In Memoriam

EVANS—In loving memory of our darling JOSEPHINE EVANS, whom God took home April 21, 1937.

Since you went first and we remain
To miss you so each day,
We live in memories' garden dear
With happy days we've known.
Each thing you've touched along the way
Is now a hallowed spot,
We hear your voice and see your smile
Though blindly we may grope.

Since you went first and we remain
To miss you so each day,
The memory of your helping hand
Will buoy us on with hope.
We've had so much of happiness
We've had our cup of joy,
And memory is one gift of God
That death cannot destroy.

Since you went first and we remain
One thing we'd have you do,
Walk slowly down the path of death
For soon we'll follow you.
We'll want to know each step you took
That we may walk the same,
For some day down that lonely road
You'll hear us call your name.

Her Parents, Who Miss Her
With a Loss Indescribable.

My lips cannot tell how I miss her,
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss her
In a home that is lonesome today.

SISTER IRENE.

In sad but loving memory of our beloved niece, JOSEPHINE MAE EVANS, who left us two years ago, April 21, 1937.

Sadly missed but never forgotten.

Weather Slows Plowing, Seeding Hogs Rated Year's Best Gamble

Continued wet weather has put the farmer's year backwards in Queen Anne's county this spring and the general outlook for the year is only fair.

There has been considerable plowing done in the upper half of the county prior to this week's wet spell, much less in the central and lower portions. Plowing, however, is generally behind schedule. Cannery peas were seeded by Friday, at least three weeks later than normally. Usually peas go in at mid-March or the latter part of that month, the customary dates lying between March 10 and April 10.

There have been no offers made for contracts for cannery tomatoes as yet. This is proving a serious problem on Kent Island where farmers have been growing tomatoes for years for the same cannery. Kent Island consistently raises more tomatoes than any other section chiefly because of their steady contract basis over a period of years. The Phillips Packing Company is getting ready to contract for corn for their canneries at Cordova and Willoughby.

Farmers are advised by County Agent Kenneth W. Baker to be very careful this year about the field corn they seed. A cold snap last fall came at a time when corn had just been put in cribs and contained much moisture. Freezing may have killed a great many germs. The County Agent suggests that farmers test each ear of corn for germination before it is seeded as there will be many dead grems in corn.

With wet land holding them back, farmers are busy cleaning up and doing some gardening, but this last is late. One of the signs of the backward year is that many farmers have not yet started cleaning up gardens and around the houses.

One of the odd features in this year's cleanup is that farmers are taking out thorn hedges everywhere in greater numbers than ever before. The hedges, long a characteristic of county farms, have little value, are hard to keep trimmed and interfere with crops bordering them by removing considerable substance from the soil. So they are on their way out this spring. Bird and wildlife may suffer from their absence.

The farm outlook for 1939 is rated as only fair. Canneries throughout the nation have large stocks on hand, are disinclined to add heavily to them and the outlook for cannery crops is poor.

The situation is drab for most farm products, grain, livestock and milk, with a possible chance for a better outlook for pork, beef and perhaps poultry.

The milk situation is in a poorer state as a revenue producer than it has been for six years or more. The winter price never reached the height it has in past years and summer prospects are not hopeful. Large supplies have glutted the market.

An agricultural specialist with a chance to scan conditions on a broad basis remarked this week that hogs might be as safe a gamble for making money this year as anything else on the farm.

The demand for turkey eggs has been exceptionally good so far but it is too early for any forecast about the outlook for birds in the fall.

More broilers will be raised on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and in Delaware than ever before. Queen Anne's is laggard in broiler production so the effect will hardly be noticeable here. One flock numbering thousands of potential broilers is being nursed along in Queen Anne's, however.

An indication that farmers are not happy over their prospects is shown by the number of them that are making inquiries as to new outlets for farm products, new crops, available ways of earning money aside from habitual farm practices.

Wheat has been looking fairly good but is being hurt by too much water. A considerable amount is spotting brown. One of the best looking wheat fields is that of Bryan Price along the Chester river.

Clover is generally looking good. One of the best clover fields at this time of the year is down on Frank Dudley's Hemsley farm.

Indications are good for plenty of early pasture and a normal hay crop at least. A large amount of spring oats has been seeded this year, perhaps the largest amount ever sown in Queen Anne's. On Luther L. Gadd's Readbourne farm and George M. Moffett's White House farm oats and Canadian peas have been sown for hay.

A heavy crop of lambs is reported in the county this spring. They have begun to move out fast to market in the last few days.

Labor conditions have shown very little change over the winter.
