UNION MILLS

Undaunted by the destruction of the Charles Carroll school building, the Third Annual Community Show of Myers District will be held as arranged on Friday and Saturday, November 9 and 10, according to the unanimous action of the executive committee of the Charles Carroll Parent-Teacher Association at a meeting Tuesday evening following the fire. The poultry exhibit and several amusement features have been stricken from the program, but otherwise the program will be carried out as arranged. The old Carroll Academy building and the I. O. M. Hall at Union Mills will house the show.

Among the special features of the exhibit will be the fashion show on Friday evening and a baby show on Saturday evening. An intensive canvass of the district will be made in an endeavor to make the farm and household exhibits larger than ever before. The ladies of the social committee of the association will serve a cafeteria lunch both evenings of the show. There will be no entry fee or admittance charge.

The following committee of the Parent-Teacher Association was named to cooperate with the school authorities in arranging temporary quarters for the school classes and the rebuilding of the new school structure that it is believed will be undertaken at once: President, S. E.
