The DAIRY

FEED FOR DAIRY COW ON PASTURE

With blue grass pasture the main spring and summer feed, the problem of getting the most profit out of a herd of good dairy cows calls for additional feeding, according to E. C. Elting of the University of Missouri.

With cows producing 4½ per cent butterfat, such as Jerseys and Guernseys on fresh pasture, grain supplements per daily milk production should be 3 pounds grain for 20 pounds milk, 4 pounds grain for 25 pounds milk, 5 to 5½ pounds grain for 30 pounds milk, 7 pounds grain for 35 pounds milk, and 8.2 pounds grain for 40 pounds milk. For cows producing less than 4½ per cent milk, such as Holsteins, Brown Swiss or Ayrshire, from 3 pounds of grain for 25 pounds of milk to 9 or 10 pounds of grain for 50 pounds of milk should be fed.

Blue grass or legume pasture will supply enough protein so that home-grown energy-producing feeds such as corn, oats and barley can be used to supplement the grass. Later in the season or where the pasture is short, more protein feed should be supplied.

A recommended grain ration with summer pasture is 300 pounds of ground corn or barley; 200 pounds of ground oats or wheat bran; and 50 pounds of cottonseed meal or an abundance of legume feeds. Later in the season, the amount of corn should be reduced to 200 pounds and the cottonseed meal or other protein supplement increased up to 100 pounds.

A small field of sudan grass will provide good pasture that will help to tide over the August-September pasture shortage. A limited field with 25 pounds of sudan seed drilled per acre will provide a good crop and will pasture up to two head per acre. This will help to keep the cows in better condition and will lessen the fall slump resulting from the pasture shortage.

Roots for Dairy Cattle Supply Succulent Feed

The chief function of roots in cattle feeding is to supply a succulent feed. Under general farm conditions the quantity of nutrients grown per acre in root crops is small in comparison to the cost of production. These root crops, however, can be preserved during the winter equally well whether large or small quantities are fed each day, and therefore have special application when only a few cows are to be fed. Of the different root crops, mangel-wurzels furnish the greatest yield per acre. Other kinds of beets and turnips and carrots may be used. Turnips, however, should be fed after milking rather than before, as they cause a bad flavor in the products if fed immediately before milking. Carrots impart a desirable color to the milk.

Three Chief Essentials to Successful Dairying

There are three essentials to successful dairy farming. These are good cows that have the ability to convert the feed grown on the farm into milk and butterfat economically. After you have the efficient cows it will be necessary for you to supply these cows with the right kind of feed and care so that it will be possible for your cows to produce milk economically, and then you must have a market for your dairy products. Where these three essentials are provided you are almost sure to succeed, but if any one of these essentials is lacking you are almost sure to fail.

It is profitable to raise hogs and poultry on a dairy farm especially when only butterfat is sold and skim milk available to feed to hogs and poultry.

Dairy Facts

Soy beans offer the dairyman an excellent opportunity to increase his profits.

• • •

Cows should be dry from four to six weeks. If they are good heavy milkers then six weeks would be better than four.

• • •

Feeding enough does not mean overfeeding. What constitutes enough feed for a cow can be determined accurately only by her feeder.

• • •

Feed a cow all the roughage she will eat. Alfalfa hay and corn silage together supply ideal roughage. A cow ordinarily eats from 30 to 40 pounds of silage a day and from 10 to 20 pounds of hay.

• • •

One way to get large producing cows is to give the growing heifers the best chance. A stunted heifer will too often be a poorer producer.
