Strides of Kent Queen Anne's Hospital Cited

Moves Rapidly From Minor Operations To Surgery In First Year

Completing a year's service from the date of its official opening on Jan. 1, 1935, the Kent-Queen Anne's General Hospital through the President of its Board of Directors, R. O. Wright, made report of its activities last week.

When the hospital opened, according to Mr. Wright's report, it was equipped for tonsil work only and the nurses of Kent County were giving their services two days a week without compensation. On Jan. 15 the Board realized the hospital should be opened for general work. The nursing staff was organized at that time and the hospital equipped for general surgery. This was found to be very expensive and a small mortgage was placed on the property to take care of this equipment. In July, 1935, the hospital was fortunate in having Dr. A. C. Dick, a surgeon from Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore, to locate in Chestertown.

"Having been open officially one year," the report continued, "we feel that the people of Kent and Queen Anne's County should know of the progress made.

The hospital has been equipped with 21 beds and 6 nursery beds. In the basement there is a colored men's ward, women's ward and lavatory, an X-ray dark room, laboratory, and furnaces. On the first floor there is a linen closet, bath room, work room, women's ward, nursery office, private room, small dining room, kitchen and pantry. On the second floor there is a small room, Superintendent's room and bath, children's ward, men's ward, bath room, work room and operating room. The operating room has been equipped quite thoroughly.

"The staff has grown from one to five graduate, registered nurses.

"We would like to list all of the donations made to the hospital this year but this is impossible due to the great number. We wish to take this means to thank all who have made donations because without them we would not have been able to carry on and shown such progress. We also wish to thank our auxiliary who have worked with untiring efforts and wish them much success in the coming year.

"We feel that the people of the two counties now realize what a great benefit this institution has been to them and that there is no doubt as to its success.

"Contributions have been made for us to pay off one-fourth of our loans up to January 1, 1936.

"During our first year we have taken care of the following cases. The numbers represent the number of days the patients were in the hospital. There have been 1,621 patient days. Of these 434 have been medical, 345 obstetrical, 842 surgical, 185 free days, 175 part pay days, 300 nursery days with no charge.

Figures Cited On Convictions

State's Attorney Report Shows 463 In 1935

Convictions for violations of motor vehicle laws which totaled 181 topped the list of guilty verdicts found in the Circuit Court and Police Court of Queen Anne's county during 1935, according to a summary prepared by Edwin H. Brown, Jr., State's Attorney, for Chief Judge Joseph N. Ullman of the Court of Appeals, who is also chairman of the Prison Industries Reorganization Administration for Maryland.

The summary shows that a toal of 463 convictions were obtained in the county during the past year which were grouped under thirteen heads.

Following the motor law violations the order of offenses is drunk and disorderly, 116; assault and battery, 77; larceny, 30; gaming laws, 21; gambling laws, 18; nuisances, 7; concealed weapons, 4; trespass, burglary, non-support of wife and bad checks, 2 each; and manslaughter, 1.

The manslaughter conviction, incidentally, was a transfer from Talbot county.

The report also shows that sentence was suspended in 29 cases or 3.6% of the entire number.

The report was prepared for the Prison Industries Reorganization Administration which is making a study to ascertain how the prison population is affected by suspension of sentence and probation. The latter method is not employed in Queen Anne's county, there being no probation officer.
