Large Military Display.

THE TWENTY-SECOND.—On Friday next there will be an unusually large military gathering in our town: the Reed Rifles, under the command of Captain Perkins; the new military corps, the Chester Blues, under the command of Captain Valk; the Columbian Huzzars, Captain Skirven; the Marion Blues, Captain Johnson, from Millington; the Cadwalader Guard, Capt. Vansant, from Galena; and the Washington College Cadets. The whole will be reviewed by the field officers of the 21st Regiment and the 8th Cavalry. These companies are all Kent county organizations, and speak well for the military spirit of Old Kent.

COSMOPOLITAN ART ASSOCIATION.—Day of Drawing Postponed.—We have been requested by Mr. John L. Stam, agent of this Association for Chestertown and vicinity, to state that the drawing has been postponed to the 18th of April, and that he will continue to receive and forward subscriptions until the 12th of that month. The premiums to be awarded this year are of a superior character, and well worth an examination from the public. Specimen Engravings and Art Journal may be seen by calling on the agent.

DROWNED MAN FOUND.—On Friday of last week the body of a man floated ashore at the landing of Capt. George H. Willson near Rock Hall. It is supposed to be one of those drowned by the sinking of a schooner, some two months ago, off Swan Point. An inquest was held, and the body decently buried.

HONEST TALK.

In the subjoined expressions of regret at the decree of the Georgia Convention in pronouncing a formal severance of the bond which unties that State with her sisters under the Federal Constitution, we have the evidence of a sentiment which we are assured would be confessed by a majority of the Georgia people if only the question of Union or Disunion could be distinctly and directly brought before them. We quote from the Lagrange (Geo.) Reporter of the 25th ultimo:

"The deed is done! Our right are—not secured! We have been fifed and drummed—and voted out of the Union. We still love the Union. We love our old Government, because it was established by the strong arms and the blood of as true men as the world ever saw. We never did have any war to make on the Government, but always regarded it as a priceless inheritance bequeathed to us by our Revolutionary fathers, and we have adored the Union of the States because that Union was formed and cemented by their blood. We have given them up and have now left the sacred chambers of our fathers. The action of Georgia may be right, and it may be wrong."

COMPENSATION TO OWNERS OF FUGITIVE SLAVES.—A memorial is in circulation for signatures in Philadelphia urging the Legislature of Pennsylvania to pass a law compensating the owners of fugitive slaves where they are rescued by mobs, and also punishing every one engaging in such mobs. The Philadelphia Ledger says:

The passage of such a law as this would have a good effect. Nothing so effectually put a stop to the pro-slavery mobs, which in former days disgraced our city, as the passage of a law requiring the country to pay the cost of the property damaged. Under this law Pennsylvania Hall burned down by an anti-abolition mob, was paid for out of the country treasury. A Catholic church, burned in the time of the Native-American riots, was paid for in the same way. So soon as the taxpayers began to find these public amusements were growing expensive, they provided a police force to put a stop to them. A law which shall make the country liable for the value of a slave when he escapes through the interference of the citizens, would put a practical obstacle to the operation of any personal liberty bill. Every taxpayer would soon see the necessity of enforcing the constitutional provision and those individuals that are now the most active on behalf of the fugitives would find their zeal in his cause diminish sensibly. Sentimental indulgence, when it costs nothing, may be liberally allowed, but when it touches the pocket its value is very soon properly estimated.

UNION SENTIMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA.—A letter from Mr. Gilmer, member of the House from North Carolina, appealing for compromise, contains the following striking passages:

"The free States now number eighteen, the slave States only fifteen. The free States have majorities in both Houses of Congress and these majorities soon to be increased. The free States have the surplus population to settle and make free States out of the Territories. The slave States have no surplus. Common sense ought to teach the people of the free States that the chances are all on their side. They very well know that if they were to grant all that the slave States request, the laws of climate, soil and productions will settle the question at last; that the result will be precisely the same under any of the theories about which the politicians of the two sections have each other so much by the ears.

* * * "We have only to have the people—the industrious masses—look at these questions practically and in their proper bearings, and they will at once have this quarrel settled, and the great ship of State again floating at ease and in safety.

"I would have them at once pull up their stakes and come pitch their tents around Washington, and command their representatives to adjust the difficulties which now divide the two great powerful sections.

Union Triumph in Tennesse.

The returns from Tennessee have almost annihilated the Border State revolutionists, whilst the Union men in the South are in ecstacies. The secession vote is so small that but an infinitesimal proportion of the people appear to have stuck to the Yancey programme, which was commenced at Charleston, reenacted at Baltimore, and the third scene is now in course of presentation at Montgomery, Alabama. Not only have the Union men swept the State, electing probably four-fifths of their candidates, but they have decided that there shall be no Convention—that the members who have been elected shall never meet to take into consideration the subject of secession:

In Mr. Stokes' district one county gave 5,700 for the Union, and 675 for secession, and even at Memphis, which was supposed to be a hotbed of secession, the Union men have elected their delegates by a majority of 400. Messrs. Stokes, Nelson, Quarles, and Hatton have been warmly congratulated upon all hands on their victery.—Senator Andrew Johnson, who has sustained the Jackson doctrine, and against whom the fight has been very bitter, regards the result as an endorsement of his views. He was burnt in effigy in all parts of the State, but it seems that those who made these demonstrations do not do all the voting.

Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia have thus emphatically spoken out in endorsement of Maryland and Governor Hicks, who so nobly checked the tide of secession, and resisted its encroachments on the Border States. His name will live in grateful remembrance, while those who traduced him will be forgotten, or if remembered, named in the same category with those of Yancey, Rhett, Floyd and Cobb.—Balt. American.

THE UNION.—Mr. Etheridge, of Tennessee, lately said in the House of Representatives:

I have been told, and I have heard it repeated, that this Union is gone. It has been said in this chamber that it is in the cold sweat of death; that, in fact, it is really dead and merely lying in state waiting for the funeral obsequies to be performed. If this be so, and the war that has been made upon me in consequence of advocating the Constitution and the Union, is to result in my overthrow and in my destruction, and that flag, that glorious flag, the emblem of the Union, which was borne by Washington through a seven years' struggle, shall be struck from the Capitol and trailed in the dust—when this Union is interred I want no more honorable winding-sheet than that brave old flag, and no more glorious grave than to be interred in the tomb of the Union. [Applause in the galleries.] For it I have stood; for it I will continue to stand; I care not whence the blows come; and some will find before this thing is over, that while there are blows to be given, there will be blows to receive; and that, while others can thrust, there are some who can parry. They will find that it is a game that two can play at. God preserve my country from the desolation that is threatening her, from treason and traitors!

"Is there not some chosen curse?
Some hidden thunder in the stores of heaven,
Red with uncommon wrath, to blast the man
Who owes his greatness to his country's ruin.

WRONGS AND REMEDIES.—The Secessionists complain that some of the slaves who escape to the North are not returned. Their remedy is to dissolve the Union so that not a solitary one shall be returned. They complain that Northern men hold out temptation to our slaves to run away. Their remedy is to provide that fifty or a hundred run away where one runs away now. They complain that the North is opposed to increasing the number of slave States. Their remedy is, by multiplying the facilities for the escape of fugitive slaves everywhere upon the border, to change several of the present slave States into free States. They complain that the Abolitionists contemplate striking a blow at the slave institution. Their remedy is to strike a blow at it themselves more fatal than all the blows the Abolitionists could strike at it in a quarter of a century.

SOUTH CAROLINA GOING TO SECEDE FROM THE NEW GOVERNMENT!—It is evident, from the declarations of South Carolinians now in this city, that great dissatisfaction exists among them at the construction of the new government of confederative States. It is said that a despatch was received here today in cypher from a distinguished citizen of Charleston, that the people there are enraged at the action of the Congress at Montgomery, in ignoring South Carolina for the Presidency or Vice Presidency and her free trade policy, especially in view of the fact that she initiated secession, and that they are already talking of seceding from the proposed new confederacy.
