W. M. R. R. WRECK

Monday at 6:30 A. M. thirteen persons were injured, two severely, when the fast mail westbound train on the Western Maryland Railroad ran into an open switch at the east end of Thurmont.

Among those injured was Leroy E. Butts, of this city, who received a cut over his right eye.

A freight train was on a siding and a brakeman of the freight thought he had set the switch for the fast mail to pass, but he had set it to throw the train into the siding. The fireman on the passenger train saw the switch was not set right and yelled to the engineer, but it was too late and the passenger train hit the freight engine with sufficient force to put both engines out of commission, and cause serious injury to two mail agents in the mail car, and minor injuries to a number of passengers in the smoker car. The crew of the freight were all out on the ground and none of them was hurt. The steel coaches of the passenger train did not leave the track.

WEDDINGS

John in the presence of the immediate families on Thursday evening, November 4, at 6 o'clock. Miss Mary Englar, sister of the bridegroom and Robert McKinney, brother of the bride, were the attendants. The bridal couple left by auto immediately after the ceremony for Baltimore and from ther sailed for Boston and other points north. Mr. and Mrs. Englar will be at home after December 1, at Louisburg, N. C., where the bridegroom is engaged as chief engineer of the Windsor Ice Company.

MILLER—NUSBAUM

(Union Mills correspondent.)

Miss Mary Anna Nusbaum, youngest daughter of Charles E. Nusbaum, Union Mills, and Melvin A. Miller, of near Gettysburg, Pa., were united in marriage, in St. Mary's Reformed church, Silver Run, early last Saturday morning. After the ceremony, which was preformed by Rev. E. R. Hamme, pastor of the church, the young couple motored to Philadelphia on a wedding trip to visit the Sesqui-Centennial. Miss Mary Alice Brown, a niece, and Charles Bankert, a nephew of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and groomsman at the marriage ceremony. The bride is one of the solo vocalists in the choir of the church in which she was married, and is a most estimable and popular young lady. The groom is employed in a Gettysburg furniture factory. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside at the home of Mrs. Miller's father, in Union Mills.

The many friends of Mr. Leander Gladhill, West Main street, who is a patient in the Maryland General hospital, will be glad to hear that after being critically ill last week he has taken a turn for the better.

Emma Manger, aged about seven years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Manger, Littlestown road, near this city, died this morning in a Baltimore hospital where she had been taken yesterday.

COUNTY DAIRY IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION TO BE FORMED

On Monday evening, November 22, there will be a meeting of the dairymen of the county to consider the formation of a Dairy Improvement Association in Carroll county similar to such associations now in operation in Harford and Montgomery counties. Under this plan a group of twenty-six dairymen organize and hire a competent man to visit the members' individual herds once a month, weigh and test the milk of each cow for butter fat and keep yearly records of the same.

According to County Agent E. K. Walrath, there has been considerable demand for this work in the county but up to this time, competent men for this work could not seem to be secured. One such man is now available and it is expected at least one association will be started by the first of December. There is even more interest during both the Guernsey and Holstein men to form an association for each breed.

L. H. DIELMAN'S TALK ON EARLY HISTORY OF CARROLL COUNTY

Monday evening L. H. Dielman, executive secretary of the Peabody Institute and secretary of the Maryland Historical Society, gave an illustrated talk before the Women's Literary Club on the early history of Carroll county, telling many interesting stories of old land marks and buildings of which a number are now standing and the prominent men that have made Carroll county one of the out-standing counties of the state. The first Methodist Episcopal church in the United States was founded in this county. He also showed a number of other old churches and named the founders. A rather unusual slide was that of the first wreck on the Western Maryland railroad that happened in a section of this county.

A splendid picture of Colonel John K. Longwell was shown, he being a pioneer newspaper publisher, having a shop in Taneytown from 1814 to 1816 and later moving it to Uniontown. During his day Colonel Longwell was a prominent and active citizen. Other prominent men were mentioned, among them Mr. Rinehart, a talented sculptor, widely known abroad for his works, who died in Rome, leaving a large sum of money to educate people in that art.

A picture of the first rural delivery team, of which Carroll county boasts, was a clear slide, showing Mr. Edwin Shriver driving. A spring, known as the "Glowing Spring," made an interesting story. This spring clearly informs the changes in weather.

A slide was shown of the three leading newspapers in 1814 and 1816—the American Sentinel, Westminster Carrolltonian and the Carroll County Democrat. These papers were given to the society by Judge Parke.

Mr. Dielman was a dinner guest of Professor and Mrs. W. R. McDaniel.

The Woman's Literary Club had invited Mr. Dielman to speak to the club and a number of guests in McDaniel Hall and after being introduced by the president of the club, Mrs. A. N. Ward, he expressed his pleasure in being able to speak in so creditable a county. He also added that if any one had any historical clippings or accounts of items of interest to Carroll county that the Historical Society would be glad to have them.
