Plan Drive On Poultry Thefts

Farmers Urged To Report Losses Promptly

Following a suggestion inaugurated by the Maryland Poultry Council to lessen raids on farmyard fowl, the State Police, the State Grange, the Maryland Farm Bureau and the office of Sheriff T. Herbert Everett will cooperate in an effort to catch chicken thieves operating in Queen Anne's county.

County Agent Kenneth W. Baker advises that promptness in reporting losses may prove an important factor in apprehending culprits. He urges that as soon as a theft is discovered, the poultry owner should get in touch with the Sheriff's office by telephone at once. In the event that the Sheriff is not available, Mr. Baker should be called.

The farmer should furnish a description of the tattoo symbol, if any, used on the poultry, the kind of fowl taken, the number, and when and where the stealing occurred, as far as may be known.

Poultry thefts have been fairly numerous in Queen Anne's county in the past two years, especially in the upper county and along the borderline of Caroline and Talbot counties. Whenever a theft occurs, even a small one, it should be reported promptly in an endeavor to track down the culprits before they have disposed of the fowl. Where stealing occurs relatively close to any of the county borders the State Police will cooperate in following up the case in adjoining counties.

Stars Of Race Track Comedy At Opera House

Frank McHugh, timid little writer of greeting card verses, starts a hurricane of laughter for everyone but himself by his marvelous gift for picking winning horses. Joan Blondell, as his wife, can see the funny side. They lead off in "Three Men On A Horse", comedy hit, at the Centreville Opera House next Wednsday and Thursday.

RAISIN SAUCE FOR HAM

1 cup raisins
1 cup water
5 cloves
¾ teaspoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
Pinch of pepper
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ teaspoon Worcestshire sauce

Cover raisins with water, add cloves and simmer for ten minutes. Then add the sugar, cornstarch, salt and pepper which have already been mixed together. Stir until slightly thickened and then add the remaining ingredients.

UNUSUAL OYSTER SALAD

An unusual salad recipe featuring oysters has just come over from England with exactly that shade of piquant difference which catches the fancy of an alert housewife. It is easily prepared

Blanch 24 oysters and let them remain in the water until almost cool. Parboil 1 head of shredded celery, and ½ a small white cabbage also shredded. When cold, mix the celery and cabbage together, moisten slightly with vinegar and olive oil and place in a salad bowl. Place the oysters on top, spread lightly with mayonnaise and serve. This is sufficient for six or seven persons.
