Soloist On G. M. Hour

SUSAN FISHER

Susan Fisher, young American soprano who recently made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera, will be a guest soloist on the General Motors Concert over an NBC-WEAF network on Sunday, February 16, at 10 p. m., Erno Rapee will conduct the 70-piece General Motors Symphony Orchestra.

Until this season Miss Fisher had been rarely heard in this country. She began her operatic career with the Staatsopera in Berlin in 1931, and sang leading roles with the Opera Comique in Paris during the last two seasons. Previous to this season she had been heard in the United States only at the Worcester (Mass.) Festivals and in infrequent concerts.

Bowling League

The Independents dislocated 1502 pins for a new match record, walked off with three points from the Never-Sweats and lifted themselves into a first place tie with the Electric Light livewires in the close race being staged in the Centreville Duckpin League. Barton's record string of 126 failed to save the American Legion quint from surrendering the odd game to the Electric Light who set up a game record of 548 in the same string.

Talkie Talk

By CHUCK COCHARD

Spencer Tracy is to be starred with Clark Gabe and Jeanette MacDonald in "San Francisco." Tracy will do an entirely different characterization than usual in that he will be a priest, born and raised in sin on Barbary Coast. Miss MacDonald, again in an ideal role, will be the "Colorado Nightingale", who begins singing in a waterfront cafe and ends up in opera.

—o—

Kay Francis will portray the role of Florence Nightingale, England's famous war nurse who founded the Red Cross, in "Angel of Mercy", her next vehicle.

—o—

Claude Rains, distinguished character star, will play the role of Napoleon in "Hearts Divided", Marion Davies' current picture. In the story Napoleon's brother Jerome is to be played by Dick Powell, the songbird.

—o—

THROUGH A KEYHOLE: Bing Crosby picking the best looking girl at the University of Louisiana for their yearbook . . . . Eleanore Whitney denying any romance with Johnny Downs and hoping the reports already circulated won't break up his friendship with Cecilia Parker. . . . A lot of the film stars buy their household bouquets from Charles (silent screen) Ray, who's a florist as well as an author.

—o—

Hollywood's annual matrimonial sweepstakes is on again. Clay Roberts, a sportively-minded young technician employed at one of the major studios, steps forward to submit handicaps on a number of Hollywood's romances. Roberts considers it an even money bet that Kay Francis and Delmer Daves, the scenarist, will wed before another year goes by.

—o—

He reckons the Dick Powell-Joan Blondell romance has a one to two chance of matrimonial fruition this year. It's 8 to 1 that wedding bells won't peal for June Travis and Jack Kirkland, Nancy Carroll's ex, and author of "Tobacco Road."

—o—

But it's one to two that Winifred Shaw and Lewis Stone will be one during 1936. The friendship between Jean Muir and Dick Watts, New York cinema critic, is listed as having only a one to 20 prospect of reaching the altar.

—o—

The story "Lovely Lady" will be the next starring vehicle for Kay Francis.

—o—

The death of John Gilbert climaxes another chapter of the glamorous history of Hollywood. At his death he had very few close friends. Probably the most faithful pal John ever had was Jim Adamson, the M-G-M barber. Adamson, it is said, for many years kept Gilbert when he was a nobody in the picture business. He fed and clothed him when he was an extra and when Gilbert's day came he wasn't forgotten. To his dying day John Gilbert cherished Jim as his best friend.

—o—

And so with John Gilbert's death, the trio which made "The Big Parade" famous are no more—Renee Adoree, Karl Dane and John Gilbert. Most surprising is the fact Gilbert died a wealthy man.

—o—

Alice Faye got more fan mail than any other female star when she sang on the radio with Rudy Vallee.

—o—

Fred MacMurray has usurped Gary Cooper's distinction of being Hollywood's tallest star. Fred is six feet four.

—o—

That splendid pair Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard will be teamed again in the Charles G. Booth story, "The General Died at Dawn." Before starting this opus Miss Lombard will do "Concertina" with George Raft and there is a perfect combination.

—o—

Can you imagine Katherine Hepburn in the title role of the story, "Mary of Scotland", which will be her next picture.

—o—

Alice Faye's latest-man-about-town escort is Billy Fiske, who according to reports is fixed very well financially.

—o—

RKO has found another Fred Astaire, who will probably be dancing before long to the tune of some danceable song. It all happened last week when the glad news reached Fred that his wife had presented him with a son, weighing six and one-half pounds at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles. Both mother and baby are in excellent health. Mrs. Astaire, you remember, was formerly Phyllis Livingston, widely known in New York social circles.

STRAWBERRY ESTIMATE

A preliminary estimate of the available picking acreage of strawberries in Maryland during the 1936 season indicates a 20 per cent increase, or 7,800 acres compared with last year's acreage of 6,500 acres, which was smaller than usual, according to the Maryland Crop Reporting Service.
