NEW HEATING SYSTEM

When we returned to school after a snowy vacation, we found the school equipped with a modern oil heating system. The new radiation is considerably greater than that of the old, so Mr. Marvel, our janitor, should have an easier time keeping the school as comfortable as he did with the old plant.

SOPHOMORE RESOLUTIONS

A few of our students made New Year's resolutions. Our teacher also made a few but she wouldn't tell anyone what they were.

Among our students, Hop Norris resolved not to break his next doll. Doris Wyatt is going to let her finger nails grow for some unknown reason. Lois Southard resolved not to lose her temper, but this resolution was broken on January first. The "Three Musketeers," Jack Gardner, Joe Haspert and Charles Horney, resolved not to overtax their brains to such an extent as to give them headaches as they did last year. Calvert Jones resolved to make no resolutions. At least that one probably will not be broken.

PICTURES ARRIVE

Our pictures, taken in school about a month ago, arrived after school had closed for the Christmas season. Some of us secured them during the vacation from Mr. Stevens while the rest waited until school resumed. We are all quite satisfied with our portraits.

SOCIAL NEWS

Snow didn't keep everyone home during the holidays. Baltimore claimed most of the travelers. Those who visited the city were: Margaret Fleckenstein, Kathleen Tolson, Thelma Tull, Leonard Shaffer, Nancy Clark, Eloise Ewing, Emma K. Bullen, John Palmer, Mary Ruth Frampton, Lois Cockey, Billy Bunch, Richard Baxter, "Hop" Norris, Mary Legg, and Maudie Stevens.

Catherine Benton forgot her school day blues at the home of her friend, Rose Lane.

Carrie Della Hoxter had a pleasant time with her grandmother.

Billie Cockey had most of the youth of Stevensville piled in her sleigh during the holidays.

June Pierson enjoyed herself during a stay with Virginia Tolson.

Grace Radcliffe spent a naval Christmas at Annapolis.

MISS KAUFFMAN ILL

Our language teacher, Miss Kauffman did not return to school with the rest of us. We are sorry to say that she is ill. Today (Monday) we do not know when she will be able to return, but we all hope it will be very soon. (Now, Miss Kauffman, this is no way in which to start the New Year. We trust the rest of the year will be more pleasant for you).

WHEAT IN RUSSIA

It is said that Russia has harvested one of the largest wheat crops in the hisory of that nation. The crop is estimated at between 100,000,000 and 110,000,000 tons.

SENIOR NEWS
By Esther Downes, '36

In our P. O. D. class we are studying the topic "Obtaining Good Legislation". We are enjoying it very much because it deals with so many things that the individual should know concerning the workings of his government.

Due to the fact that Congress has just convened, it is a very timely topic which will help us to be more interested in the proposed and passed bills of the present Congress.

LOOK OUT FOR MUMPS!
By Lauretta Hall, '37

"Don't forget to gargle!" This was being cried out by many pupils last Monday when Bill Skinner was sent home with the mumps. It was brought out at assembly which was called after school.

Since there are many cases of the malady in and around town, let's not be one of the victims. Let's take all precautions possible to prevent its spread.

BARLEY INCREASES THREEFOLD

One of the most phenomenal changes that has occurred in Maryland during the last five years is the increase in acreage and production of barley, according to officials of the U. S. Bureau of Census, who have just completed a survey of the state. The survey shows that acreage and production of that crop have tripled in this state since the last census was made in 1930.

In Queen Anne's county acreage went up five-fold and yield three-fold.

Silver Flops

Washington—Sudden withdrawal of U. S. Treasury support for silver prices caused a world-wide crash in silver markets. The Treasury action suggests further changes in Admiinstration policies.

Talkie Talk

By CHUCK COCHARD

Hollywood through pink glasses which romanticize it into a glamorous whole of palm-lined boulevards, extras dressed like queens, a balmy climate—a mysteriously alluring city of studios, orange trees and peculiar people. But the Hollywoodian, being on top of the scene is better prepared to describe this cinematic idyll than the bewitched out-of-towners. Here are a few definitions of Hollywood by famous film stars.

Warner Baxter says: "Hollywood is a bit of heaven dropped near the studios for retakes." Ronald Colman: "Hollywood is a city of dreams come true. Nowhere else in the world is it possible to earn so much money and respect for the little you must give in return." Jack Oakie tells: "It's a place where you spend twice as much money as you have and wish you made twice as much money so you could spend four times as much more. It's a nice joint, though."

—o—

Rochelle Hudson: "Hollywood is the only place in the world where a girl can earn as much money as a man." Mae West: "It's the only city where a girl can say 'come up and see me sometime' without someone taking her up on the invitation." Frederick March: "Hollywood is the Riviera, Bagdad, Chinatown, Addis Ababa, a cow town and Broadway combined in one."

—o—

Janet Gaynor, America's typical small town farmer girl, is to be starred in what we think is a natural "Small Town Girl," from Ben Ames Williams' sensational best-selling novel. It tells the story of a girl who leaves college, goes into the world and becomes involved in a social intrigue by marrying a young man and trying to reform him.

—o—

Scoring a decided triumph in their first film together, "The Three Musketeers", Walter Abel and Margot Grahame again are teamed romantically in their current picture, a mystery drama, "Two O'clock Courage."

—o—

When "Hell Ship Morgan," a drama of the days when California was noted for adventure rather than oranges goes into production the latter part of this month, it will mark the return to the screen of George Bancroft, one of the famous two fisted heroes of the silent days. He will be assisted by Victor Jory.

—o—

New in the realm of tailored suits is the reversible short suit coat introduced by Jeannette MacDonald. The suit, to all appearances, is a plain black, tailored black blouse. For sports events Jeanette turns the coat wrong side out—and presto—she is wearing a plaid jacket with her black skirt! With a change of hat and accessories she has an entirely different costume in a few minutes.

—o—

W. C. Fields taught himself to juggle and lived by selling newspapers during the four years before he landed his first job.

—o—

OFF THE SET: Katherine Hepburn lunching in the RKO Studio restaurant with Jane Loring, film editor of her new picture, "Sylvia Scarlett."

—o—

Fred Astaire and Randolph Scott, who play sailor buddies in "Follow the Fleet" are pals in real life. Their close relationship started when they were working in "Roberta".

—o—

Anne Shirley and Toni Martin taking in the King's club. Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone honeymooning at their Brentwood home. Mary Carlisle and Hardy Albright just lunching (cooing, we call it) . . . Spencer Tracy showing Myrna Loy his ranch in the valley.

—o—

Hollywood is more anxious over the imminence of war abroad than any other community in the United States since many of the outstanding personalities are holding reserve commissions in foreign armies. If a general call to arms is sounded in Europe almost every studio may lose star players.
