Is Your Farm Modern?

Efficient farming demands modern methods and equipment. Buildings, as well as implements, should be of the up-to-date type if your farm is to produce satisfying profits.

Go over your property with a critical eye. Does the barn need replacing or repairing? Have you a machine shed, a corn-crib, a well arranged hog-house? Do you need a feeding floor or a concrete watering trough?

These and many other improvements are fully described in a book called "Concrete on the Farm." We have a copy for you. Be sure to call for it when you are next in town.
