Mrs. Stewart In Receiving Line

Veteran Oxford Postmistress Is Honored

Miss Mary W. Stewart, the nation's oldest postmaster in point of service on the basis of her sixty-two years as postmistress at Oxford in Talbot county, has been invited to be in the receiving line at a White house tea to be given by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt this afternoon, Thursday, during the National Postmasters Association meeting in Washington this week.

The tea will be given for the women who are in Washington as a result of the postmasters' convention.

Miss Stewart, known to her patrons as "Miss Mollie", has received appointments from fourteen different Presidents and has a trunk full of official letters valuable to any collector of autographs.

The first appointment—dated March 4, 1877—came four days after Rutherford B. Hayes succeededPresident Ulysses S. Grant. Before that, however, she had spent most of her time sorting and delivering mail for her father, James Stewart, who ran the postoffice in his general store.

Postoffice records in Washington show that "Miss Mollie," now in her eighties, must extend her service record some twelve or thirteen years to beat the all-time long-service mark established by Rosswell Beardsley, of North Lansing, N. Y., who, at the time of his death January 6, 1903, had served continuously for more than seventy-four years.

STATE EXAM

Notice of an examination to be held in the near future for classification as junior stenographers has been given by State Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones this week. The examination is open only to residents of Queen Anne's county. The final date for filing applications is Tuesday, October 24.
