PLEASANT VALLEY COMMENCEMENT, EXHIBIT AND BAZAAR

(From Pleasant Valley correspondent)

The bazaar, which was held by the elementary grades of the Pleasant Valley high school at the close of school, netted them a nice little sum. The whole affair represented a little town with its various stores. The home economics room, in charge of Miss Blocher and the junior girls, was the restaurant. Miss Hyde's room had charge of the Post Office which contained packages for all. Miss Thomas' room conducted the ice cream parlor and candy kitchen. The 5 and 10 cent store was in charge of Miss Ford. Among the fancy articles here, was the school quilt. A little more than thirty dollars had been realized from this. The room earning the most money was Miss Ford's while Miss Hyde's came second. The teachers wish to thank all who helped with the quilt. Mrs. George Myerly, of Baltimore, was the holder of the lucky number.

The school exhibit, especially the Manual Training and Home Economics rooms, was very attractive. The following articles which had been made under the instruction of Mr. Claude LeFevre, brought forth many remarks of surprise from the patrons: 3 large library tables, large radio cabinet, porch swing, floor lamp, book case, 5 table lamps of various styles, 2 large step-ladders, cedar chest, tool chest, medicine cabinet, desk bench, 2 tabourets, shoeshine box, and about six bird boxes and six tooth-brush holders. A walnut sewing cabinet made by Mr. LeFevre was greatly admired on account of its style and the excellent way in which it was finished.

Through the courtesy of one of the food firms of our country, one corner of the home economics room showed many samples and posters of the nourishing foods which should be on our tables. All who visited this room went away with a supply of recipe books, etc. The sewing was of very good quality. Among the dresses were the commencement gowns made by the six Senior girls. It is a required duty that every girl who graduates must make her dress, and these dresses under the direction of Miss Marie Blocher were a great credit to the sewing department.

The service held in Pleasant Valley church last Wednesday evening for the Seniors was very impressive. The very fitting words of encouragement and advice given by the Revs. Rebert, Kresge, and Saltzgiver were so well chosen that we are sorry all could not have heard them. We are sure these young Seniors will remember this night as on of the best connected with their graduation. Very excellent music was given by the choir.

Last Friday afternoon, everyone went away from the P. O. S. of A. auditorium, which was filled to its capacity, feeling that a commencement program, never to be forgotten, had taken place at Pleasant Valley. The ladies of the community had so decorated, that the stage and front of the room presented one mass of potted plants and cut flowers. From each of the six electric light brackets on the walls of the room, hung banskets of flowers. The following Junior girls acted as ushers: Patricia Kain, Ruthanna Keefer, Myrtle Angell, Margaret Dickensheets, Harriet Leese, and Georgia Bixler.

As the orchestra played a march, the procession entered as follows: The graduates, in alphabetical order, Revs. C. B. Rebert, and W. E. Saltzgiver, Dr. Comley Smith, of Hopkins University, Dr. M. S. H. Unger, and six members of the faculty following.

The program was as follows: Invocation, Rev. Saltzgiver; selection by the orchestra; vocal solo, Frederick M. Myers; greeting, Fern F. Myers; vocal solo, Elva L. Myers. At this time Miss Elva Myers was presented with a large basket of variously-colored gladioli, a gift from her sister Mary, and Stanley Bowersox. Next, an address by Dr. Bromley Smith, who entertained his audience quite well. Mary Leese then gave a vocal solo, the Seniors, their class song, and Edmund K. Helwig, the banner oration. Edmund, the president of the class, presented their banner, a large pennant in the school colors, blue and white, to the Juniors for safe keeping. He urged them, in his talk, to take up their work conscientiously, and to remain loyal to their school. At this time, Edmund, with words of deep appreciation, presented, as he termed it, the best book of the library, a Bible, to their beloved principal, Mrs. E. K. Brown. Mary Katharine Petry, in a very excellent manner, gave the "farewell." Dr. Unger next awarded the diplomas, wishing in a most pleasant manner, success to each graduate. Dr. Unger then gave in a few words the practical side of the school question, presenting some facts which all our patrons should know and be interested in.

The following medals and honors were given: To Elva Myers, Edmund Helwig, Mary K. Petry, and Fern Myers, small gold pins, for their work in declamation contests; to Elva Myers and Mary Leese, pins, in the form of small musical lyres, for their work in music contests.

Erma J. Myers has the distinction of having won more athletic medals than any of her classmates. To Violet Myers, who took a commercial course at Pleasant Valley this school year was given the Underwood gold medal for expert typing. This honor means that her work has been of such quality, that the company will recommend her for a position at any time. The Lincoln essay gold pin was won by Martha Smith. The reward for the Longfellow theme went to Margaret Dickensheets. Allen Morelock, a Freshman, was given a reward by Mr. Earhart for his excellent class work in General Science. Bookkeeping certificates were awarded to Martha Smith, Frederick Myers, Edmund Helwig, Guy Myers, and Fern Myers. Attendance rewards went to Carroll Kemper, Gladys Myers, Mary and Harriet Leese. Most of the above medals and rewards were given through the kindness of the Pleasant Valley Packing Company. Honorable mention, also, was given to a number of pupils.

The closing prayer was offered by Rev. C. B. Rebert.

Copies of the Year Book which have been distributed are receiving most favorable criticism. The class of 1927 deserves much credit for "putting over" such an excellent work. They are greatly indebted to their many advertisers, both of Westminster, of this community, and elsewhere. Without the help of these persons it would have been impossible to have this interesting little book.

Dedication—"To our principal, Mrs. Esther K. Brown, whom we love and esteem, who has always been our true, trusting, loyal adviser and friend, who has shared each of our individual joys and sorrows sympathetically, and who has been with us during our four high school years, we dedicate this "Oracle" in deep appreciation of her efficient leadership."
