ONE ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE LICENSE TO EACH 426 PERSONS IN COUNTY

The Maryland Citizens' Committee, an organization sponsored by the Distilled Spirits Institute, Inc., "to the end that the conduct of the retail alcoholic beverage industry in Maryland might be what well-considered public opinion thought it should be", has completed a survey of the State and has compiled a list of all retail licensees in the twenty-three counties and Annapolis, including type of license held and the political district wherein each is located.

The figures disclose a total of 5,847 retail outlets in the State with an average of one outlet to every 279 persons. Hard liquor licenses totaled 2,093 with one outlet to each 779 persons.

During the four month period of this year, from May to October 1st, there were no revocations in 19 counties and only 9 in the remaining counties, four of which were subject to an appeal.

The organization reports a general lack of enforcement supervision in many counties because no funds have been provided for investigators.

23 Counties To Usher In December Safety Week

Maryland Trffiac Safety Committee Prepares For Third Effort To Reduce Accident Deaths. Meeting Wlil Be Held December 1

December Traffic Safety Week, December 1 to 7, inclusive, the third and final period scheduled by Governor Herbert R .O'Conor's Maryland Traffic Safety Committee in its program to cut down fatalities and injuries from automobile accidents, will be inaugurated at simultaneous meetings in the twenty-three counties of the State on the evening of November 30. This concerted drive, unique in Safety efforts in this country, will, it is hoped by Governor O'Conor, be so impressive that it will help to make the first week in December one of the safest weeks on record.

Under the leadership of the county chairmen, arrangements are being made to have the various clubs, organizations, schools, business men and citizens generally rally to the cause of Safety at these meetings, which will be addressed by leaders in the movement in the respective counties.

December, the month that means so much to grown-ups and children alike, because of the joy and peace that reigns over the Christian holidays, in the past has had a most unfortunate traffic record. Two years ago, in 1937, it had the unenviable distinction of being far-and-away the worst month of the year, with 72 deaths from traffic causes. Last year a splendid improvement was recorded, the number of deaths being brought down to 40. Realizing, however, that these forty deaths meant the loss of Christmas cheer and happiness in that many homes, the Traffic Safety Committee is appealing for increased care in driving and walking in the hope that a similar improvement may be noted for December, 1939.

Now, with the appointment by Governor O'Conor of the "working committees" on Education, School Safety, Enforcement, Legislation, Engineering and Statistics, the long-range program of the committee is being gotten underway, a program that, it is confidently believed, will remove many of the causes that are responsible for the fatal accidents of today. Better enforcement, improvements on dangerous spots in the roads, better lighting, laws that more nearly meet the requirements of today's speedy drivig—these and many other phases of Safety work will be undertaken by the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee, in the hope and expectation of making traffic safety gains permanent, instead of spasmodic as they have been up to now.
