A Christmas box will be packed for the Seamen's Church Institute. Each member is requested to bring a gift for a sailor.

DOMINION

Revivals are continuing on at Dominion Church. We urge each and every one to be present every night that is possible for you, as we are having some lovely services.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Johnson and Mrs. Jane Jones, Miss Ida Jones motored to Tilghman's Island Sunday to visit with Mr. and Mrs. E Harrison and family.

Mrs. Melvin Crouch spent a few days in Baltimore last week visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs.. Dewey Jones were in Baltimore last week where Mr. Jones went to the hospital for treatment

Mr. and Mrs. Getz, of Baltimore, were week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Tull.

Mr. Lester Lee and son Bobby, spent the week-end in Baltimore seeing Santa Claus and later visited his sister.

Quite a few in the neighborhood went over to Baltimore during the week to see Santa Claus and do some shopping. They were: Mrs. Howard Thompson, Miss Martha Dietrich, Mr. Rawlings Thomas, Benjamin Clough, Albert Roe, Page Johnson, and Mrs. Frank Lee spent the day visiting her brother-in-law, Mr. William Lewis, who is very sick.

Dominion was greatly stirred and shocked on Monday evening after the Revival Service at the church when "Grandmother" Thomas as everyone calls her got into a car to go home and complaining that she felt bad passed away, while someone was getting her a drink. Dr. Snyder was called and said she had had a heart attack. She would have been 74 years of age this week.

Unsuspected leakage, rust clogging and water scale cause much of the trouble commonly reported in radiator operation during the winter, according to a manual of cooling system information prepared by the National Carbon Company. For maximum protection against both heat and cold in the cooling system, a thorough check-up should be made before anti-freeze is put in the radiator, and again when it is drawn off in the spring.

The radiator core, hose and hose connections should be especially checked for leaks. White spots and rust stains on the radiator core are a sure sign of leakage from the seams. Electrolytic corrosion caused by saline anti-freezes and mineral impurities in water is a common cause of such seepage. Therefore care should be taken to use a non-boiling anti-freeze solution that does not produce corrosive action.

Old hose, the report points out, has to be watched carefully because, besides leaking, it often causes serious overheating by collapsing from water pump suction. It also sheds rotted rubber, which clogs the radiator. For these reasons, automotive engineers recommend that hose be replaced every 10,000 miles for best results.

Rust deposits and water scale often become so thick that they make proper cooling impossible. Have a service man check for scale deposits periodically, engineers urge. To avoid excessive formation, add as little water as possible after the anti-freeze has been put in. If a permanent anti-freeze is used, there will be no boiling and the water supply will need only a minimum of replacement.

When using non-boiling anti-freeze, be careful not to fill the radiator too full, adding water only when absolutely needed. Cooling solutions often expand a quart or more when the engine is warmed up to normal and are lost through the overflow pipe if the level of the mixture is kept too high.

The RECORD-OBSERVER has a splendid line of personalized Christmas cards on display at the office at reasonable rates. Come in and see them.

Mrs. Woodrow Montague spent part of last week with her father near Henderson.

Miss Mary Chance is spending two or three weeks in Phiadelphia, before the Christmas Season.

STARR

Since gunning season opened, every day you can hear the report of the guns of the hunters as they go out to get the little cottontails. One farmer went out Thanksgiving Day, the only day he had off, and never seen hair nor tail of any. He said, "He probably would have gotten some, if the hunters had not shot them all before he could get a chance to shoot one anyway. Some get them all while others get none."

Mr. Robert McClyment spent Sunday as the guest of his mother, Mrs. William McClyment.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas, of New Jersey, were the week-end gusts of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Smith.

Mr. John Smith and family from Marcus Hook, Pa., attended the funeral of his niece, Mrs. John Hollingsworth on Sunday afternoon at Starr M. E. Church.

Mr. Harvey Ivins, Sr., attended the funeral of his brother, Mr. Oscar Ivins last week.

The Revival Services that have been held at the Starr M. E. Church have been well attended.

One of the largest funerals that has been held at the Starr M. E. Church was the funeral of Mrs. William Hollingsworth, Sr., on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Hollingsworth was loved by every one that knew her and will be missed at the church, for she was always ready and willing to do her part in anything they held for the benefit of the church. None knew her but to praise. The family has the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.
