When the male and female flappers set the woodlands afire by their careless smoking habits, might be well to let them go out and saw and split up the wood they have damaged.

Driving a lawn mower is said to be a highly exhilarating sport, but the boys don't seem able to see it.

GREENMOUNT

Last Saturday night a number of the young ladies of the Greenmount church met, Mrs. Kate Caltrider, the president of the local Woman's Missionary Society and Mrs. Markley, of Baltimore, who is the leader for the Baltimore district, and organized an Otterbein Guild. This is a missionary organization for the young people of the church; about 18 of the girls joined. It is expected that they will put on an interesting program to interest all the folks in the great missionary work of the church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the church met in the social room of the church last Thursday night. An interesting program was provided by the entertaining committee. The committee also served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Grogg, of State Line; Mrs. Jemima Shaffer, of Linedoro; Mrs. Ida Stansbury and Mrs. Laura Stansbury, of this place; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grogg and daughter, Madeline, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bollinger, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Zimmerman, Ivan Zimmerman, Buddy Zimmerman and Miss Addie Harris, of York, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Polster, of Sykesville hospital, all visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Grogg over the week-end.

Charles Mahaley, Jr., of Baltimore, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mahaley, Sr.

Mrs. Malinda Horich, is spending a few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Lauer, of Alesia.

Last Friday night an interesting surprise was given to Mr. N. V. Hoffacker, the superintendent of the Greenmount Sunday school. Long ago some of the folks suggested that when Mr. Hoffacker's birthday comes around the Sunday school should give him a surprise, and it was a real surprise to him. He went to Hampstead to direct the band as usual and after waiting for quite awhile and finding no one there to practice, Mr. Wheeler suggested that they go back to Greenmount and join in choir rehearsal. When they arrived at the church he was surprised to find something more than usual going on. Mr. Thomas Wheeler escorted Mr. Hoffacker down the aisle of the church in the midst of the enthusiastic applauding of those who were present. Looking around he noticed the band members all ready to play in the Sunday school room. He was then reminded that his birthday was at hand and that a program had been prepared for the occasion. A program consisting of several selections by the band, singing by the young people's chorus and the men's chorus, with an address by the pastor was given. After the program everybody was invited into the social room of the church where refreshments were provided for the occasion. The Ever Ready class made the arrangements for the evening.

Miss Fern Miller, Millers, spent last Saturday at the home of her sister, Mrs. L. S. Wentz.

PLEASANT VALLEY

The beautiful weather on Saturday brought out a large crowd of people at the Decoration and Memorial services. The parade was the largest in many years. At the cemetery a very impressive program was rendered. A large flag that was formerly owned by the late James M. Stoner, of Westminster, was presented to Camp No. 7, Pleasant Valley by the Stoner family, and is highly appreciated by the members of the order. Its beautiful stars and stripes which are so dear to us all, are now waving over the new P. O. S. of A. hall. The program was as follows: Singing, "America;' salute—taps; music by the P. O. S. of A. band; prayer, Rev. J. W. Reinecke; exercise, "The Cross And The Flag;" presentation of the flag, by the Rev. Reinecke; accepted by the president of camp, Paul Leister; male chorus; recitation, "Sleep, Soldier, Sleep," Margaret Steele; pantomime, "Abide With Me," sung by Elva Myers; motions by eight of the high school girls; male quartet, benediction, the Rev. Reinecke.

An unusually large crowd of people attended the festival here on Saturday evening. The cake committee received about forty large cakes, which were disposed of in cake walks and sold otherwise, which brought them in return a nice sum of money. The K. K. K. burned a large cross which created an excitement for a short time. Good behavior prevailed throughout the evening, and excellent music was furnished by the P. O. S. of A. band. Many thanks to all who helped to make it a success, and we hope we may have even greater success in the years to come.

Miss Mary Anne Geiman is spending this week in Baltimore, and attended the wedding of her pastor, the Rev. J. W. Reinecke, and Mrs. Shower, on Wednesday evening, June 2.

Mrs. J. Elmer Myers and daughter Anna, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Cross and Miss Mae Leatherwood motored to Berkley Springs, West Virginia, where they spent the week-end among relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Zepp, Hanover, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Zepp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hoover and daughter, Littlestown, spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Clingan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grob, Hanover, spent Saturday evening and Sunday with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Heltibridle and son Richard, York, spent Sunday evening and Monday at the home of Oliver L. Heltibridle, near Mayberry.

Miss Ruthetta Wantz, Hanover, spent the week-end with relatives here.

Mr. Raymond L. Hahn spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Hahn.

Mr. and Mrs. George Helwig, Hanover, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Luther Helwig over Sunday.

Visitors over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckard were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Mathias and family, Littlestown; Mr. and Mrs. George F. Heltibridle, and daughter Betty Jean, Northern Carroll, and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Eckard, Hanover.

Mr. Paul Brown has purchased a new touring car.

Mrs. Mary Bittle was given a birthday surprise on Monday evening by her children at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Geiman. A very pleasant evening was spent. Refreshments were served to all.

Gramma Leister who had been so ill, is slowly recovering.

The last monthly Parent-Teacher meeting for this school year was held on Monday night with a large attendance. The "Mother Goose" play which was given by the first and second grade pupils was very good, and the teacher, Miss Mae Powell deserves great praise for the manner in which all children rendered their parts. The officers were elected for another year as follows: President, William A. Myers; vice-president, A. Daniel Leister; second vice-president, Mrs. Vernon Smith; secretary, Mrs. Chas. Geiman, and Mr. Herbert Petry; treasurer, C. Tobias Yingling.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Brown and son Keith, Northern Carroll, spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Archie F. Myers.

Mr. Upton E. Myers is on the sick list at present, but we hope he may soon be out again.

The Misses Elva Myers, Madeline Myers and Mary Catherine Petry have employment at the Newark shoe factory, Westminster.

Sunday school at 9 o'clock; sermon at 10 by the Rev. A. G. Wolf. There will be no services here in the evening, as the Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Katie Hively, Frizellburg. We will meet at the church promptly at 7 o'clock and will go in a body.

POULTRY

GOOD SUGGESTIONS FOR WINTER LAYER

The successful poultryman knows that the winter eggs are the profitable eggs. He knows, too, that to secure a constant supply of eggs during winter the laying hens must be kept comfortable. The condition of the poultry house at this season is therefore of great importance.

"A hen that uses up the food given her to keep her body warm cannot be expected to lay many high-priced eggs," says Prof. D. S. Weaver of the department of agricultural engineering at the North Carolina State college. "We should look to the condition of the poultry house and see that there is plenty of litter on the floor; that the walls are tight to prevent drafts and that we have windows to admit light and air. These are requisite for heavy production of winter eggs."

Professor Weaver states that the windows should open on the south side of the house and should be equipped with curtains so that they might be raised during the day to admit sunlight and air and closed at night to keep out the cold.

Longer working days for the hens may be secured by installing electric lights, states Professor Weaver. An automatic switch may be used to turn on the lights before daylight in the morning and after sundown in the afternoon. Such a switch will save lots of trouble and add to the egg production when the proper amount of good feed is supplied.

"Nor should we forget that hens like plenty of water in winter," says Professor Weaver. "This water should be ice cold but fresh and pure each day."

Preventive Measure in Dealing With Diseases

Several years ago sheep producers of the corn belt became convinced that if they were to grow sheep profitably they must rotate their pastures in order to prevent worms from injuring their flock. In more recent years the hog producers have adopted a similar plan in order to avoid many of the diseases that cause loss. At present poultry producers are beginning to realize that many of the diseases that are causing heavy flock losses can be prevented by following plans similar to those adopted by sheep and hog men.

Most heavy poultry losses can be traced to the fact that the birds are raised on the same ground year after year without paying attention to the prevention of worm infestation or disease infection.

Dr. Charles Murray, Iowa State college, who inspects the sick poultry sent to Ames by Iowa farmers, is responsible for the statement that coccidiosis is the cause of a large percentage of the loss among young chickens, especially among those that are over two weeks of age. In outlining the trouble, Doctor Murray lays particular emphasis on the need of preventive measures in dealing with the disease.

In all poultry diseases prevention is the best cure. Birds are small and difficult to treat individually.

Prevent All Drafts in the Incubator Cellar

To get a good batch of strong chicks it is essential to have the incubator in the right kind of a room properly ventilated, advises the poultry department of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station. A room that will hold an even temperature of 60 to 70 degrees is as important as having an incubator that will hold a temperature of 103 degrees.

If an incubator cellar is used, it should be large enough to provide for the future expansion of incubator capacity. A ceiling eight feet in height is preferred, as it permits a layer of air to circulate over the machine and provides room for the expansion tank and other fixtures found on most incubators. The length and width of the cellar, of course, will depend on the size of the incubator to be used and the number of machines to be placed side by side. As a rule, an inside width of 12 feet is ample for a single machine and 23 feet if two machines are placed side by side. Have windows (three-light cellar sash) on each side. Place them approximately eight feet apart if the building or room is 20 feet wide, and ten feet apart if it is feet wide.

While the incubator cellar is commonly ventilated by opening the windows, this method has serious objections. It is rapidly being replaced by the indirect method which provides plenty of fresh air at all times without drafts.

Overlook Value of Milk

The value of sour milk and buttermilk is often overlooked on the farm. Many times this is thrown into the hogs or fed to the pigs when it might much better be given to the laying hens. It provides protein for the production of eggs and assists in maintaining the birds in a healthy condition. When the mash is mixed with milk, or when the birds receive all the milk they will drink the meat meal may be decreased about one third.
