CHURCH HILL HI - NEWS

MY DAY AT THE EASTERN SHORE FAIR

By John R. Smith, Jr.

Since first hearing of an Eastern Shore Fair to be held in our county, I had planned to attend. After reporting at school on Tuesday, several of us left for the Fair. We arrived at the grounds about nine-thirty and after parking in a free parking lot adjacent to the Fair Grounds, we immediately walked to the judging ring at the northern extremity of the field. Then we entered the first of the numerous exhibition tents in which we saw some of the finest dairy cattle we had ever seen. Following along in our tour of he exhibits, we saw many fine beef cattle after which we saw beautiful Percheron and Belgian horses.

An exhibit of particular interest to me was the 4-H and F. F. A. tent containing various kinds of animals. The tent housing the swine and sheep was quite interesting and included in the exhibit of swine were practically all species and all sizes. Never before had I seen such huge hogs. Also we enjoyed the privilege of viewing many pedigreed and prize winning animals in this section.

We then saw several commercial exhibits including electric milkers, electrical goods and farm machinery. One tent which attractied our attention as we approached the southern end of the field was surrounded by growing corn and upon entering we found a very interesting display of hybrid seed corn. We looked at photographs which showed beneficial results of using this corn on local farms.

Next we visited the amusement area when we took a thrilling ride on the swings.

Then hearing from the announcer's tent, from which interesting reports of activities going on were given, that judging was starting, we hurriedly reached the judging ring where the champion bull of the Fair was being chosen. After this we secured seats on the bleachers in the ring where Percheron steeds were being judged. An intersting and novel feature was a steed ridden by a man dressed as a knight and equipped with armor. As it was approaching lunch time we sauntered up to a refreshment stand to get our lunch. After eating we saw a man dressed as a Scot playing bagpipes. He was an accomplished player and we enjoyed listening to him and following him we came to the judging ring where the Aberdeen-Angus Beef Steers were being judged.

Leaving this ring we meandered toward the northern end of the field where snappy music was being provided by the Sudlersville Firemen's Band. After taking a final glance at the exhibits we left having spent a most enjoyable ad profitable day at the first Eastern Shore Fair which we hope having been such a success will be an annual event.

MY DAY AT THE EASTERN SHORE FAIR

By Elizabeth D. Pratt

Arriving at the fair at ten o'clock a. m., I payed my admission and began my tour of inspection. It being a dreary day, we tried to keep under the tents as much as possible. The tents were large and plentiful, therefore one had no trouble at all. In these animals placed here on exhibition, I saw some of the the most well developed I believe I have ever seen, although I live on a farm. There were, of course, large and small among all the animals. There was one of the smallest calves I ever saw in my life there. This particular calf was about the size of a fairly large water dog, and it was the "cutest" thing in the fair I believe. There were also some huge hogs on exhibit, and when I say huge, I mean huge. They stood about three feet high and weighed from nine hundred to one thousand pounds. The largest ones were black, alhough they had some red ones there that ran a close second. The cows and pigs, however weren't anything compared with the horses. The horses were really beautiful; all kinds, all sizes, and all colors. Their legs were straight, their necks arched, and their ears erect. Loving horses as I do, I could have gone on admiring them all day, but the "pangs of hunger" began calling my associates and I was dragged away. Just about this time, it began to "drizzle" slightly. Knowing some of the boys in the "hot dog" stand we asked if we might share their shelter awhile, and, being gentlemen, they gave their permission. While in there eating, we were informed, by the man speaking through the microphones placed around the grounds, that the races were to be postponed because of the muddy track. This was a great disappointment, but we lived through it. About twelve o'clock, it was announced that the Governor was on his way to the fair grounds, and, within fifteen minutes, he and his party arrived, well greeted by the Chestertown Volunteer Firemen's Band. The Governor and his wife, and a few other guests lunched in a tent set apart from the others . This luncheon ws given b ythe Centreville Women's Club and was served by the Centreville high Economics class. After the Governor and his party had luncheon was given by the Centreville Wopast his private car for his inspection. At the same time the stock was judged for prizes. I wasn't close enough to hear all the winners, but the livestock had really been trained to march well. Following the judging, the Governor and Mr. Dudley Roe gave a little speech. While these speeches were being made, the crowd was moving to the ring in the center of the fair grounds, where the "pulling contest" was going to be held. This was won by "Bill and Betty", a pair of horses owned by Dr. Crowl of Centreville. Altogether my day was very full and very, very pleasant.

Thomas Msaryk was the first president of the late Czechoslavakia.
