UP AND DOWN THE Eastern Shore

Blow at Local Option

Cambridge—A ruling handed down by the Court of Appeals in setting aside the conviction and sentence of two men under the Dorchester County liquor law which was enacted in 1910 was construed here as tantamount to repeal of local option. The Court held that the state-wide liquor law passed by the special session of the Legislature in 1933 repealed the county statute. Indictments in the future must be brought under the State law, Attorney General O'Conor said in commenting on the decision.

Honored at Princeton

Elkton—Pepper Constable, captain of the undefeated 1935 Princeton University football team and honor man since his sophomore year, has been awarded the Pyne Honor Prize as the senior who most clearly manifested the qualifications of excellent scholarship, manly qualities and effective support of the best interests of Princeton. Son of William Pepper Constable, Baltimore lawyer, the young man is a native of Elkton.

Newspaper Mayors

Salisbury—Possibility that Salisbury would swap newspapermen Mayors was indicated here when E. Sheldon Jones announced that he would not be a candidate for reelection and Alfred T. Truitt promptly let it be known that he would enter the race. Jones is Managing Editor of the Salisbury Advertiser and Truitt is president of the News Publishing Company, publishers of the Salisbury Times and Wicomico News.

Paca Letters

Chestertown—Three letters in the handwriting of William Paca, Maryland signer of the Declaration of Independence and a member of the original board of visitors and governors of Washington College, were presented to the college at Convocation and Founder's Day exercises last Thursday. The letters were a gift of William Paca, Chestertown, direct descendant of the signer, who was a native of Queen Anne's County.

Mainmast for Zara

Oxford—The 77-foot schooner "Zara" owned by F. C. McCormack of Baltimore is among the numerous craft being reconditioned at the local shipyard. A 91-foot stick of Oregon pine is being shipped here via the Panama canal to be made into a mainmast for the schooner which is in remarkable condition despite thirty-three years in Bay waters.

Another Postmistress?

Denton—The yen for women postmasters on the Eastern Shore apparently has spread to Denton, it was indicated last week when Mrs. J. Kemp Stevens gained the majority recommendation of the Democratic State Central Committee for Caroline of which Mrs. Stevens has been a member for eighteen years.

No Extension for Dredgers

Crisfield—Ice-bound conditions have kept oystering virtually at a standstill since Christmas but there will be no extension of the dredging season beyond the deadline of March 15, Conservation Commissioner Robert F. Duer has ruled in answer to pleas of watermen. Only an unprecedented thaw could make dredging possible before the season ends.

Fish vs. Flesh

Cambridge—Charging that the Dorchester County Board of Education asks for bids on wood and coal but passes its fire insurance business over to a member of the Board without asking for competitive bids, B. F. Veach and company took space in the Cambridge Record for a vigorous "editorial" advertisement. Why make fish of one and flesh of another, they asked.

Canal Hard Hit

Chesapeake City—To add further to complications encountered in dredging the Chesapeake and Delaware canal, the 75-ft. tug M. W. Adams sprang a leak and sank in 30 feet of water. Divers repaired the hole and the tug has now been floated by a wrecker. Numerous boats and barges are ice-bound in the canal and dredging has been at a standstill since late January.

Lone Obstacle

Pocomoke City—With only one property owner refusing to grant the State right-of-way for the proposed $50,000 Pocomoke cut-off highway link which would divert traffic through central Worcester County, condemnation proceedings are being considered so that the project may be started.

Dog Keeps Vigil

Cambridge—A searching party headed by Sheriff Roy Melvin found the frozen body of Willie Brown, 45-year-old Negro, in a woodland near Salem. It is believed that the Negro, who had gone for wood, slipped while carrying a 125-lb. limb toward the house and struck his head. His dog had kept vigil throughout the night and was found sitting on the dead man's form.

Becomes Post Editor

Elkton—Charles H. Rutledge, sports writer for the Cecil Star, has resigned to become editor of the Newark (Del.) Post, effective March 1.

"Good" for 100

Cambridge—Goodman Bramble, Dorchester County's sole surviving veteran of the Civil War, quietly celebrated his 96th birthday at his home near Airey and ventured the prediction that he would probably be "good' for the century mark. Member of Company B, First Maryland Regiment he was in many major engagements including the battle of Gettysburg.

Dog Sounds Alarm

North East—Persistent barking of a huge German shepherd dog finally roused neighbors and brought the North East Fire Company but too late to save Logan Brothers filling station at Charlestown from destruction in a blaze believed to be of incendiary origin. The dog had been overcome by smoke when yanked through a forced window.

Roundabout Course

Hooper's Island—Ordered back to his job as Hooper's Island lighthouse keeper but blocked off from the beacon from the shore side, Capt. Ed. Tyler went to Easton by car, flew to Baltimore and went by boat to the light.
