt. Eichelberger having extended an invitation to the excurtionists to visit Hanovor by special train the next morning, leaving Littlestown at 6 o'clock, we sought our couches and enjoyed a good night's rest. At 6 next morning the party was "all abroad" and off for Hanover, a run of seven miles, passing through a very beautiful and highly cultivated and finely improved valley. We passed through several of the principle business streets, and after a good walk we were escorted to the Central Hotel, where most of the excursionists indulged in LAGER AND PRETZELS. Hanover contains about 2500 inhabitants, and is a place of considerable business—there are several coach and agricultural implement factories in the place. After spending about an hour in seeing what was to be seen in this rail road country, we returned to the depot and took cars for Littlestown and breakfast, for which our early excursion had given us good appetites. After breakfast Col. Myers, living in a palatial residence in the centre of this beautiful little town, invited us to ascend to the top thereof, from which elevation we had a commanding view of the surrounding country, which is certainly very attractive. Highly improved farms are seen in all directions—the lands being worth, as we are informed, from $125 to $200 per acre. Littlestown contains about 900 inhabitants and presents as many evidences of thrift and enterprise as any place of this size we have ever seen. About 9 o'clock our carriages were ready, and bidding good-by to our Littlestown friends, we started for home, but we were called to a halt just outside of the Borough, to partake of refreshments at the hospitable Mansion of Col Wm. McSherry, after which we proceeded on our journey, Col. Myers Col. McSherry, Mr. Diller and several other gentlemen escorting the party to the Pennsylvania line.

There is a great interest felt in Hanover and Littlestown in the completion of the F & P. L. R. R., both of which places will, no doubt, be greatly benefited thereby. But it struck us that the farming interests all along the line of the road from Woodsboro' to Littlestown will derive the greatest and most immediate advantages from this road. Between these two points lies a beautiful level country. The soil is red clay and needs only the proper application of lime to make every acre produce double the present product, whether of wheat, corn or grass. When this road is finished, these farmers can be abundantly and cheaply supplied with lime, either from Woodsboro' or Littlestown. But we have not room to discuss these matters at length. We may say, that judging by the immense amount of work which has been already done on the road, the friends of the enterprize may anticipate its early completion—the bridges over the Monocacy and Big and Little Pipe Creek being the only points where any considerable time will be required to prepare the way for the Iron Horse. Anthracite coal is selling in Littlestown at $6,25 per ton.

THE FRANCO-PRUSSIAN WAR.

More Terrible Fighting.

Surrender of McMahon's Army.

Napoleon a Prisoner.

The Empire Overthown—A Republic Established—The Prussians Marching on Paris.

The news from the seat of war in Europe is of a momentous character. The great events that have lately transpired have startled every one—not that they were altogether unlooked for, but because of the rapidity of their occurrence.

At the time we were writing, last week, of the situation of the armies, and of the fate that would befall McMahon's command should he be defeated, that army was surrendering to the victorious Prussians, who to the number of 300,000 strong, commenced an attack upon the French forces under McMahon numbering probably 130,000 men, which, after a series of bloody battles, begun on the 29th ult., and ended on the 1st inst., resulted in the surrender of the whole French army. The Emperor Napoleon, who was with McMahon's command at the time, also surrendered himself to the King of Prussia. 10,000 French and 20,000 Prussians are said to have been killed and wounded in these terrible encounters. Among those wounded on the French side was the commander of their army, Marshal McMahon, who is reported to have died. He was one of the bravest and ablest of the Marshals of France. The four days' fighting and the capitulation of the French army occurred at and around Sedan, a fortress situated in the northern part of France. 75,00 men are said to have laid down their arms The brilliant successes of the Prussians are without a parallel in history.

The news of the loss of the French army caused intense excitement in Paris. Immense mobs arose and paraded the streets, shouting "Viva la France," "Viva la Republique," and "resistance to invasion." Taking advantage of the nation's calamity, and seizing the opportunity afforded by the popular agitation prevailing, the republicans of Paris took possession of the reins of government, formed a new ministry, abrogated the power of the Imperial family, proclaimed a Republic, and adopted measures for further resistance to the victorious Prussians.

The Empress Regent, owing to the situation of affairs, hastily quitted Paris, and has gone to join her husband, whose residence will be fixed by the King of Prussia.

It is impossible to tell what shape the course of events will assume, after the commotion in Paris has subsided. At present all is confusion; and though the proclamation of a Republic seems to meet with universal favor, there is no telling the current of feeling underlying all this delirious excitement. There appears to be, however, perfect unity among all classes in regard to resisting the invading Prussians. Whether the Republic is capable of offering a successful resistance, now that the only disciplined army France had to oppose the invading Prussians has surrendered, remains to be seen. To us it appears doubtful.

The French forces under Bazaine, in Metz, still hold out.

An immense army, probably 400,000 strong, is within three days' march of the walls of Paris.

A woman, over 80 years of age went into one of the dental establishments in Hartford, Conn., to have a set of teeth repaired, and gave as a reason for being particular about the work, that though she did not expect to live long, she desired to have her corps look as well as possible.

Dan Mace, the trainer of Mr. Bonner's Pocahontas, is authority for the statement that she can beat Lady Thorn, and match Dexter's time.

The Chinese had a comical method of carrying on their small manufactures—such for instance, as making slippers, which they produce in large quantities, as space is quite an item for consideration in their confined dwellings, they hoist themselves into slings suspended from the ceilings, or from the roofs of the galleries, and, with a little bench on their knees work contentedly enough at their respective avocations.

Gen. McClellan, is said to now receive salaries from various sources which make his income aggregate about, $50,000 a year.

About nine o'clock, the members of the Littlestown Orchestra, complimented the distinguished strangers, by a grand serenade on the portico of the Yantis House, which was responded to by the Hon. John Ritchie, in a very appropriate speech, suitable to the occasion, in which he clearly set forth the advantages that would accrue to our community upon the completion of the road now in progress. The remarks of the distinguished orator were highly appreciated by all present, as was evident from the repeated cheers which greeted him throughout his entire speech.—This morning the entire party took a special train and paid our neighboring town, Hanover, a flying visit, returning about eight o'clock. How the People are Robbed.

Mr. Seward has started on a trip round the world He is accompanied by his son and wife, Messrs. Keim, Randall, and other gentlemen and ladies The expedition will be mainly at the expense of the tax-payers of the country—the President having given a number of the party sinecure offices and wild-goose, chase appointments, with big salaries These appointments and salaries are given for purpose of paying the expenses of the expedition.

Keim is to have $5000 a year in gold. The party will be out a little over a year, and, consequently, he, or rather the party, as the "salary" is not designed for Keim, but to pay the expenses of the expedition, will be entitled to two years's salary.

Young Seward goes as "Consul General to China." There is no such office under the law, nor is there any need or authority for such an appointment any more than there is for that of Keim, which is also without necessity or law.

Thus are the people bespoiled of their money, robbed we may say, and thus does Grant and his administration, impose burthens upon the people. Such an administration deserves praying for; and on failure of amendment, to be impeached and sent to the Dry Tortugas—also at the people's expense.

The New York Times has spoken out land, awful loud, in Grant's meeting, and it thus flays Grant's pet organs, controlled by Forney:—

"What is about to happen when Mr. Forney's two papers begin to talk of 'renewed Southern outrages,' all of us know. The sign is understood everywhere. There is a purpose which may be interpreted without prophetic aid. Some scheme for promoting personal ambition or factious greed to be presented to Congress or the President. Some plan is contemplated for carrying an election against the will of the people, or for perpetuating an authority that cannot withstand the free exercise of the ballot. Then the Kuklux reappear, and murders and outrages multiply at a rate which only vivid imaginations can explain. Of this startling intelligence the Washington Chronicle and the Philadelphia Press have a monopoly; they are without a rival in that line of the newspaper business. And they are preparing now for fresh manifestation of their peculiar skill. They would have us believe that the defeat in North Carolina might have been prevented had there been more bayonets at the ballot-box; and they so describe events in others States as to suggest the necessity for military appliances to make sure of Republican victories. They ask us to rely more upon the bullet, and less upon the ballot."

Pass the above round in the Democratic papers—it is a good thunder for this fall's campaign It is a confession of judgment on the part of one of the ablest Mongrel organs.

A sagacious cotemporary, speaking of the rejection of Senator Revels from a Louisville street car the other day, adds that, by way of punishment for such indignity to this Senatorial nigger, Congress should throw the whole street car company into prison, and put the mules on a short allowance of oats.

The Radicals have amended the constitution so as to allow a negro to become President, but they have been very careful not to meddle with the provision which excludes a naturalized citizen from the enjoyment of that honor.

A Western editor, in announcing the demise of his paper, says: The brilliancy of our career has only been equalled by its brevity, and the lack of business management has only been excelled by the lack of business itself."

Philip S. Ball, The Radical Treasurer of Christian county, Mo., has absconded with various county funds, estimated in amount as high as $5,000.

The Prussians outnumbered the French in disciplined troops at the commencement of the present war in the proportion of nearly two to one.

Judge Marshall was renominated for Congress at the democratic convention of the eleventh congressional district of Illinois, on the 17th instant.

The man who married three sisters in succession excused himself for so doing on the ground that he got off with only one mother-in-law.

Look at the Record!

Three Hundred and Forty Defaulting Collectors.

We suggested that the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee have one hundred thousand copies of Executive Document No. 267 printed and circulated as the means of opening the eyes of those who are blind to the enormities and corruptions of the present administration. This document is the reply of Secretary Boutwell to a resolution passed by the House of Representatives on the 21st of March last, requesting that officer to furnish the House a statement of balances due from Collectors of Internal Revenue, &c. It contains eight solid pages of the names of defaulting collectors, in all three hundred and forty names. Every one is a Radical and belongs either to the sort which Congress kept in office by the Tenure of Office Bill, under Johnson's administration, or to that peculiar class of Gen. Grant's favorites, the worthies who presented His Excellency with corner-lots, brown-stone houses, fast horses, terrier pups and cigars of rare brands. Ten of these defaulting collectors have stolen from the government $5,933,113. Nearly six millions of dollars of the people's taxes have been deliberately fobbed by these unanointed rascals, whilst the remaining three hundred and thirty did not dip quite so deep into "Uncle Sam's strong box," but carried off enough to make them comfortable for life. Not one of these defaulters has been prosecuted, but all are permitted to enjoy their ill-gotten gain in undisturbed security. A few civil suits have been brought, but not a single criminal prosecution. And this is the honest, economical and impartial administration of the government, which we were to have under U. S. Grant. The "Forty Thieves" of the Arabian Nights had their Sesame, but the magic word of the Three Hundred and Forty who have despoiled the government, is Loyalty. It would be disloyal to touch a hair of their sacred heads. Only the "trooly loil" may approach them. Let the reader obtain a copy of Executive Document No. 267, and verify for himself what is here set down.—Bedford Gazette.

"The Carpet-Bag Governments are Breaking Up," so says the New York Sun, a Radical newspaper. In commenting on this text the same paper remarks:

"The fruits of the carpet-bag reign of the last five years are what might have been expected. The world may be searched in vain for governments so immoral, so shamelessly corrupt, so hopelessly rotten, as those now prevailing in the South. Politically they may be changed; but this cannot cure one of the sorest of the evils already inflicted. These scamps have run the States they rule ruinously in debt. The Legislatures controlled by them have pledged the States to the discharge of pecuniary obligations of crushing weight, to the future redemption of an enormous amount of bonds, and to the imposition of onerous taxes through a series of years. This has been done in furtherance of all sorts of schemes whereby the authors reap present wealth and anticipate larger gains in the future. These burdens have already seriously embarrassed all of these States, and well nigh bankrupted some of them; and to save them from ruin, the reign of the carpet-bag robbers must be speedily brought to an end."

OUR POPULATION.—General Walker, Superintendent of the Census, estimates the population of the country to be 41,300,000. He says the large cities will fall twenty per cent. below the estimates placed upon their population for the reason that all estimates are based upon calculations made of the number who have come into the city, but no note is taken of the number that has left. The Chicagoans are much disappointed over their figures, showing but 250,000, when they expected 400,000, but it is the same with Cincinnati, where they expected over 300,000, and have but barely 200,000. It is so in all the Western cities and to a larger extent in the Eastern cities. He says that the number of houses unoccupied in the large cities is almost fabulous, and is a proof of the great number emigrating West and South.

From the number of night gowns Miss Blanche Butler procured as a part her wedding trosseau, she must have supposed that marriage was an eternal sleep.—Courier Journal.

What Does Reason Say?

The little mongoose when bitten by a deadly serpent resorts to a certain plant, eats of it, and escapes the effect of the poison. That is instinct. Human beings on the other hand, must depend on reason and experience in selecting the means of protecting health and life against unwholesome influences Now, what does reason say on this vital subject? Does it not tell us that to invigorate and purify the system is the best way to protect it against the invisible poison which generates disease? Surely it does. The next question is, what guide shall we follow in choosing a medicinal safeguard? Reason replies let your monitor be experience. Well, the experience of eighteen years comprised in one unbroken series of satisfactory testimonials assures us that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters possess strengthening, regulating and antiseptic properties which are not combined in the same happy proportions in any other preparation extant. This therefore is the antidote to which reason bids us resort when our health is imperilled either by the malaria which produces epidemic disorders, or by any other cause, whether inherent and constitutional or connected with our habits, occupations and pursuits.

The venom of a noxious reptile is scarcely more subtle and dangerous than that which lurks in foul air and impure water. To escape the fevers, bilious disorders, disturbances of the bowels, and other serious maladies produced by these insalubrious elements, it is absolutely necessary that the stomach and all the secretive organs should be, so to speak, in robust condition. Upon the amount of resistance which the vital system can oppose to the deleterious influences that assail it, the safety of the health depends, and it is because the GREAT VEGETABLE INVIGORANT imparts energy and regularity to the most important functions of the body, that it can be recommended and guaranteed as an invaluable preventive medicine.
