Jeff Davis Post Sponsors Safe Drivers' Club

Is Issuing Windshield Stickers To Members And And General Public

Joining in a movement with other American Legion Posts in Maryland toward cutting down the traffic toll Jeff Davis Post is forming a Safe Drivers' Club and issuing windshield stickers both to members and the general public who desire to cooperate in tha movement.

George W. Aldridge is chairman of the committee in charge. The stickers may be secured by any driver regardless of his past record and will be a token of membership in the Safe Drivers' Club until October 31 of this year. The stickers, handsome red, white and blue devices with either the Legion insignia or the coat-of-arms of Maryland in the center, will be revoked in case a driver violates the automobile code sufficiently to have his operator's license revoked for fifteen days.

Behind the stickers is a purpose to encourage drivers to play safe and give the other fellow both courtesy and a chance.

Fifty stickers have been assigned Jeff Davis Post for distribution among its membership while 100 are available for the general public. A charge of fiteen cents is made for each sticker, enough to pay the expenses and provide a small profit for the Legion Post.

The profit accruing to Jeff Davis Post will be spent upon purchase of Safety bookmarks for school children of Queen Anne's county. The bookmarks contain ten useful safety hints for children which are placed on bookmarks with the idea that they will be before the children's eyes so frequently as to permit the ideas to sink in.

Continuing its safety drive even beyond the program of the State Legion minimum Jeff Davis plans to assist in protecting pupils who travel on school buses. One boy riding on each bus is to be trained in supervising the course of each of the pupils as he enters or leaves the bus, stopping oncoming traffic or warning the pupil if the road is not clear for crossing it.

The safety program of the Maryland Legion has already atracted wide attention from other states, some thirty of them writing in for information as to its features. The office of Commissionerof Motor Vehicles Walter R. Rudy is cooperating with it and L. Derr Sahm, the well known Doll Derr to baseball fans, is promoting the club through the Commissioner's office.

Izaak Walton Unit Instituted On Upper Shore

Sponsors Conservation, Fishermen's Interest. 30 Signers On Charter

Committed to the conservation of natural resources and defender of woods, water and wild life, the Upper Eastern Shore Chapter of the Izaak Walton League has been officially instituted, has received its charter and already counts a membership of some thirty anglers and other sportsmen.

The chapter is the latest unit of the organization to be formed in Maryland. It will serve the five counties of Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne s, Talbot and Caroline. It is an outgrowth of the Game section of the Queen Anne's Poultry and Game Show and its headquarters are in Centreville.

Every county except Cecil is already represented in its membership. The officers are Letha E. Taylor of Centreville, president; Harvey Samis, of Easton, vice-president; and Paul B. Smith of Centreville secretary-treasurer.

Charter members already included in the chapter are the officers and F. Asbury Bartlett, John P. Corcoran, E. G. Bullock, J. Grant Yates, Joseph S. Handley, Benjamin Green Raskob.

John E. Mears, M. Dorsey Wright, Harry O. Booker, Emroy Foster, E. Olin Willis, J. Paul Brown, Walter A. Schiffer, Charles Foster, H. A. Kimball, Milton Seney.

John Palmer Smith, Jr., William Geary, Abe Epstein, I. Hollins, Charles W. Bell, J. Ralph Graham, Sterling G. Harris, Dr. Norman P. Chanaud, Samuel Seney, R. Carroll Wilson, James A. Thawley.

The Izaak Walton League has long been active in furthering the interests of fishermen, urging restocking of lakes and streams, preventing pollution, opposing destructive types of nets and the taking of game fish for commercial purposes. Its interests also cover other forms of conservation.

Already the Upper Eastern Shore Chapter has been asked to join the fight against repeal of the law prohibiting the sale of black bass in Baltimore markets and the movement against duck trapping in Chesapeake Bay waters.

The present chapter is intended to solidify the sentiment and strength of fishermen and sportsmen in general on the Upper Eastern Shore on all matters pertaining to conservation. The charter is to be kept open for several weeks to enable as many sportsmen as possible to be enrolled on the creating document.

Colored Woman Serves Wilmer Family 51 Years

Johanna Gee, colored, for fifty-one years an employee in the Wilmer family, of "Eversley," on Chester River, died Monday night of last week at the home of her daughter, in Philadelphia. She was 82 years old.

The aged woman had gone to Philadelphia in December to spend the holidays with her daughter, and suffered a stroke shortly after, and failed to improve.

Johanna was highly respected by not only the colored folk, but loved by the members of the Wilmer family. She was always, industrious, honest and kind, and endeared herself to her employers.

She was originally from Virginia and came to Queen Anne's county at the age of thirty and soon after entered the employe of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bond Wilmer. She had remained a faithful servant throughout the fifty-one years.

The body was brought to Centreville and funeral services held at Burrisville Colored Church on Thursday. She was buried in the Wilmer lot in Chesterfield Cemetery.

I want to thank the farmers and dealers on the Eastern Shore for their patronage during 1937.

With your same cooperation and patronage, we can make 1938 even better than 1937. A good livestock market is an asset to the community; therefore, I have tried to make my markets the best. With you behind me, I can make these markets even bigger and better.

Let's make 1938 the best year for livestock markets and increase our prosperity.
