Police Exhibit Driving Errors

World's Worst Driver Does Everything Wrong

Safety demonstrations pointing out both the wrong and right ways to turn corners incorporated in a brief lecture on methods of safe driving in general were given in Centreville Wednesday afternoon at 2 and 3:15 o'clock by Cliff Bergere of Hollywood, Cal., self-styled world's worst driver, and Officers Eddie Allen, R. A. Raleigh and Albert F. Anderson of the State Police.

The demonstrations are part of the State Police campaign to weed out dangerous driving habits. The safety group, outfitted with two white studebakers and a regular olive green police car equipped with a loud speaker used the intersection of Commerce Street, Railroad Avenue and Water Streets for the demonstration.

Dangerous ways of taking right hand turns, left hand turns, blocking intersections and cutting around a car waiting for a traffic light were given in startling fashion. Correct methods were shown immediately afterwards. Bergere, a former Indianpolis racing driver and actually an expert at the wheel put on the reckless displays while Officer Allen was the safe driver in each jam. Officer Raleigh was lecturer aancunednnor shrdluhrdshrhrdlhr er and announcer and Patrolman Anderson directed traffic.

Windshield stickers pledging safe driving were distributed with an encouragingly large number of Centreville drivers accepting them.
