The Empress Josephine and her Mother's Ring.

The Empress Josephine, one of the most amiable and graceful women that ever existed, passed more than a year at Sainte Pelagie and Luxemburg. She became the wife of Napoleon I. on the 8th of March, 1796. Their first residence, after he was promoted to the Consulship, was the little Luxemburg It is related of her that one morning there was a stronger charm of her grace, beauty, and innocent coquetry about her than usual, the object being to induce the First Consul to visit the cell which she formerly occupied at the Luxemburg Bonaparte elt no pleasure at the proposal, but will he, nil he, there was but one thing to be done—obey.

When they arrived at the poor chamber, Josephine seemed much affected. She went to a corner, knelt down, and endeavored to loosen a flag. "Lend me your sword, my friend," she said to her husband, and with its aid she lifted the little flag. She then began to search in the dust underneath, and the next moment she uttered a cry of joy, and held up a ring toward Napoleon. He all inquisitiveness about it, soon learned that it had been given to her by her mother. When she learned that she was to be removed from the prison, she was uncertain whether she was to be executed or not, and so had buried the dear keep-sake, that it might not be profaned by the hands of the executioner.—Dublin University Magazine.

Among the features at the recent Fair in Georgia was a cooking match, in which young women were the competitors. Miss Black, a girl aged only fifteen years, took the premium for the best cooked dinner of twelve dishes.

We raise our editorial hat to Miss Black. She is "the girl of the period," and we earnestly commend her example to the lovely daughters of the Old Dominion—who know how to sing, dance, crochet, play upon the piano and make themselves generally charming, but few of whom know how to cook. Let our Agricultural Society make a note of this matter and offer their highest premium at the next Fair for the best "square meal" for the Executive Committee and members of the Press, cooked by a Virginia girl. We are looking carefully into our exchanges, expecting every day to see Miss Black's marriage recorded. The level-headed Lotharios of Georgia will never allow that girl to reach the age of 18 for the want of offers to do their cooking for them. She will "go off" like one of her most delicately embrowned hot cakes.—Winchester Times.

A NEGRO in Brown county, Ohio, indicted for burglary, was brought into Court and arraigned. After pleading not guilty, he was asked by the Court whether he had counsel. He said he had not, nor relatives, and his friends were scarce. The Judge, who is inclined to be waggish, asked him how he voted. He was a republican, he said, and had voted for Mr. John Smith.—The Judge then asked him if he would prefer a republican or democrat to defend him. The prisoner thereupon felt his wool, and cocking up one eye at the waggish Judge, replied: "Well, under the circumstances, Judge, I prefers a democratic lawyer." He was gratified.

The following is given as a truthful statement of the "subsequent proceedings" in a Michigan divorce case: "The wife chopped a good wagon to pieces, entirely ruining it; split open one hundred and fifty sap troughs, and burned up ten thousand shingles which her husband had made. The latter, not to be outdone, smashed up a stove and took off a trunk which the wife claims had money of hers in it, and she has now got him into jail on a charge of larceny, and is monarch of all she surveys, which at present isn't much."

The anthracite coal deposits of Pennsylvania underlie four hundred and seventy square miles of mountain and valley. More than forty million dollars have been absorbed in mining capital, about the same sum in canals, and seventy millions in railroads, constructed almost solely as a means of transportation for coal. Sixteen million tons were sent to market during the past year.—Scientific American.

"John," said a poverty-stricken man to his son, "I've made my will to-day." "Ah!" replied John, "you were liberal to me, no doubt." "Yes, John; I came down handsome. I've willed you the whole state of Virginia—to make a living in, with the privilege of going elsewhere if you can do better."

The other day in Buffalo an excited individual with a carpet-bag in one hand and an umbrella in the other, and a shawl hanging over his arm, accosted one of the street gamins with the question: "Say, Bub, which is the quickest way for me to go to the Erie Railroad depot?" "Run!" was the laconic response.

William P. Hickey, a druggist of the Marine Hospital in St. Louis, feeling unwell on Wednesday evening, mixed a dose of medicine for himself. For potassium he substituted by a mistake tartar emetic, and took it, from the effects of which he died.

Thomas H. Peblcs, Senator elect from Maury County, Tennessee, was shot and killed on Thursday, near Spring Hill, by L A. Pointer. The difficulty was of a private and personal character. Pointer acted in self-defense.

"Wife," said a broker, a few days since, "do you think I shall ever be worth half a million dollars?" "Ain't I worth that to you?" said the confiding spouse. "Y-e-s," said the other half; "but I can't put you out at interest."

A Body and Mind Disease.

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquillizing operation of Hostetter's Bitters is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened, and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with superadded force, as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and anti billious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of bile the secretion is soon brought within proper limits, and if the bileary organ is inert and torpid it is toned and regulated.—The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desired result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs and colds. The best safeguard against all diseases is bodily vigor, and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

PRINCE & CO.
Improved Patent Prize Medal
ORGANS AND MELODEONS,
Are still ahead of all others.
They have taken the first premium whenever exhibited in competition with others. Some Instruments have a very good tone when first manufactured, but keep them in constant use for five or six years and the tone will become harsh and unpleasant. This however, is not the case with Prince's Instruments of their make—ten years old—can now be shown with as good a tone as they had when first bought.
They also contain the following improvements: Automatic Swell, Divided Swell, Graduated Swell, Basso Tenuto, Manual Sub Bass. Read what Frank Leslie says in his Illustrated Newspaper of August 31st, 1867:
"G. A. PRINCE & Co's Automatic Organs and Melodeons are among the proudest triumphs of this musical age. It is estimated that there are over forty thousand of these excellent instruments now in use. It is also a remarkable fact that not one of this enormous number has ever been returned, a sure proof of their surpassing excellence. For the past six years the enormous sales has made it impossible to supply the demand promptly, and every year increases the number of orders. Their manufactory is in Buffalo, New York."
