Police Court

Charged with manslaughter as the result of the death of Leon Gould, Negro, in an automobile accident at Brown's Corner on September 6, Marion C. Wilford, Chestertown Negro, was held under $250 bond for appearance before the Grand Jury by Magistrate J. West Thompson in Police Court Monday evening.

Wilford went to jail in default of fines of $25 and costs on each of two other counts, reckless driving and failure to keep to the right of the road. In the testimony on the manslaughter charge it appeared that there were eight Negroes, including Wilford, riding in the car at the time of the accident, some perched on others' knees.

A crapshooting case resulting from a raid at Ruthsburg Sunday was dismissed for lack of evidence of gaming, neither galloping dominoes nor cold cash being produced in court.

Dr. Saul W. Jarcko, of Baltimore, was fined $10 and costs for reckless driving and William Coleman, of Cambridge the same amount for operating without a license as the outcome of the accident near Ye Olde Tavern in August when Jarko's car sideswiped a truck crarying canned goods, causing the truck to topple over on a third vehicle.

Isaiah Forman, Richard Little and James Cooper, Centreville Negroes, were convicted of disorderly conduct following an argument near Hotel Centreville. Forman, who pleaded guilty, was fined $1 and costs. The others who were found guilty were assessed $5 and costs each.

James W. Christopher was held under $250 for the Grand Jury on a charge of non-support.

Griffin Sampson, Centreville Negro was charged $5 and costs for assault and battery on Bill Costen.

John E. Cullen, of Washington, paid $10 and costs for exceeding 45 miles per hour. Robert W. Glessner, of Federalsburg, paid $5 and costs for driving a truck through Sudlersville at better than 25 miles per. Agnes Scott, Negro woman, was fined $10 and costs for operating without a permit.
