SUDLERSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Anderson were guests on Sunday of Mr. Anderson's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Mansure, of Prospect Park, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gillespie have had a stheir guest, Miss Virginia Hildreth of Philadelphia.

Work is progressing very nicely on the additon that the Sudlersville Supply Company is building to their present grain elevator. When finished this will be one of the largest on the Shore. In addition to building the new additon, they have also purchased the canning factory across the road and will remodel and use it for storage.

Miss Joan Webster entertained at dinner on Sunday, Miss Henrietta Benton and Miss Harriet Walls.

The Epworth League of Calvary Church was scheduled to hold a party on Tuesday evennig of this week. The League will hold these parties every other month and it is hoped that the young folks as well as the older ones will come out and enjoy a social evening together. Miss Bertha Truitt is the fourth vice-president of the League and will arrange the games and stunts.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Walls and Mrs. Elwood Walls visited with Mrs. Glenn Pusey at Richardson Park on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Walbert motored to Chester, Pa., last Tuesday and spent the day with their daughter, Miss Phyllis Walbert.

Miss Henrietta Benton returned home Saturday from Baltimore, after being over there nearly two months for treatment. While in Baltimore she had her tonsils removed. She will remain at home now until after Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dill, of Philadelphia spent the week-end with Mrs. Dill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hasselburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Barcus had their daughters from Baltimore and Wilmington home with them for the week-end. Mrs. Barcus returned to Baltimore with her daughter to stay until Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Wilbur Stafford is having his home on West Maine street, freshly painted. He has changed the color of the house from white to cream and is using white for the trimming.

QUEEN ANNE

Regular services at the churches here on Sunday are as follows: St Paul's Methodist Church, Queen Anne—Sunday School at 9:30 a. m., followed by preaching; Epworth League at 6:30 p. m., followed by worship service and preaching at 7:30 p. m

Hillsboro Methodist Church—Sunday School, 9:30 a. m., followed by preaching; Epworth League, 6:45 p m., followed by worship service at 7:30 p. m. William Moore, of Queen Anne, was the leader of the League service at Hillsboro.

Rev. Charles Jarvis, pastor of St Paul's Church here, will entertain a party of house guests over the holidays.

Mrs. May Dean was a supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albrt Cahall, of Hillsboro, on Friday evening. On Sunday, Mrs. Dean was a dinner guest of Mrs. Clara Thompson, of Hillsboro.

Reve. A. W. Strickland preached on Sunday morning on the subject of "The Availability of God." His text was, "Th veil of the Temple was rent in Twain." Rev. Mr. Strickland was quite ill for a couple of days last wek, but was able to conduct the services in his church on Sunday.

Union services will be held Thursday (Thanksgiving Day) in St. Paul's Methodist Church hre. Rev. A. W. Strickland will preach the sermon. The service will begin at 10 a. m., and the general public is cordially invited.

Hunters hereabouts hav been busy during the last few days. Game is reported as fairly plentiful, though nothing to get excited about. We are told that only three boys reported at school—that is, three in the tenth grade— on the fifteenth. But a grand day was had by all, except th bunnies, perhaps!

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goodhand were the guests of Mrs. Goodhand's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kersey, of Kent Island, on Monday.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society met on Tuesday with Mrs Fred B. Sylvester as hostess, instead of Mrs. B. F. Sparks, as was announced last week. Mrs. Sparks wil' probably be hostess to the group in December.

The Hillsboro Official Board met on Tuesday evening at the parsonage.

Linen-Hints From a Famous Housewife

EVERYBODY knows this glamorous woman as Gladys Swarthout, famous American concert singer and opera star. Here she is in her favorite role as Mrs. Frank Chapman, who takes true housewifely pride in a lovely linen-closet. Gay polka-dots and chintz make up the decorative scheme, which Miss Swarthout changes every season — just as she changes her wardrobe.

Believing that an efficient linen-closet is as important as an attractive one, Miss Swarthout chooses sheets which have permanent projecting size-index tabs sewn into the hem so that you have only to glance at the size indicated on the "stick out" tabs to find the sheets you need. The tabs are marked for the five standard bed-widths.

Miss Swarthout has found that other bedlinen hints to bear in mind are double-tape selvages for extra strength, and reversible hems (a 3-inch hem at both ends of the sheet) for quicker bedmaking and longer wear. She also advises that sheets be stored flat and that those fresh from the laundry always be placed at the bottom of the pile for better distribution of wear among your sheet-supply.

DRAMATIC CLUB PROGRESS
By Janet Breeding, '43

To get under way we first elected officers: Doris Horney, president; Jimmy Coursey, vice-president; Florence Davis, secretary and treasurer.

Future plans hold for us: dramatic readings, impromtu acting, correct art of applying stage make-up, building model stages, participating in one-act plays, and a cnance to write plays. As a special incentive to do our best in dramatics, the outstanding actors or actress of the day will be given a gold star and this recognition will be publicly posted.

Several members have already had a chance to show their dramatic ability: Lulu Scheel gave her rendition of Edgar A. Guest's popular poem, "Home." June Snyder read the declamation "Death of Jean Val Jean" so well that everyone was spiritually transported to his death-bed and heard him brokenly bid Cosette and Marius farewell. I read the dramatization "A Dog of War," which told of the faithfulness of a dog to his master, and how his master later repaid the dog for saving his life during the war.

So far, all members have enjoyed participating in this club.

HOBBY CLUB PROGRESS
By Phyllis Palmer, '41

At the first meeting all members of the club received their equipment, a knife and wood necessary for carving. Immediately we began carving straight lines. At te second meeting we took the second step, carving circles, which still has us going in "circles."

SENIOR CLASS PLAY
By Doris Horney, '40

The Seniors are now planning for that event in which all Seniors may shine, the Senior Play. We have selected our play, "One Mad Night," which we hope to present before Christmas. The Seniors performed so well in "The Tomb of the Tormented" during the Hallowe'en Bazaar that we feel cofident we will also be successful in this play which runs on simliar lines.

"One Mad Night" is a different type of play from those recently given in Stevensville high school. It is a mystery-comedy with plenty of thrills! chills! and spills! for everyone. A haunted house, ghosts, weird happenings and maniacs, we have them all—so be prepared, when you come.

FRESHMAN PROGRESS
By Janet Breeding, '43

We "Freshies" are becoming more aware each day of the progressivness of high school. We never knew before how important a part a pupil could play in a class discussion. So we began to sit up and take notice when Mr. Bruehl asked Sudler Cockey to lead the class in its discussion of "Every Week," a duplicated newspaper.

Sudler felt strange to stand up in front of a class to lead an hour discussion; the class, too, felt strange when our teacher became a pupil. Nevertheless, we are all enthused over the idea and are looking forward to our chance to demonstrate our leadership.

CHEERFUL LITTLE EARFUL
By Esther Hoxter, '42

Mr. Rhodes: "What was the problem of the pioneers in the way of securing food?"

Elnora Walters: Osmosis.

Explanation: Osmosis means the process by which liquid and gases pass through moist membranes. (You figure it out.)

HOME ECONOMICS
By Phylis Palmer, '41

Excitement in the Home Economics room! Elaine Palmer, an accmoplished seamstress, had made a skirt too small. Discouraged and disillusioned, Elaine could only solve the problem by blaming it on "excess corpulence," for, as she says a few months ago, by the same pattern, she made a skirt that fit exactly.

Explanation: Elaine had merely left out two of the gores in her skirt.

RETURNS
By The Editor

Our soldier, Jimmy Coursey, returns, bringing with him a cold and sore throat. Jimmy, the man with the "monster laugh" in our Senior Play, gave our class the surprise of its life.

There we were, yes, there we were, all set for a nice deep, throaty imitation of "The Shadow." But what do we hear, a squeaky, female trill. Gosh! Jimmy, is that what being a soldier does to yah?

STARR

Mrs. Rena Adams and daughter, Miss Beulah Adams spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams, near Matthewstown.

SAFETY PROGRAM
By Mary Kathryn Thawley, '40

The Maryland State Police visited our school last Tuesday. After we took one look at their uniforms loaded with badges and medals of all kinds, we were sure that they meant business. Like everyone else who comes in contact with policemen, we were shaking a little wondering what awful crime had been committed that caused them to visit Sudlersville High. In other words, "Who Killed Who?"

We soon found out that it wasn't that bad. One of the officers gave an interesting talk on how to guard against automobile accidents. We then saw a moving picture which explained the causes of accidents. Horrible as the pictures were, they made us "sit up and take notice." The pictures showed some of the driving exceeding the speed limit, and others were driving while intoxicated.

In all of our minds the real reason for practically all the accidents was the carelessness of the driver in failing to stop to think. A good motto to remember while driving is "If you stop to think, you will think to stop."

"WHISTLING IN THE DARK"
By Helen Taylor, '40

On some night between this date and Christmas the Cox Memorial Hall of Sudlersville will see the sensational hit of the year . Its walls will ring with peals of laughter. The annual senior play will be given by the class of '40. "Whistling in the Dark" is a roaring, three-act comedy, featuring the young boy who whistles in the dark because he is afraid. The intermission numbers given by Roger Teat between the acts, add to the entertainment. Everyone wil be there. Watch for the date! Don't miss it!!

BATTERY TESTS
By Pauline Eihinger, '40

When the bell rang Wednesday morning, Miss Harrison said that she had a surprise for us the second period.

We were on pins and needles waiting for the second period. Did we get a surprise? Yes. It was a battery test.

We took the test and now await the results. We all sincerely hope that we never get a surprise like that again.

DIFFICULT TESTS
By George Ruppert, '40

During the past week the students of the school except the Freshmen have been taking tests in English literature, social sciences, natural sciences, and mathematics. The tests take in a wide range of knowledge, since they are given to college students, too. They are difficult tests, especially in the topics we are not familiar with, such as physics, economics and some parts of literature. Happily they are scored on tables which take in consideration the grade and number of semester we have had the various subjects The results of the tests are to be kept on records at Centreville for each pupil's rating. We have not yet received our individual results but, on the other hand, we are not looking forward to them with any pleasant anticipation.

RED CROSS REPRESENTATIVE PRESENTS AWARD
By Billy Emerson, '40

Sudlersville high school was indeed honored, Thursday, when we were visited by Mr. Gorden O. Stone and Mrs. Harry C. Reynolds. Mr Stone is the American Red Cross field representative for the State of Maryland, and Mrs. Reynolds is the county chairman for the Queen Anne's Chapter of the Red Cross

Mr. Stone gave us a short talk on the work of the Red Cross, in which he emphasized the swimming and life saving courses to all children during the summer months. In bringing his talk to a close he awarded Reese Bayne, a member of the Freshman class, a certificate of Merit for saving a life. Reese was a student in one of the Junior Life-Saving classes given in our county.
