UP AND DOWN THE Eastern Shore

Champion Tomato Grower

Rising Sun—Charles D. Cullen, Cecil county farmer, topped Maryland tomato growers in acreage yield this year when he produced 17.6 tons of the red fruit per acre for a new production average for the crop. Cullen gets a gold watch for his achievement.

Bank Head Passes

Denton — Henry Tilghman Nuttle, president of the People's Bank here since 1919, died of the infirmities of age at his home at Andersontown. His father, Tilghman Nuttle, was a member of the Maryland State Senate when the General Assembly of 1857-1860 voted on the Secession question prior to the Civil War.

Gamey Odor

Princess Annne—Gilbert Hunter and other members of the Mt. Vernon Hunt Club, topping off a coon hunt by treeing and bagging a "beautifully pelted mink," triumphantly stuck the kill in the back seat of a car. When the gamey odor got too strong for ventilation the "mink" was put in an open truck. Fur buyers identified the animal as a skunk, the first killed in Somerset county in thirty years.

Bandit Catching

Berlin—Night Policeman Taylor, hailed by a panic-stricken motorist who was looking for a State policeman, listened to a tale of attempted hold-up a few miles north, of some one hurling heavy objects like brickbats. Taylor organized a searching party, hurried to the scene of the alleged hold-up attempt, found a screech owl that had been killed by the car.

The Light Fantastic

St. Michaels—Dancing classes in the auditorium have been added to the activities period of the high school with Miss Miriam White, Mrs. Marion Miller and Mrs. Thomas Fleming doing the instructing. So many pupils went for the course that division into groups was necessary. It's to develop social traits.

Boom Oyster Season

Princess Anne—The oyster season is hitting boom times. Watermen are making lots of money, boats are clearing from $400 to $700 a week, packing houses are working overtime, some on two shifts, and busses are used to bring shuckers from inland points to the oyster houses daily. Even old boats, abandoned and left to rot in coves and creeks, are being pressed into service.

Captain's Quarters Burned

Cambridge—The "Captain's Quarters" on "Chore Acres", home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Albert Kuenhle, Jr., was totally destroyed by a night fire, although the home had been supposedly empty for a week while the couple were in Philadelphia.

Foiling Jailbreakers

Elkton—Jail break was foiled because a woman visitor had her ears and eyes open. Charles Rhodes and William Sartin, prisoners, had sawed through two bars and partly through a third when Deputy Seth caught them. But a woman, visiting another prisoner in the jail, had gotten a tip and passed it on.

Mishandling A Gun

Rock Hall—Franklin Hogans, 10, shooting at birds with a cat rifle, snagged the gun in his coat and shot himself through a toe. He's able to limp around.

Salesman Sentenced

Galena—Thomas Satterfield, specialty salesman of Dover, Del., was sentenced to 1 year in the House of Correctin by Magistrate George E. Hicks after being convicted of assault and carrying away. The man was accused of assaulting Miss Ruth Moffett two days before she committed suicide. Found severly beaten otuside her business place on the night of November 24, Miss Moffett left a Thanksgiving dinner table to go to a bedroom and shoot herself.

Mae West Marries

Elkton—Mae West was married here to George H. Alder. It was not the screen star, however, both young people being from Somerset county. The bride is a teacher in Cambridge.

Handbills Need Permits

Crisfield—Hereafter those circulating handbills, circulars, pamphlets and similar articles must get a permit from town authorities, as the result of a new ordnance passed by the mayor and city council. Regulations were also laid down covering conduct of special meetings and use of sound amplifiers.

Big Famllies

Federalsburg—Mr. and Mrs. V. Henry Hicks, parents of fourteen children and showing up with thirteen, took the prize for the largest family present at Santa Claus Day. Harley G. Watkins, father of twenty children got a bad break. Chicken pox and measles kept too many of his large brood at home.

Brush-Up Classes

Crisfield—Rev. Charles M. Kesler has organized a "Brush-Up Class", designed for grown-ups whose schooling has been insufficient. Spelling and the three R's reading, writing and arithmetic, are to be offered. CCC boys are also to be given a chance at the course.

Flood Control Discussion

Federalsburg—This town, badly battered by a flood last year, is to hold a public hearing to discuss the entire question of floods and flood control. Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough and Colonel Dent of the United States Army Engineers are expected to be on hand to get the town's viewpoint.

Train Wrecks Empty Car

Princess Anne—Rather than risk derailing his train the engineer of a Pennsylvania flyer running along at high speed through the night plowed into an auto stalled on the tracks, stopped his train and went back to look for casualties. None were found. The owner, Joe Weatherly, Negro, reported that his car had been stolen a short while before the crash. It had evidently been abandoned on the tracks.

Tax Pressure

Greensboro—The Town Commissioners have lit on subtle persuasion to get rid of outdoor privies. All privies adjoining streets having sewer lines are to be taxed five dollars apiece each year. On the other glove, sewer and water rents are lifted from toilets inside stores, homes and public buildings.

Hepburn Plays Mary Of Scotland At Stevensville

Katharine Hepburn, as Mary, the tragic Queen of Scotland stares into approaching tragedy as fate marches toward Darnley, her jealous husband. The glamorous, romantic Queen lives again her losing battle with the great Elizabeth of England on the screen at the Stevensville Opera House Friday and Saturday.

BRYANTOWN

Mrs. R. Warner spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. William Shaney, at Wood Lawn Filling Station, near Queenstown. Mr. and Mrs. Shaney have taken over the business formerly run by W. T. Bishop, of Queenstown.

Miss Clara Lloyd entertained her cousins the Misses Doris Schelhouse, of near Centreville, and Peggy Miles, of Wye Mills over Sunday.

Mr. Edward Lloyd is quite ill at the home of his son, Claude, at Perry's Corner, at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. McElvey, of Bennett's Point Farms had their small son, Billy, removed to Easton Hospital last Tuesday, when he was threatened with pneumonia. We all hope the little fellow will soon be able to be back home with his parents.

Miss Eva Dadds was a visitor of Mrs. George Dorrell, one day last week.

Mr. G. G. Wrightson is on the sick list at this writing. Mr. Irvin Yewell is also quite sick.

Mr. William Blunt and family have moved to their new home on the Herman Bryan farm, last Monday.

The children of the town are patiently waiting the time for Old Santa to come through town, bells and all, and distribute toys, and candy among them. And we hope they will not be dissappointed.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wrightson had as their week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Simpson, of Marcus Hook, Pa.

Mr. Harry Williams, of Perry's Corner, was the Sunday evening guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Warner.

Banquet At Hodson Hall Washington College

A joint banquet of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association of the college took place last week at Hodson Hall, Washington College, Chestertown, and was attended by about fifty guests. This was the first social function held at the newly constructed building.

J. Thomas Kibler, head of the department of athletics at the college was the toastmaster, and introduced Prof. Winton Tolles, of the Department of Public Speaking, who delivered the address. The senior member of each organization was called on for a one minute address. The program was arranged by Norman Howeth, of the Y. M. C. A., and Miss Virginia Watkins, of the Y. W. C. A.
