The Republican Citizen.

Frederick City, Md.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1870.

J. W. Baughman, Editor and Publisher

WHERE WERE THE POLICE?—We are induced to ask this question in consequence of the bad behavior attending the colored ball which took place at the Coppersmith Building last Monday night. The conduct of some of them was outrageous, and so annoyed those living in the vicinity that it was impossible to sleep. Where were the police while this was going on? There is dereliction of duty somewhere, and we call upon the Mayor to investigate the matter, and bringing the disturbers of the peace to justice, as well as those whose duty it was to prevent it, but who did not.

We copy the above paragraph from the last Examiner. It deserves some notice.—We know nothing and have heard nothing of the "outrageous conduct" of the persons attending the "colored ball," save the information furnished by the negro organ, as above.—Now we do know, that during the last summer, people "living in the vicinity" of the Coppersmith Hall were greatly "annoyed" by the "outrageous conduct" of colored people, who, for weeks assembled in large numbers at this same Hall, night after night, and kept up a tremendous shouting and noisy "marching around," till after midnight. On several such occasions we heard the police on the corners, with other citizens, denouncing the nuisance; but they deemed it best not to interfere, knowing that the leaders of the radical party would be but too glad of an opportunity to charge them with being prompted in their action by "hatred of the negro." In those days it was all right for the colored people to disturb the quiet of the neighborhood by their orgies; for, it was expected that their votes would help the radicals to elect J. E. Smith to a seat in Congress. It would not have been well for the Examiner then, to have asked, "Where were the Police!" It mattered not then, that it was "impossible for those living in the vicinity to sleep," and the Examiner considered it better for white people to be "annoyed" and deprived of their sleep, than that Sambo and Dinah should be restrained in their "outrageous conduct." But the election is now over, and the negro having proved "an element of weakness instead of strength" to the republican faction, this consistent journal has no notion that white folks should be any longer "annoyed" and robbed of their desired repose by the boisterous merry-making of free Americans of African descent.

So, now, we caution these "colored" people to be more orderly in their assemblies in the future, for they must remember that when the Examiner calls upon the Police next time, to punish them for their "outrageous conduct" that it may go hard with them.

CONGRESS.

The two houses of the last session of the 41st Congress will assemble at the National Capitol on Monday next. The session will expire on the 4th of March, next, when the new Congress will assemble, unless the law providing therefor should be repealed during the session which commences on Monday.

As both houses of the present Congress are fully organized, we need anticipate no delay in the receipt of the President's Message, which supposing a quorum to be present in each house, will no doubt, be delivered on the first day of the session.

As the more sensible portion of the Radical journals have ridiculed squint-eyed Butler's scheme for getting up a war with England, in order to infuse new life into collapsing radicalism, it is not to pe supposed that Grant will attempt to create a sensation on that line, and, hence, little or no interest is likely to be executed in political circles by anything which the horse-and-dog-fancier of the White House, may say in his forthcoming Message.

Having, on two occasions, visited our Agricultural Fair, acted as one of the judges in our horse races, and having been hospitably entertained in Frederick, it is not unreasonable to expect that our illustrious President will put in his message a handsome paragraph about Agricultural Fairs in general, and something specially complimentary in regard to our Frederick County Fair.

We hope his excellency will, also, give us his candid views in regard to the significance of the fall elections and discuss, in the light of the election returns, the expediency of sending large bodies of armed troops to intimidate freemen at the ballot box.—But we shall read whatever our statesman President may have to say on any and all topics with whatever reverence and respect we may be able to summon to the task.

LADIES FAIR.—It is announced that the ladies of the Lutheran Church in this city are making the necessary preparations for a Fair which will commence at Junior Hall on Monday next and continue throughout the week. The proceeds will be expended in the purchase of an organ for the use of the church.

The Missouri House of Representatives comprises 130 members. Of these, the Radical party in that State have actually succeeded in electing seventeen! So much for "Grant's relations" to Missouri politics!

STILL ANOTHER NEW PARTY.—Some one out West proposes to get up, in addition to the new party of revenue reformers, one to be designated "reverend reformers," with a lager beer platform and Rev. J. D. Fulton, of Boston, and Theodore Tilton, of the Independent as bottle holders.

Near Saratoga, a horse, aged 33 years died, the other day, in the service of owners who had worked him faithfully since he was four years old. This old horse, as well as one aged 43 years, belonging to the same family, had turned from a bay to a silver gray.

A large property in Scotland has lately fallen to Mrs. General Williams, formerly wife of Senator Douglas.

Trip of Inspection over the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

Having received a cordial invitation from Hon. J. C. Clarke, President of the Canal Company, to accompany the Directors in a tour of inspection over the line of that great work, from Cumberland to Georgetown, we left this city on the evening of the 21st ult., by the 5½ o'clock train, in company with Dr. W. S. McPherson, one of the directors, Hon. J. A. Ritter, Thos. M. Wolfe and the editor of the Union, for the point of departure. At Weaverton President Clarke joined our party; and we all arrived safely in Cumberland at about 11 o'clock, p. m., and registered at the Revere House. Although the hour was late, John R. Cruzen, purveyor for the excurtionists, was on hand, and in a short time had an excellent supper ready for our party at HIS FIRST-CLASS RESTAURANT, near the Hotel.—After supper we returned to comfortable rooms at the Revere House, and were refreshed by "nature's sweet restorer." After breakfast next morning, we visited Lowdermilk of the Civilian office, to see how he stood the defeat of his friend Smith, and found him perfectly "calm and serene." We learned from the Colonel, that he had been invited by President Clarke to go on the trip of inspection, but was compelled to deny himself the pleasure in consequence of the absence of his chief clerk in the post office. And, here it is proper to remark, that we were subsequently informed, that the editor of the Hagerstown Herald and Torch, and the editor of the Examiner, were also invited to join in the trip. We make no comment on their declination.

About noon, on Tuesday, all being ready, Capt. Mulvaney at the helm as pilot, and Cruzen as caterer—with his larder full—the packet boat Washington, left her moorings and glided gracefully out of port on her voyage down the "raging canawl." There were on board, in addition to the gentleman already mentioned, Col. Spates, former President of the Canal; Horace Resly, Clerk of Allegany county; Elijah Fuller, Register of Wills; Wm. McCulley, County Commissioner; Isaac Young, of Montgomery county and Wm. Dodge, of Washington county, directors; and Dr. McKaig, of Cumberland.—It could be seen, at once, from the cheerful, smiling faces of the whole party, that a pleasant time was anticipated.

Having given a full description of the scenery and chief objects of interest—culverts, aqueducts, tunnels, locks, dams, distances from point to point, and so forth, on the line of the canal, on the occasion of a similar trip of inspection, about a year ago, we do not deem a repetition of this necessary at this time.

Making with our splendid mule team a little over three miles an hour, including delays, to enable the Committee on construction and repairs to examine locks, aqueducts, &c., the "Washington" reached Orleans about dark, and fastened up for the night. At this point Mr. McCulley left the boat and returned to his home in the neighborhood.

The next day the Packet made a good run, and reached Hancock about 9 o'clock, p. m. The next morning Ex-President Snively, Coudy, Broderick, and Murray, well known citizens of Hancock, came on board and spent an half hour or so in friendly chat, with the voyagers; and, here Messrs. Resley and Fuller, who with songs, and anecdotes, had almost killed some of our party with laughter, (especially Fuller, who is inexhaustible) left us, to the regret of the through passengers, and returned to Cumberland by rail. Our loss, however, was fully repaired during the day, some miles further on, by the arrival of Mr. Henry Dodge, of Georgetown, and Mr. Waters, of St. Mary's county, most amiable and courteous gentlemen; and at Dam No. 5, Col. A. K. Stake, who can tell more yarns, and sing more songs than any man in North America—and Capt. Geo. F. Heyser, president of the Washington county Agricultural Society, whose cellars are always full of the choicest native wines, of his own manufacture, and a most courteous and genial gentleman, also joined the party. This being Thanksgiving day, Cruzen, our unrivaled caterer, gave us a dinner which President Grant would have done ample justice to had he been present. At about 5 o'clock P. M., we reached Williamsport, and tied up for the night.—Our first visitors at this point, were Mrs. J. C. Clarke and Mrs. Stanhope, and Mr. Stanhope, who drove over from Hagerstown to see the Washington and cheer her passengers on their voyage. This visit was as gratifying as it was unexpected. The ladies having returned to their carriage, in a short time a number of prominent gentlemen, residents of Williamsport, came on board, and at a later hour the splendid string band of the town regaled the party with several of their choice selections. All on board were impressed with the musical talent displayed by the band. Of course the band was invited on board; and, toasts being drank to the president of the Canal Company, an hour or two was spent in speech-making, during which time president Clarke, ex-president Spates, Maj. H. K. Douglas, Wm. P. Maulsby, Jr., Dr. McPherson, Wm. Dodge, Esq., and others made brief and pertinent remarks.—Our visitors having departed, at a rather late hour the passengers retired to their berths and sought repose.

Friday evening the Washington reached Shepherdstown, about dark, and anchored for the night. It was soon determined to visit Shepherdstown, and some eight or ten of the party—notwithstanding the heavy shower of rain then falling—were quickly at the ferry shouting for the boat to pass us over the Potomac "to old Virginia's shore."—In due time the party were safely landed on the opposite side, and surmounting difficulties encountered in the darkness of the night, and the rush of waters, we reached Entler's Hotel. All this we endured to testify our gratification at the political regeneration and disenthralment of the white men of West Virginia.—Entler is a prince of good fellows, and, it may be said in very truth, knows how to keep a hotel. The party was at once invited into the parlor, and as a preventive to taking cold, Entler speedily produced a pitcher of smoking hot whiskey punch.—The Hon. A. R. Boteler, hearing of our presence, honored us with a visit, in spite of the storm, and entertained us for some time with his charming conversation. We finally returned to the Washington and were good humoredly laughed at by those who remained on board, not having been sufficiently patriotic themselves to venture out on such night as that. But we hung our hats and coats by the stove to dry, and said we were amply compensated by the consciousness that we had discharged a patriotic duty.

On Saturday at 2 o'clock, the Washington reached the Point of Rocks, and laid up till Monday. President Clarke, Dr. McPherson, Ritter, Cole and the writer, took the cars for Frederick. Business engagement prevented our resuming the trip on Monday. We may say that from the starting point to the Point of Rocks, the hours not devoted to sleep were spent in unalloyed and uninterrupted pleasure.

On Sunday a number of prominent gentlemen of Buckeystown district, dined on board of the Packet, with the President and Directors. On Monday we went to the Point to see the party off—at 12 noon the Washington weighed anchor, glided down the canal, and was soon lost to view with those on board—we alone of our Frederick friends remaining behind. We are quite sure the trip from the Point of Rocks to Georgetown was full of interest and pleasure to all the passengers.

Good Advice to the Negroes.

In the course of a speech made by Hon. C. L. Valandigham, at Dayton, Ohio, the night after the recent election in that State, he took occasion to address to the negroes present the following wholesome advice:

"And now allow me a word to our newly-made voters of African descent. I have no apoligies to make to-night for anything in opposition to them which I may have said in times past—nothing now to take back. My opinion upon the qustion of negro suffrage remains unchanged. [Loud applause.] But you have, in fact, at least been made citizens and voters, and I recognize the fact. Some of you speak of me as an enemy of your race. This is not correct. Individually, I have been your friend. I have taken you by the hand when your new white Republican friends shunned and cursed you. At my doors some of you have received that charity in years past, which was denied you at the hands of your abolition friends so-called. [Cries, 'That's so; we know it.'] No colored man ever asked a personal favor of me for years past, and was denied; and as well before you had suffrage conferred upon you as now, I would have protected you in court or against a mob quite as willingly and as earnestly as any other man. But my opinions as to the question of conferring political rights upon you in this country were honestly entertained, and candidly and strongly expressed. Yet, if you shall prove yourselves worthy of these rights and capable of exercising them as good citizens, I will, then, very cheerfully, and in a manlike manner, confess myself mistaken. Your future is in your own hands. But remember that you do not hold the balance of power in this county, nor in this district. [Loud cheers] You cannot control things by your votes. Numbering several hundred voters here, you are yet rather a source of weakness than of strength to the Republican party. And you owe nothing to that party, except the mere right to try the experiment of suffrage. They did not confer it upon you for your sakes but for their own, as partisans and demagogues. [Loud cheers.] They wanted your votes to put themselves into office and keep themselves in power. Beyond this they care nothing for you. [Cries of 'that's so, you're right.'] The mass of you were personal slaves or the descendants of slaves in the South before and during the war. At the point of the bayonet they freed you, only now to make you, if you submit, political slaves for their own profit and advancement. And now I, who owe you nothing, and to whom you owe less than nothing politically, warn you not to organize as a colored party. Beware of threatening or attempting to make all of your own race act and vote as a distinct body. If you do, then be assured that sooner or later the white race will antagonize you as white men; and here we are as twenty to one. In a political struggle we can overwhelm you. In a contest of arms—in a war of races, if you provoke it—we can crush out and exterminate you. Wherefore be wise in time. The Irish do not vote in a body; neither do the Germans; nor the Americans born; and be assured that a 'negro party' will bring forth a 'white man's party.' And not long after will come violence and bloodshed; and Judge CRANE is dead, and General SCHENCK has now neither law office nor house in this city or district where you can find refuge. [Laughter.] If you would prove yourselves worthy to be and remain citizens, separate, divide politically and otherwise, as other citizens do. Identify yourselves with the community in which you live. Refuse to be made the slaves and tools of demagogues; and when thus you shall have established your fitness for citizenship, no one will ever attempt to deprive you of its rights. Remember that I, who speak these words, owe you nothing, and you owe me nothing; but right or wrong, wisely or unwisely, you have been forced upon us as citizens, and I counsel you now as such. You may hearken to me or not, just as it may please you; but be assured that the time will come when you will say that I counseled you most wisely and well." [Loud cheers.]

Among other contests for seats in the next Congress, will be one from the Second South Carolina District. Bowen, white Radical, claims that he has been cheated out of his seat by De Large, Radical negro. Bowen asserts that the ballot-boxes were stuffed by black hands after the polls were closed; he will also show that DeLarge was disloyal during the war, and actively engaged in blockade-running. The case will furnish a pleasant commentary upon Radical honesty and decency in South Carolina.

The number of immigrants arrived in the United States for the last fifty-one years reaches 7,441,619. The largest number arrived in any one year was 427,833, in 1854. The next year, up to the latest dates, the number is 285,422.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fast Line will leave for Balt. at	5.45 A.M.
Mail Train for Baltimore at	2.00 P.M.
Express Train leaves for Balt. at	6.00 P.M.

WESTWARDLY,

Mail Train leave for Wheeling at	10.15 A.M.
Fast Line leave for Wheeling at	5.30 P.M.
Winchester Accom'n Train leave for Winchester at	6.30 P.M.

CONCERT.—A concert for Church purposes will be given in the Lutheran Church, in this city, on Tuesday evening next, by Philip Phillips, the so called "Singing Pilgrim" of New York. Mr. Phillips is quite distinguished as a singist, and will doubtless attract a large audience.

SALE OF SCHUETZEN PARK.—This imposing structure, to which there are twenty-eight acres of land attached, and located within the corporate limits, was sold at public sale on Saturday last, and knocked off to Capt. Joseph Groff, of this city, at $12,000.

SNOW.—The first snow of the season, in this vicinity, fell on Friday night last, but being accompanied by rain disappeared almost as fast as it fell. On the Catoctin mountains it reached a depth of two or three inches. The temperature since, has been spring-like. We are now in the first week in December, and it may be said, we have had as yet, no wintery weather.

RAILROAD IRON PURCHASED.—We learn from Capt. A. W. Eichelberger, the efficient and enterprising president of the Hanover Branch Railroad Company, and also one of the directors of the Frederick and Pennsylvania Line railroad, that the iron for the latter road has been purchased, and will, in all probability, be laid as far as Taneytown by the first of January.—Littlestown Press.

FINE PEN OF HOGS.—Mr. J. T. Best, living on Col. Trail's farm, near Monocacy Junction, butchered one day last week 39 hogs, the aggregate weight of which, when dressed, was 10.389 lbs. The largest weighed over 420 lbs., the smallest 186 lbs.—the whole averaging 266 lbs. It is doubted whether any farmer in the county has slaughtered this season, so large a pen of hogs averaging as many pounds. We tender our thanks to Mr. Best for a nice mess of pudding and sausage.

SUICIDE.—On Tuesday of last week a negro man aged about 28 years, formerly the property of Mr. V. H. Freaner, committed suicide by taking arsenic. It is supposed that family difficulties prompted the unfortunate man to the commission of the fatal act, which it appears he performed with great deliberation. He took the poison in the house without the knowledge of his family as to the nature of the potion he was drinking, and then laid down upon the floor, and finally when in an agony of pain enquired for Mr. Freaner, his former master, and shortly after expired before medical relief could be afforded.

IMMIGRANT CONVENTION IN BALTIMORE.—A convention to consider measures for the encouragement of immigration to Maryland is to assemble in Baltimore on the 13th of December. Each county in the State is expected to send representatives to the convention. The best mode of securing farm laborers will be the main question to be considered. Those of our farmers who feel an interest in this labor question, should make it a point to attend the convention. Reliable and efficient laborers is the great want of the day among farmers; and as that which was formerly available is now inconstant and unreliable, all interested should unite in a common effort to devise a remedy for the evils of the times.

We have visited with great satisfaction, several exhibitions of Professor Pratt, in training horses,—which takes place every afternoon and evening on "Market Space." By the superior system of the Professor, he exercises wonderful control over the horse in a very few moments, thus in a very short time breaking him of bad habits, which, according to the old system, would take weeks and months. We advise farmers, and all persons having horses or mules to deal with, to join the class of the Professor, which is now rapidly increasing, and be "masters of the situation." The Professor deals with kicking, and runaway horses, and horses having other bad habits, free of charge, and invites persons to bring them in.

CITY HOTEL BAR.—Our ever polite and obliging host of the City Hotel seems determined to keep up his reputation for having a first-class house. He has just added a new feature to his already attractive house, by the improvement of his large and splendidly furnished bar. The old side bar that has been an eye sore for so long, has been removed, the walls and ceiling painted white, the base frame walnut, etc., in Mobberley's best style, and will now compare, in appearance, with any bar in the State. Our friend "Reddy" still receives the just praise of all his customers for his efficiency in the art of "simple and mixed"—having at all times on hand the very best.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.—Col. Dechert, one of the enterprising editors of the Hagerstown Mail, in company with Capt. Samuel Grasty, general superintendent of the Richmond, Petersburg & Piedmont R. R., paid a flying visit to our city last week. Capt. Grasty was on the staff of the brave and dashing General Morgan, of the late Confederate army. He was captured and confined in Camp Chase, Ohio, and during several months of prison life he determined to effect his escape. After many fruitless efforts, he was assisted to mount the wall surrounding the prison camp, and with a pass written by himself, succeeded in passing every guard, and walked unmolested through a camp of eight thousand federal soldiers, stationed around the prison. Capt. Grasty was the only man out of the ten thousand Confederate prisoners confined at Camp Chase, who made his escape. Both of the above named gentlemen were guests of the hospitable proprietor of the City Hotel, and left heaping praises upon him as one who knows how to "keep a hotel."

HOME FOR ORPHANS.—It is understood that the "Wilson property" adjoining the German Reformed Church, in this city, recently purchased at Trustee's sale, by P. B. Kunkle, Esq., will be put in proper repair and used as a Home for Orphans, under the control and management of a Board of Trustees, selected by the consistry of the Reformed Church—consisting of the following gentleman: Rev. Dr. Zacharias, V. S. Brunner, Philip B. Kunkle, John H. Brunner, Chas. W. Haller, John T. Quynn and J. W. Birely. It is stated that a considerable sum, heretofore contributed by the children of the Sabbath School at their annual festivals, in behalf of this laudable charity, is in the hands of the Treasurer, and that with these means and on the faith of liberal contributions promised, the Trustees will proceed at once to make certain repairs deemed immediately important.

The Effect of Negro Suffrage in Maryland.

We happened to be in Baltimore last summer during the grand procession which was gotten up by the negroes and their white allies in honor of the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment. We saw carriage loads of white Radicals in line with the blacks; we heard Creswell spout and saw him sweat as he got off his elaborate sentences, and we read the jubilant editorial comments of the Baltimore American upon the dawn of the new political millenium. That newspaper insisted that the Democratic party would be shorne of power at the next election in Maryland. The election has taken place, and the result was an overwhelming defeat of the Radical party which has had the effect of opening the eyes of the American. It sees what caused the result and very candidly admits the truth. In a recent editorial it says:

"The prejudice which is entertained against the voting of the colored people contributed more to our defeat than all other causes combined. The negro has proven to be an element of weakness and not of strength, and it will take time to educate the masses up to an appreciation of the justice of his enfranchisement."

Yes, it will take a very long time to educate the people up to that point.—White men will never be able to overcome the very reasonable and proper prejudices which they entertain against negro equality. The Radicals have found out that the attempt to enforce the Fifteenth Amendment was a great political blunder, but they dare not retreat now. They must stand by what they have done, though ruin should come upon the party.—Lancaster Intelligencer.

It is proposed, we learn, by the Faculty of the Washington Lee College, to issue at an early day a memorial volume, in memory of General Robert E. Lee, which will be published with the concurrence and co-operation of General Lee's family. It will contain an authentic sketch of his life to the end of the late war; an account of his administration as President of Washington College; incidents, reminiscences, &c., illustrative of his character; an account of his death and funeral obsequies; selected eulogies, public resolutions and editorials, on the occasion of his death, with plans of memorials designed to be erected in honor of his memory.

The volume will be issued in a form appropriate to the object. Its contents will be drawn from original and authentic sources, a large portion being prepared under the immediate supervision of General Lee's own family. The proceeds of its sale will be devoted to the erection of a worthy monument to his memory, at the scene of his last labors.

Contributions to the volume, in the form of incidents or reminiscences, and memorials of every kind, are solicited, and will be faithfully used.

ENTICING AWAY OTHER PEOPLE'S HUSBANDS.—It has just been decided by the Superior Court, in Cincinnati, that a wife has a vested right in her husband's society and companionship, and can maintain an action for damages for the loss thereof. It appears that the husband had an adopted daughter who was married, and gradually he absented himsel from his own house until, at last, he resided permanently with those people. The wife brought suit against her husband and the other two for damages for the loss of his company and society. Upon demurrer the court ruled that the action would not lie as against her husband, but her right of action against those who drew away and harbored her husband was indisputable. Persons will, therefore, take notice that if they harbor husbands they are liable to the wives for damages.

A MODERN DUCK TRAP.—A friend residing on Deal's Island, Somerst county, furnishes us a very strange duck story, which, by the way is the solid truth. Some days ago, as a gentleman was sailing quietly over the placid waters that surround the island, he discovered a wild duck, with his head under the water, flapping his wings in a frantic manner. Thinking this to be an unusnal position for this timid fowl, he turned his prow in the direction of the duck, and very soon overhauled it. The duck was taken out of the water with a large oyster fastened to his bill. We have heard of coons being entrapped by oysters, and we have heard that Raccoon Point took its name from this circumstance. but surely this Deal's Island duck was the first ever caught by an oyster.—Princess Anne Herald.

THE CONTEST IN 1872.—In concluding a long article on the probable result of the Presidential election in 1872, the New York "Herald" says:

The outlook to-day is with the Democracy. New York has advanced, strengthened, disciplined, regenerated the party. As New York goes so will go the Union; and unless the influences which have led to this consumation, through so many dangers and trials and disapointments, are checked by similar action on the part of General Grant and his friends, it is not difficult to see a Democratic victory in 1872, as decided as that which made Mr. Buchanan President in 1856.

EDITORS IN LEGISLATIVE BODIES.—The New York Express says: It is recorded as a wonderful fact, in many country journals, that four editors have been sent to Congress from this city. Editors are not such novelties in Congress as to give good excuse for that kind of paragraphing. A very large number of M. C.'s are either editors and publishers now, or have been. Journalism is probably more largely represented in American legislative bodies, by writers, printers and newspaper owners, than even the legal profession, which in earlier days used to have the lions share of the seats.

SHEEP VS. BRIARS AND WEEDS.—Almost every farmer, at least in the old States, finds some part of his land infested with bushes and briars, which seem to flourish by cutting, if he finds time to cut them, and which the ruggedness of his soil precludes his exterminating by the plough. In every such case sheep are his natural allies, his unpaid police—his vigilant and thorough-going assistants. Give them an even start in spring with the bushes and briars; let their number be sufficient, and they are sure to come out ahead in the fall.

Hon. Charles J. Faulkner is among many others named for United States Senator for West Virginia.

PIANO, PIANO, PIANO,
AT PUBLIC AUCTION

One of STIEFF'S Seven-Octavo Carved Pianos (a premium Piano), made to order at a cost of $550, must be sold within 10 days, at a great sacrifice. If not sold sooner at private sale, it will be sold at public auction on WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 14TH, 1870, at 10 o'clock a. m., at Mrs. Mary Waters, south side of East Patrick St. The Piano is overstrung and full iron frame—has all improvements. The owner has no further use for it.

TERMS OF SALE:—One-third cash, balance in four months, with approved security, or all cash if desired.

Mr. Brooks will take pleasure in showing it.

Grant's Portrait.

The New York Evening Post, a Radical organ in good standing, edited by the veteran Wm. Cullen Bryant, says: "The people are disgusted with General Grant's subserviency to notorious hack politicians, monopolists and political traders of all kinds; they see with jealousy his open interference with elections at the dictation of these persons, and with disgust, his support of men notoriously unfit for public trust, etc., etc."

We do hope that the Radical organs will stop their abuse of Grant. If they don't, he will be knocking for admission ere long at the door of the Democratic party. Our organization is possessed of inexhaustable vitality, but we fear that Grant's accession would kill it sure.

TOO BAD.—Two gentlemen in New York City have recently proposed to make contributions for the purpose of presenting to President Grant, General Sherman and General McClellan, a set of mathematical instruments and a library worth $75,000.

Thereupon, the New York Evening Post maliciously hints that Grant would not know what to do with the books, except to sell them to a second-hand dealer, and suggests that it would be far more agreeable to him to receive the $75,000 in cash.

CAUTION.

Certain parties are now offering for sale as the Original and Genuine

HOWE SEWING MACHINE,

a Counterfeit and inferior article, and are thus availing themselves of the world-wide reputation, which the Howe Machine by its excellence, has attained. Take no Agent's word for it that a Machine is a genuine Howe, unless it bears the trade mark, which the Company adopted a few years ago—the Medallion of Elias Howe—embedded in every Howe Machine. Without it none are genuine. THOMAS & SNYDER, Agents.
